

Inner Healing and How the Spiritual Realm Works

First Edition

Kyle Ingalsbe

www.unitycommandsblessing.com

Copyright © 2023 Kyle Ingalsbe

The author hereby gives people the right to freely distribute this PDF file in its original form without any changes. This PDF file may be printed and turned into a book. This PDF file, or any part of it, may NOT be sold – only freely distributed. Any physical copies of this PDF, in full or in part, cannot be resold – they must be freely distributed.

Table of Contents

Autonomous Collectives.....	1
Preface	3
About Autonomous Collectives	4
Unity of the People with Specific Laws.....	7
Autonomous Collective Locations.....	14
Autonomous Collective Boundaries	15
Autonomous Collective Authority	16
Example of Authority.....	17
People’s Autonomous Collectives	21
Autonomous Collectives Can Mesh Together and Combine	28
Autonomous Collectives of Cities and Countries	39
Autonomous Collective Functionality and Effects	41
Autonomous Collectives and Ownership.....	52
Autonomous Collectives and the Effects of Singing:.....	54
Autonomous Collectives Summary.....	56
Fulfilling The Spiritual Laws of God	58
Your Spirit and Soul	61
Learning About How You Are Made.....	63
Your Soul.....	63
The Mind.....	64
The Imagination.....	65
The Emotion	66
The Will.....	67
Your Spirit.....	68
Alters.....	73
Inner Healing.....	75
Preface	77
Getting Started	77
Emotions are Easily Damaged.....	78

How Damaged Emotions Affect You.....	81
Healing the Emotional Damage.....	85
The Beginning.....	87
The Next Stage.....	89
Complexities of Healing.....	91
The Reasons Why Inner Healing Takes Time.....	95
Demons and Inner Healing.....	98
Confidentiality.....	98
Inner Healing: Fears.....	99
Healing the Fears.....	101
Fear Controls People.....	102
Fears Destroy Your Faith and Spiritual Walk.....	104
How to Get Rid of Fears.....	105
Fear List.....	109
Fears About Your Children.....	111
Marriage Fears.....	112
Deception Fears.....	114
Miscellaneous Fears.....	115
Inner Healing: Your Spirit.....	119
Importance in Spiritual Growth.....	121
Importance of Inner Healing.....	123
How to Rewrite Your Spirit.....	124
By Changing Your Belief Systems.....	124
God Naturally Rewriting Your Spirit.....	127
How to Rewrite Your Spirit to Do Inner Healing.....	128
Way 1:.....	129
Way 2:.....	130
Inner Healing and Lifestyle Change.....	141
Inner Healing: Releasing the Good and Breaking the Powers.....	143
Inner Healing: Accusations and Unforgiveness.....	148
Unforgiveness.....	148

Accusation.....	150
Final Thoughts on Unforgiveness.....	154
Reasons Why You Will Not Get Healed.....	155
Reason: Need to Pass a Test First	155
Reason: The Hurt is the Test	156
Reasons: It is a Waste of Time	157
Reasons: To Advance the Kingdom.....	157
Reasons: You do not Have the Legal Grounds.....	158
Reasons: People’s Desires and Beliefs Prevent Them from Being Healed	160
Reason: Demons	161
Reasons: Poor Diet, Health, Physical Condition, Stress	161
Reason: It Will Not Advance the Kingdom	162
Reason: You Can Get it Healed Yourself.....	162
Reason: You Brought it Upon Yourself	163
Inner Healing: Autonomous Collectives	165
Rewriting Your Home Autonomous Collective.....	167
Rewriting Other Autonomous Collectives.....	172
Temporary Autonomous Collectives	173
Warnings About Making Your Own Autonomous Collective.....	175
Shrinking and Moving the Autonomous Collective.....	176
Inner Healing and Taking Things to the Courts of Heaven.....	179
To Future Generations.....	181
About the Author	183

INTRODUCTION

In this book, I will cover three main topics: autonomous collectives, your spirit and soul, and inner healing. Knowing about autonomous collectives, your spirit, and your soul are the basics needed for inner healing. Without learning them first, is like trying to do multiplication without first learning addition. So, I encourage you to read about those things first, then read about inner healing. This book has been organized so that you will read those things first.

This is my disclaimer: I do not claim to know everything. I do not claim that this book will explain everything. I have not learned from anyone else when it comes to inner healing. I only know the things that God has taught me. And I know there is more to learn about the subjects in this book.

Also, some of the subjects in this book presuppose that you already have some teachings about deliverance and demons. This book was written in multiple perspectives, too. It was written as though it were to teach a deliverance minister and as a technical book to teach the average person. Sometimes the information will be meant for you or for a person you are doing inner healing on. Sometimes it will switch between both perspectives.

Autonomous Collectives

AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVES

PREFACE

The Bible mentions the Power of the Air in Ephesians 2:2. In this era, it is generally assumed that the Power of the Air is just a demon, or a set of demons, who are principalities. However, the Power of the Air is more than just a principality. It is also the laws that give the principalities power and authority over an area. For, principalities cannot do anything if they do not have the legal grounds to do it.

Another part of the Power of the Air is the constant whispers of man and demon, which attempt to influence, control, and manipulate people. Do not limit the understanding of the Power of the Air to just a demonic authority. Understand it as a place of power over an area, or someone, that both physical and spiritual beings war over. Having a position of power over something means having control over it.

In this section, I will go into depth about the laws that give the principalities power and authority over an area. These laws can also be considered as spiritual boundaries. But they are better known as autonomous collectives.

ABOUT AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVES

Autonomous Collective, by definition, means: “A self-governed group of people.” In the spiritual realm, a group of people can make the laws governing them. And all of these laws become spiritual boundaries. And these spiritual boundaries define who (God or Satan) has legal access to the people and things within them.

These spiritual boundaries can transcend the physical limitations of space and shapes. In the spiritual realm, these boundaries look like transparent walls, like a piece of glass. Everything on Earth has these boundaries by default. And these boundaries all have laws written upon them, which govern everything and everyone inside of those boundaries. The things written onto the autonomous collective can also define what is within them. It is also the place where word curses and blessings are written.

To start, imagine a large glass dome that covers an entire city. It covers the whole city, so it includes everyone and everything within that city. Now imagine that this dome has all the laws of the city written upon it for all to see. Now separate everything in that city into two categories: human and everything else (which includes other living beings and inanimate objects, air, etc.) Now imagine these laws will affect, influence, and dictate both categories.

Now, let's add more complexity: that dome exists in the spiritual realm around every city. And it has all the laws written upon it, which the spiritual realm must abide by. It affects both demons and angels alike. And it tells the Father how much the city wants Him involved, where He is welcome, and where He is not wanted. It also tells how much of the city, the residents have allowed God, via their free will, to control. It also tells Satan where he can be within that city and how much he is allowed to control the city, too.

So, if the laws allow Satan access to the city, then those same laws tell God to go away because He is not welcome. Meaning: those laws kick God out of the city. But the opposite is also true: if the people make God's laws the laws of the city, then Satan will be removed from the city. The laws will be either for Satan or God. There are no “in-between” laws. If it is not for God, then it will be for Satan.

The laws of the autonomous collective are decided and created by the people who live in that city via their free will. People's belief systems, city laws, and the desires of the residents will be written upon that dome. The belief systems will consist of the cultures, traditions, and religions of the people there.

When I say law, I mean this: a law can be any specific issue, moral, desire, etc. It can be anything from secret sin to blatant in-your-face sin. From secret prayer lives to the Acts church manifesting. It can be good or bad. Laws can be simple things like laziness, gluttony, or more evil things like witchcraft, human sacrifice, marriage destruction, strife, disunity, and slavery. Laws can be kindness, joy, unity, holiness, honesty, etc. You can consider laws as “concepts” as well. The man-made laws of the city are also written upon the autonomous collective. If abortion is legal, then the demons of abortion are empowered to rule over that city.

If a pagan religion or false version of Christianity is the predominant religion inside of an autonomous collective, then the regulations of that religion will be over that city. And all the demons involved with such a religion will be allowed to be in that city and dominate it. However, if true Christianity is allowed, and the Word is properly followed and fulfilled, then demons will be kicked out of the area, and the Kingdom of Heaven will be allowed to be there.

The laws are not limited to which religion dominates the area. It is also dictated by morals, values, people’s desires, and the spiritual laws they fulfill. A city of gambling will allow the demonic realm of gambling a place in the city, and you will not be able to remove it until you have the majority rule of people who want to get rid of it.

Suppose people do not have morals and commit adultery and fornication and are addicted to pornography. In that case, it will open up legal grounds for all those types of demons to be in that city and upon the residents of that city. It will also create legal grounds for marriage destruction to be upon the city, too.

If the city is dominated by the rich and they only desire money, then it will open up legal grounds for mammon to exist in the city. And for the city to be ruled by mammon. If the city is dominated by poverty, then it will open up the doors to laziness, defeatism, oppression, poverty, and any other demonic stronghold, which will keep that city’s citizens enslaved in poverty.

Read the section about fulfilling the spiritual laws of God to get more info. Depending on which laws the city’s citizens fulfill will also determine how much of God or satan is allowed into the city. Being upright and righteous is very important because it will cause specific laws to be written onto those autonomous collectives. And only when God or satan has legal grounds to an autonomous collective will they enter. The laws of the autonomous collective either open or close the doors to God or satan.

If the Christians allow an evil man-made law to be passed, then the city will fall into the hands of another demonic principality. And it will get harder for the city to be brought into godliness. One of the laws made by God is: if you are not actively fighting against satan, then you support satan. And that will apply to the laws over autonomous collectives, as well. If you do not rise up against evil laws and keep evil laws from taking place, then satan will be allowed to take over. This does not only apply to man-made city laws. This also applies to the morals and values of the people, their desires, how they act, and how they treat people.

AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVES

The Acts church was a city in unity. They had strict rules and regulations to maintain unity and love among the people. And this helped to maintain the laws of the autonomous collective. And those laws allowed God to rule over the city. You must be diligent to keep and maintain righteousness in a city so satan does not take over.

UNITY OF THE PEOPLE WITH SPECIFIC LAWS

The more the people support (are in unity with) a law, the harder it is to do spiritual warfare against it. And the harder it is to change things - especially when it comes down to revival. For example: if you go to China and try to evangelize a Buddhist city, then it will be very difficult. Buddhism has been entrenched for hundreds, if not thousands, of years. Plus, Buddhism has the majority rule. And this would make the laws for Buddhism written upon the autonomous collective very powerful. And it would allow the principality to be deeply entrenched in controlling that city. You could not change things until you had a Christian majority rule over the area. Once you do, it would be possible to kick out the Buddhist principality.

The longer the law has been on an autonomous collective, the harder it is to get rid of. Over time, the law will become stronger and become more entrenched. And the longer evil persists, more curses will compile over the city.

Things work in reverse, too: the longer God's laws are written on an autonomous collective, the more entrenched the Kingdom of Heaven becomes in an area. And the more anointing will come over an area. It will also open up the blessings of God to fall upon that area, too.

Laws tend to change over generations. It is possible to change everything to either good or bad during an entire generation (roughly 40 years). It is essential to teach the Word to each new generation to maintain the Holiness of an autonomous collective. You must maintain an autonomous collective and the laws written upon it with the Word. It is also important to be careful of who and what you let into an autonomous collective. Bringing idols, cursed objects, and items with magic spells on them allows satan into an autonomous collective.

Letting people into the city with different views, desires, and morals will begin to affect the current autonomous collective. Entertainment will have the same effect. Same with schools. The schools will raise the new generations and determine whether the city will become eviler or Godlier when the new generation comes to power.

The city's residents must take special care to walk in Holiness so satan does not creep in and take over. Satan uses plans to gain control of a city over multiple generations of time. It is a slow advancement tactic where small things of sin are introduced over time to change people's desires (with a lot of focus on children) and to change what is written on the autonomous collective. Once enough stuff is changed, then he can fully take over.

If satan has control over a city, then to regain that city for God, the opposite must happen: teaching the new generations to be upright and holy. Now let's get more detailed (with examples):

Example 1:

Here in America, we have diverse cultures, traditions, and religions throughout the country. And sometimes, it is that way with the individual states and cities. In America, some cities are predominately Hispanic or Chinese. One such city is Chinatown. Chinatown is almost 100% Chinese descent. And in this city, these people maintain the Chinese culture.

From basic deduction, an average person would say that it is obvious that Chinatown would be Chinese-like because everyone there is Chinese. Yes, on the outward appearance, this would be true. But let's look into the spiritual realm and see what is on the autonomous collective. When you look at the autonomous collective over Chinatown, you would see all the Chinese traditions, morals, values, social behaviors, and religious beliefs written onto that dome.

So what does that lead to? It opens the spiritual doors to the same type of spirits that reside in China. If, in that city, they mainly practice Buddhism, then it opens the door to the Buddhist demonic principality to rule over the town. If anything written upon that autonomous collective does not align with Jesus, then it creates legal grounds for demons to be in that city. More specifically, every line written upon an autonomous collective, which does not align with the Word, is a legal ground for a demon to be there.

What you need to understand is this: every time one of the residents says something or does something in alignment with the Chinese traditions, morals, values, social behaviors, or religious beliefs, then it will write another line upon the dome, which reinforces the accepted laws, which adds another legal ground for a demon to be there.

So let us imagine that there are 100,000 people in Chinatown. Now imagine that every day, each resident says or does one thing that does not align with God. And that one thing is written upon the autonomous collective. That means 100,000 legal grounds for demons to enter the city are added daily. If each person does it ten times per day, then it is 1 million legal grounds added to the dome for demons to enter the city – per day.

In reality, people go through their entire day saying and doing things, which will write things upon the autonomous collective. So it is not just limited to some small number. In reality, the autonomous collective may have one hundred or more lines per person written upon it daily. All because people are careless with their speech. (This is why we must watch what we say and be careful of our words.)

So, the autonomous collective will not have just a few things written upon it. It would have billions or even trillions. And if the city is thousands of years old, it could end up with as many as a quadrillion things written upon the autonomous collective. If you wonder why it is so hard to get rid of an entrenched principality over a city, then consider that you might be coming against 100,000,000,000, or more, legal grounds to keep it there.

This is not limited to the Chinese. This applies to every group, ethnicity, culture, or tribe, of people. It applies to religious groups of people, too, like the Amish.

(Disclaimer: The numbers quoted are to give a general idea about how quantity stacks up. In reality, words will not keep being added in writing but will be added in power. So those words, which are decrees, will gain more and more power as people speak them. And that power gives spiritual entities (good or evil) the power to enthrone themselves over those places. Other examples, which denote numbers like this example, fall under the same disclaimer.)

Example 2: (The Town of the Poor)

This town is composed of poor people. Most people are laid back and lack ambition. They have become comfortable in their lack. They have dreams of being rich, but they lack the motivation to achieve large amounts of money because they say to themselves: “I do not have what is required to become rich.” Or they may say: “I do not want to do what is required to become rich.” The people have become lazy and refuse to do anything beyond what they are forced to do.

After work, they come home, engage in entertainment, and do nothing. In addition to these things, the people are always full of complaints about their lives. But yet, they never do anything about it. And all of these things are passed onto their kids. Although the parents try to send their kids to get a better education so that they can have better lives, they still follow in their parent’s footsteps and remain poor.

In this autonomous collective, most things written upon the dome are via action. Or, should I say the lack of action. The desire of “I do not want to” is written upon the dome almost every time a person comes home and engages in entertainment. It is also written upon the dome when they refuse to do the proper upkeep of their lives, family, body, work, homes, etc.

With such a thing, the demon of laziness becomes a principality over the town. And that demon will drive people to be lazy and to do nothing. And in such laziness, it becomes impossible for the people to rise above poverty. And because people cannot get out of poverty, hopelessness sets in. And the people become hopeless. Then they give up and say, “Nothing will ever change, so I will not try.” And this is passed down to the children, thus, becoming a multi-generation downward spiral of poverty, where things get worse and worse through the generations. And this becomes their chains and bondage.

To further curse themselves, many speak negativity into their lives, claiming things like, “This always happens.” Even things like theft will set in, and some people will steal to have the things they want. And often, petty theft will set in, where people will steal items of little value, like pens from work, thinking that it does not matter because it had little to no value.

However, this theft will be written upon the dome, too. And it will open up legal grounds for more theft to happen. If things get bad enough over the generations, the town may degrade into a high crime area.

As people become increasingly lazy, the town will begin to degrade. The buildings will eventually fall into disrepair. And people will lose respect for things and how those things look. Things like vandalism can set in, too. Distrust will get higher and higher as the crime rate goes up. And unity will fall apart. Gangs tend to form when things get bad enough. And these gangs often become like “criminal organizations.” Unfortunately, these gangs form because it becomes a sign of hope for the hopeless. And these gangs become a family for those with “no family.”

(“No family” meaning: they literally have no family members; or their family disowned them; or the person left their family (reverse disowning); or they were thrown out onto the streets by their family and cannot return home; or somehow, their family does not want them anymore.)

The sins and crimes committed by the people in the town of the poor all get written upon the dome. And over time, more people come to accept it as normal. A thing to note: if you are not actively against something, then you support it. So those who are not actively against the crimes committed and accept it as normal, support the crime. And that adds to the legal grounds in the autonomous collective to allow the crime.

The theft the people commit brings curses of destruction upon them. One such curse is one where their things keep breaking. Another is to be cursed with constant lack. Another is the curse of poverty.

The unseen thing about this town is that the people are led by fear. They constantly fear that they can never rise above poverty, so they accept it and do not try to rise above it. They fear that their ideas will fail, so they never try. Instead, they stick to what they have always known. They fear they will fail at a different job in another field, so they stick to the same low-skill jobs they know they can do. And this is subconsciously passed down to future generations in this town.

The poverty lifestyle brings more challenges because the people end up under the brutal whip of mammon and debt slavery. This is where the people are only working to barely survive with next to nothing. This adds extra stressors to the working people. It causes them to be stressed out. And it brings them to anger, hatred, bitterness, resentment, and unforgiveness towards situations, people, and things.

Some of these people will turn into balls of hate because of their miserable life. Some will stop caring. They will all become more selfish because they will come to fear not having enough money. Generosity will eventually disappear. So will unity and community. Disunity, strife, and distrust will all set in over time. And all of this will add to the autonomous collective as it sets in.

And the poverty mindset will become locked for many generations.

Example 3: (A Local Store Within a Town)

One day, a single person had a bad experience with a local business, so they gossiped about their bad experience. This wrote a series of bad things onto the autonomous collective about this local store.

This opened up legal grounds for the demons to start whispering to others to get them to say negative things about the local store. People accepted what the demons said and began gossiping and saying negative things about the store, even if it were just minor infractions that were originally forgiven. Over time, the local store began to experience more and more problems, including accidents with people.

Finally, people started cursing the store, hoping it would go out of business. And one day, it caught on fire and burned down. And it went out of business.

Why did such a thing happen? Was it because of the staff working there? No, it was because enough legal grounds had piled up about the local store that the demons were allowed to create problems within the store. It was the town's people who decreed such things. Those decrees became written upon the autonomous collective, which became legal grounds for demons to be contracted in to cause problems and issues within the local store.

Over time, the negative things said about the local store built up enough on the autonomous collective that the demons were contracted to do evil unto the store because that is what the people of the town wanted in unity. And finally, a fluke "accident" occurred, and a light bulb caught on fire when the store was closed, burning the place down. The accident happened because a demon had legal grounds to cause the light bulb to overheat and catch on fire. And so, the local business was lost because of words released over it.

Example 4: (The City of the Acts Church)

This city operates as the Acts Church did. The people here work hard to fulfill the Law of God. When I say “fulfill the Law of God,” I do not mean: following the Torah or simply obeying the Ten Commandments. No, I mean this: people are properly honoring God. They are obedient to His commands. They are properly sacrificing, like God would expect them to sacrifice. They are fulfilling the regulations of the Law to open up blessings and provision.

The people here live as a community, not as people who live next to each other and have nothing to do with each other. They all have a singular goal: to expand the Kingdom of God. They also live to enhance everyone else’s lives. They live selflessly. They live as a team and community, in unity, as one. They honor each other. They respect each other and submit to others in function. They are obedient to Jesus and have good connections to the Seven Spirits of God, which is the Holy Spirit. Essentially, they operate as Heaven operates.

Because these people are properly following the Law and are in confirmation of the Word, all those things get written onto the autonomous collective. The love they have for one another is written upon the autonomous collective. The unity they work in is written upon the dome. They are all in one accord, so everyone agrees with the righteous things written upon the dome.

Due to this, a portal of Heaven will open up above or in the city. And the whole city will be affected. Because people properly worship God and love one another, specific parts of the Law are fulfilled, and overabundance flows into the city. New ideas and inventions are created. New ways of doing business are created. And these things draw massive amounts of money from the cities of mammon – all for the use of the Kingdom of God.

The city also gains anointing(s) throughout the city. And thanks to the city being Holy, a large presence of angels take up vicinity in the city, including cherubs, seraphim, and archangels who will help guard the city and help with its function(s). Not only that, the Holy Spirit inhabits the city, as well.

When you look up at the autonomous collective, you will see the writings of the Good things which people constantly speak of: How they speak about Jesus. The words of encouragement. The words of success. The words of Holiness. Even Bible quotes would be written all over the dome as people speak them out daily.

Because of the things written on the dome, satan would not have any legal grounds to be there. So, satan would lose the ability to take up residence there.

AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVE LOCATIONS

Autonomous collectives are not limited to cities. They also exist over individual people, homes, organizations, businesses, religions, collective agreements (like a collective secular belief system or group), written contracts, hobbies, idols, games, sports, entertainment(s), counties, states, countries, planets, or over plots of land designated to something. And probably over more things that I am not aware of.

And the rules of the autonomous collectives apply regardless of the size or location. When I say “rules of the autonomous collectives,” I mean this: God created a set of Laws that govern everything. Everything in all of creation must abide by these Laws. The laws of physics are part of these Laws. What demons and angels can and cannot do, are written in these Laws. And God abides by the Laws He created. So, when I say “rules of the autonomous collectives,” I am referring to those Laws God created for autonomous collectives to operate by. It does not mean: “the laws humans made, which are written upon the autonomous collective.”

Therefore, a city’s autonomous collective will operate like an autonomous collective for a person, business, country, etc. Only what the autonomous collective covers (includes) changes. The more people who are part of an autonomous collective will cause things to be more complex. Complexities include: what people are in unity with, what laws they each have established, their conflicting viewpoints, and their different opinions, morals, sin, and desires.

These complexities can be legal grounds, which the spiritual realm can take advantage of. But these things will only have an effect if these people have the authority to change the autonomous collective. If the people do not have the authority to change the autonomous collective, then the open doors these people have will only affect them, those in close vicinity, and those who agree with such open doors. (“Open doors,” in this paragraph, meaning: the ideas, desires, and words spoken by the people.)

AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVE BOUNDARIES

Autonomous collectives have spiritual boundaries. And these boundaries can act like walls to prevent spiritual beings from entering. And they can have gates, which allow certain spiritual beings in. These boundaries will usually be the same shape as the physical boundaries it surrounds. So, if you own one acre of land, and it is in the shape of a triangle, then the autonomous collective boundary will be in the same shape. Same thing with the boundaries of a city, country, or any other piece of land.

You can also create an autonomous collective boundary inside an autonomous collective. To do so, you can mark it out and decree it to be so. However, you must have the legal authority to do so. If you anoint a piece of land to take it back for the Kingdom of God, you are essentially setting up an autonomous collective boundary for the Kingdom of God.

Witches can set up autonomous collective boundaries by spitting on the corners (usually north, south, east, and west corners) to set up the boundaries, then providing a sacrifice or doing magic to steal authority. To take over a city, they will spit on all the roads which enter and exit the city. Then they will do the magic, or sacrifice, afterward. And this will give them authority to do evil within a city.

However, the same concept can be applied to reclaim the boundaries of an area or a city for Jesus. Instead of using magic and sacrifices, you would anoint the areas with anointing oil or spit. God will send many people to anoint various places. A lot of times, people do not know the reason why they have to anoint the various places. But if you understand spiritual warfare and how things work in the spiritual realm, then you will understand why. And reclaiming the boundaries, and legal grounds, for God to operate within an area is one of the reasons why. Another reason is to kick out the demonic.

In the Bible and in witchcraft, boundaries are referred to as the north, south, east, and west. But if you want to get technical about it, this is just a generalization of geography. And if you only anoint four corners or sides of an area, you are anointing the boundaries of a square or some shape with only four sides. I tend to anoint every corner of the boundary so that the shape of the boundary is properly drawn out, which allows for any shape the boundary may take.

AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVE AUTHORITY

Autonomous collectives can have their laws erased, changed, or added to. However, only those with the authority to change the laws can do so. Those who have authority over autonomous collectives are usually those people who have authority over, or own, the physical location the autonomous collective surrounds. Here are some examples:

Those who have authority over a city's autonomous collective will be the residents, businesses, groups, and religions within that city. Those with authority over a business would be the owner(s), CEO, manager(s), board of directors, investors, and employees. Those who have authority over a home would be the owners of the home and those who invested money into it.

Those who invest in a location will have legal grounds for ownership over that location, not unless special agreements are made, where they do not have ownership. Stock owners all have legal grounds for ownership over a company.

Those who have authority over a human is just the person, themselves, not unless they give authority of themselves over to someone else. A person submitting to a pastor, manager, or someone else gives legal authority over that person in that area of their life. So, if you submit to a pastor, then you submit your spiritual life to him. If you submit to a manager, then you submit your work life to that manager. If you submit your health to a doctor, then your health is in his hands, but not any other part of your life which you have not submitted to him.

By default, a parent has authority over a child. And parents should raise their children in the ways of Christ because they will have to give an account of how they raised their children on judgment day.

There are different levels of authority within an autonomous collective. The highest level of authority within a city or country is the government authority. And it flows down based upon that city's or country's authority structure. And by authority structure, I mean this (with examples): an authority structure can be where you have royalty, nobility, business class, then peasants. It can be a republic-style hierarchy. It can be a democratic style hierarchy. It can be a monarchy. It can be a dictatorship. It can be a military-style rule/hierarchy

Depending who has the highest rank in the authority structure will have the highest-level authority. And the authority will flow down the ranks. You will have an owner or CEO at the top of a business. Then the authority will flow downwards to the next highest rank, and so on.

Those with the highest authority rank can freely change the laws in the autonomous collective. Those with less authority will have less ability to change what is written upon the autonomous collective. This is where things become a little complicated, but I will try my best to explain by using an example:

Example of Authority

Let's assume there are five different authority ranks, numbered 1 through 5, where #1 has the highest authority, and #5 has no authority rank. Let's assume that we are in a company.

- #1 would be the owner.
- #2 would be the store manager.
- #3 would be the assistant manager.
- #4 would be the employees.
- #5 would be a customer or visitor.

Example of Laziness

If the owner sets forth an environment of excellence, it would be written upon the autonomous collective. And while the owner is at the store, the rules in the autonomous collective would be active, and everyone would feel the pressure of those laws upon them to put forth their best effort to achieve excellence.

If the manager is lazy, then a set of lazy laws will be written upon the autonomous collective because he has authority to do so. When the owner is at the store, the manager will submit to the excellence the owner put in place in fear of being fired. So, through fear, the manager will be in unity with the owner concerning excellence.

However, the owner only visits the store once or twice a month. Therefore, the store manager will relax when the owner is not around, and laziness will become active within the autonomous collective and the store. The assistant manager does not care if things are done in a lazy way or in the way of excellence. So, since the assistant manager is not against the laziness and is complacent, he automatically assumes unity with the laziness written upon the autonomous collective.

So, laziness is reinforced by the authority #2 and #3. Then laziness sets into the store, and legal grounds are established for a principality of laziness to rule over the store. And it affects all of the employees. Some employees have "Good Worker" written upon their personal autonomous collective.

And since they disagree with the store's autonomous collective, they reject the laziness, and the laziness does not affect them.

And these workers usually have more workload piled upon them because the other workers are affected by the autonomous collective (work environment) and become lazy. Let's say that one of the employees (#4 authority rank) tries to change the environment to excellence. They will fail because they do not have a high enough authority to change the autonomous collective.

Let's say that another manager is hired, and this is a manager of excellence who agrees with the owner. Whenever this manager of excellence works, the laws of excellence will be activated over the employees. They will feel the spiritual pressure from the laws of excellence being activated while the manager of excellence is working at the store. When the manager of laziness works, then the laws of laziness will be activated, and the employees will relax and become lazy for that shift.

If only employees are working, then which laws will activate? The laws of laziness or the laws of excellence? This will depend on which law has the most unity amongst the employees. If there are three employees and two support excellence, then the excellence laws should activate. However, whether it will affect the third employee depends on what is written on their personal autonomous collective. If laziness is there, then the employee may choose, through free will, to follow the path of laziness.

If both managers are working at the same time, what will happen? It will depend on who compromises and submits and who doesn't. If neither submit nor compromise, there will be disunity, conflict, and possible chaos.

If an employee becomes a "manager on duty" (which is a temporary manager when the official management is not around), then that employee will have his authority rank temporarily increase while working at the store. And that employee will have legal grounds to set, create, or activate the legal grounds on the autonomous collective - at least temporarily. Suppose the "manager on duty" employee is working, and the manager comes into work. In that case, the "manager on duty" employee loses his authority, and his authority level becomes that of an employee again.

Example of a Busy Store

However, if two or more employees agree to a certain thing, then it may be allowed, assuming it does not conflict with what is already written onto the autonomous collective. For example, if two employees agree that it will get busy at 1 PM every day they work together, and the management does not object to such a claim, legal grounds will be created for that to happen. If more employees agree to such a claim, it will likely get busy at 1 PM whenever one of those employees works.

Suppose the assistant manager disagrees with this statement and says it will be slow at 1 PM. When the assistant manager and the said employees work together, the legal grounds for it to be busy at 1 PM are thrown out, and legal grounds for it to be slow at 1 PM are put in place.

However, if the employees, throughout the morning, decree that it will be busy at 1 PM and the assistant manager does not reject such claims, then legal grounds will be created for it to be busy at 1 PM. This is because the assistant manager did not reject and negate the claims. Inaction to an opposing view means that you accept the opposing view.

Remember that the things written on the autonomous collective will not always be absolute. Suppose a special event happens in the city, where thousands of people from all around come to participate. In that case, the store will likely be busy, regardless of what is written upon the autonomous collective. Or if an event happens that causes people to stay home, it will likely be slow at the store at 1 PM, regardless of the law, and unity among the employees, saying that it will be busy at 1 PM.

Example of Customer Authority

As for the visitors and customers, these people have zero authority to change the laws written upon the store's autonomous collective. They cannot change how it operates, or even the laziness or excellence laws over the store. However, what they say about the store (which, by worldly wording, is the store's reputation) can affect it. Their gossip affects the hearts and minds of those who hear it. Gossip can be written upon the store's autonomous collective, too. And that Gossip may create legal grounds for things to happen. With that said, bless businesses instead of cursing them by gossiping about what you do not like about them.

If the visitor is an outside entity who was hired or given authority to examine and provide direction on how the store can operate, then it would allow such a person to change things. For example: if the owner had his friend give him advice on how to run the store, then the owner's friend would have legal grounds to change things, assuming the owner accepted the recommendation and allowed such advice to be implemented. If the manager hired a consultant on how to manage the place, then the consultant would have legal grounds to implement things if the manager agreed with it.

----- End Example of Authority -----

One thing to know is that free will supersedes all other laws on Earth. A person has the free will to choose to obey or disobey the laws written. Having laws in place will not guarantee that everyone (human) will follow what is written upon the autonomous collective. But it can subconsciously affect them. And it can create legal grounds for the spiritual realm to affect them (either for the good or for the bad).

PEOPLE'S AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVES

People have their personal autonomous collectives. I named this as their “area of influence.” It tends to extend out to a certain point. How far it extends, I do not know. And it seems some people’s autonomous collective will extend further than others. Once you get into a person’s area of influence, then their demons have legal grounds to start messing with you. And so do their curses, legal grounds, and open doors. But in reverse, whatever holiness a person has can begin to affect you, too, once you enter into their area of influence.

I remember a story of one man who lived a holy life, and once someone got into his area of influence, they would begin to feel convicted of their sin. In reverse, I remember a situation where a person gave a ride to a friend. And that friend had the curse of car accidents. And that person ended up in a car accident because the friend’s autonomous collective covered the car, giving legal grounds for the accident to happen.

If you are with someone and the same reoccurring situation (good or bad) keeps happening, it is most likely due to what they have written on their own autonomous collective. And once you enter into that autonomous collective, then you will get under the same legalities. So it is important to be careful of who you associate with and who you are around.

In reverse, your autonomous collective can affect others, as well. The curses, legal grounds, and open doors can cause people to fall under those things, too. For example, there was a guy who suffered from rejection. Either he would reject the women, or the women would reject him. Once a woman got inside the man’s autonomous collective, the man’s rejection demons would jump onto the woman and cause her to reject the man. If that did not work, then the demons would work to make the man reject the woman.

In the same way, if you live a holy life, your prayer life can affect the others who end up in your autonomous collective. For example: back to the man who gave a ride to his friend. His friend had the curse of car accidents on them. However, the man had prayed, asking God for protection against car accidents. And because God answered his prayers, there were no car accidents when his friend rode with him. But one day, the man let his guard down and forgot to pray, and satan took advantage of this and caused a car accident to happen because there were legal grounds for it to happen.

Aside from affecting others, your personal autonomous collective affects everything in your life, including your physical and spiritual state. Your personal autonomous collective contains all the words you have spoken over your life – both good and bad. Life and death are in the tongue. One of the reasons why this is true is because what you say over yourself gets written onto your autonomous collective. And these things become legal grounds for either satan or God to be in your life.

If you constantly say things like: “My brain is not working today,” “I hate my life,” “This ‘bad thing’ always happens,” “I am lazy,” or some other negative thing about yourself, then you have spoken a word curse over you. And that opens a legal ground for a demon to come into your life and cause those things to happen.

It also opens up legal grounds for you to become what you decree over yourself. The Bible tells us to be careful with what we say. And this is part of the reason why. Your words can bless or ruin your life. That is why you need to watch what you say. It is also why demons try to get people to say various negative things about themselves. Yes, demons heavily influence people on what they say in this day and age. And in 2023, an average person can have 90% or more of their thoughts and decisions influenced by demons.

If you speak good things over yourself, it will open doors for you to become that way. But you need to remember this: what you say over yourself can also become witchcraft. It is witchcraft if you try to build yourself up for pride or selfishness. In today’s time, there are many self-help books that focus on transforming you into a “better” person. Some of these books may have good ideas, but some only focus on yourself, which is witchcraft.

The purpose of building yourself up is to advance the Kingdom of God, glorify God, and honor God – it is not for you. To build yourself up in the Kingdom way is to remove your fears, detach from your idols, separate from mammon, and connect to the Mind of Christ, which is the Seven Spirits of God (Spirits of: Wisdom, Knowledge, Understanding, Counsel, Might, the Fear of the Lord, and the Spirit of the Lord), which is the Holy Spirit.

Actions also write things upon your autonomous collective because your actions are words. How you act, and react to anything, shows who you really are. And that is written upon your autonomous collective. Same with the tests you pass and fail. Your faith is written upon it, too. If you fail to follow-up your faith with works, then it is dead. And such a thing will be written upon your autonomous collective. If you pass your tests and finish your faith with works, that will also be written upon your autonomous collective.

If you have many bad things written upon your autonomous collective, then speaking, and doing the opposite, will begin to negate the bad things written upon your autonomous collective. I am going to give you a “quantitative example” of how things “work.” It is not what exactly happens, but it will help to convey the concept. We will start with Figure Scale 1.

:

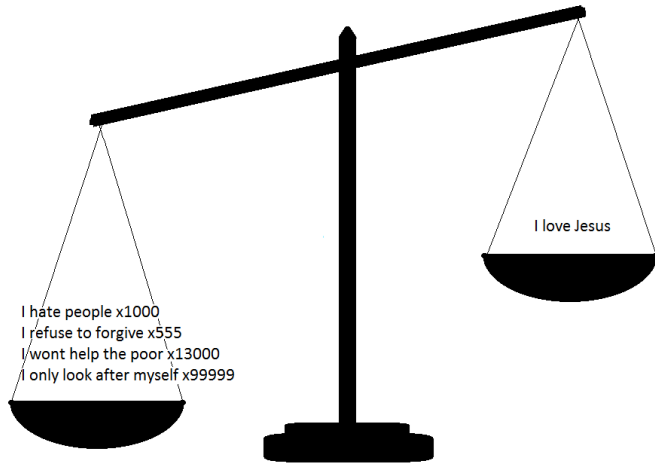

Figure Scale 1

In this example, you have a scale and a person's autonomous collective put on it. On the right, we see that the person claims to love Jesus. Maybe they have said it thousands of times. However, look at the left side. It is full of words and actions that were written over the decades. The reality is that if you love Jesus, then you will do as He commands. But the opposite is true: if you do not do what Jesus commands, you hate Jesus.

This example shows you that this person does not do what Jesus has commanded. Meaning that this person is just saying that he loves Jesus (with his lips), but in his heart, actions, and speech, he is selfish, hates his neighbor, is greedy, and probably self-righteous. The guy assumes he is saved because of the lies the pastor told him. But in reality, he would not be allowed into Heaven.

Let's assume the Holy Spirit changes the man, and he becomes saved. The scales will change to Figure Scale 2.:

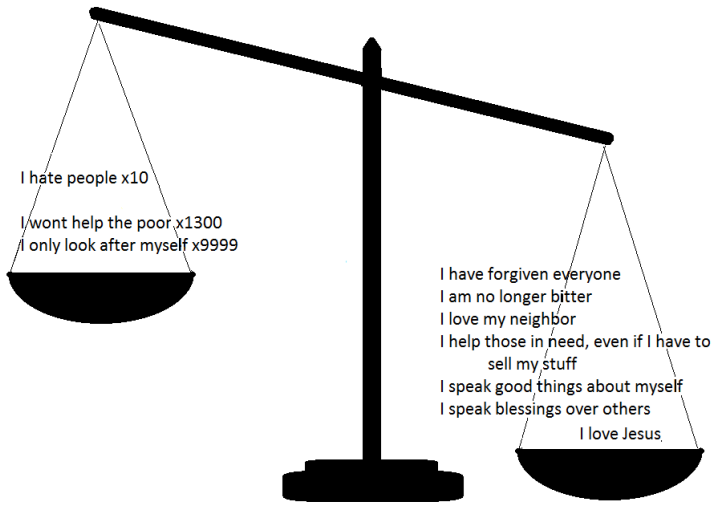

Figure Scale 2

The man has completely changed. He has come to forgive everyone who wronged him. And whether the man realized it or not, the Holy Spirit went in and changed his autonomous collective and started erasing stuff from it. And new things began to be written upon that autonomous collective. Eventually, the man started to follow the commands of Jesus. And the scales begin to tip in favor for loving Jesus. Although there is still some bad stuff there, as time passes, those things will eventually be erased as the man continues to walk in Christ.

This example with the scales can be applied to the things written upon the autonomous collective. And it is possible to fill the autonomous collective with enough good things to outweigh the bad things. For example:

Suppose a person has a fear of spiders, and the fear of spiders is “written” 10,000 times upon the autonomous collective. In that case, it is possible for the person to keep repeating: “I do not fear spiders” until that person no longer fears spiders. But it would require the person to say and believe such a thing more than 10,000 times.

So, this is what is happening: the “I fear spiders” is “written” 10,000 times upon the autonomous collective, meaning there are “10,000 legal grounds” for a demon to be there. Once the person says and believes, “I do not fear spiders,” 10,001 times, the scales are being tipped into the direction where the legal grounds are beginning to break for the “fear of spiders” demon to be on the person. And after the person says and believes, “I do not fear spiders” enough times, the belief will set in, and the demon will lose power over the person and leave. And the person will not fear spiders anymore.

Saying something 10,000 times seems like a lot, and it is if doing it over a month or two. But if it only happens once daily, it would roughly take 27 years to accomplish that. If the fear of spiders is instilled into a young child, then it would be simple for the “I fear spiders” to be “written” upon the person’s autonomous collective 10,000 times by age 35. But, if the person talks about it 50 times a week, the “I fear spiders” can be “written” 10,000 times within four years.

(Disclaimer: In reality, those things are not written multiple times upon your autonomous collective. It is only written once. But the size of the words will grow in size and in power each time it is decreed. If someone said “I fear spiders” only once, then the words would be small. But if they said it thousands of times, then the “I fear spiders” would be huge, covering a large section of the autonomous collective. Those words would have more power to them, too. So when I talk about writing the same thing multiple times upon an autonomous collective, just assume that the numbers I am using are describing the “font size” and/or the power level of those words in quantitative form.)

People who endlessly express their fears and troubles will have thousands of negative things written upon their autonomous collective. Those crippled by fear and anxiety may have tens of thousands of things written upon their autonomous collective. So, how can you deal with thousands of bad things written upon your autonomous collective? Simple: Ask God to show them to you, then ask Him to erase them.

One thing to know and understand is that spirits can see the writing on the autonomous collectives. And those spirits will operate in your life based on what is written there. If a lot of bad things are written there, then it can chase off any guardian angels you have. It can also block God from entering into your life. You must work hard to maintain your personal autonomous collective.

Another thing to be aware of is the words people have spoken over your life, which you agree with, have accepted, or did not reject. These words will be written onto your autonomous collective. A small child will accept pretty much anything told to them. And the negative things parents say over their child will be written upon their autonomous collective.

The children learn by example. So, if their parents, teachers, and/or friends are bad examples, then such bad examples will be written upon the autonomous collective of the child. And the child will become that way. And that child will open up legal grounds for demons to be in their lives.

But the opposite is true, as well. If the parents, teachers, and/or friends are godly, then godly things will be written upon the autonomous collective of the child. And the child will grow up to be godly in nature.

This also applies to you because you were a child at one time. And you even allowed those influences to be written upon your autonomous collective. As you grow older and wiser, you must be careful of what you allow to be said over you. If it is a negative thing, then you must reject it. If you do not, then it may end up written upon your autonomous collective and become a word curse to you.

Be careful of indirect word curses, too. Jokingly saying things can still end up written onto the autonomous collective and can be a word curse to you. Randomly agreeing to things to maintain peace, to be a “nice” person, or to get someone to stop talking, will be written onto your autonomous collective. If you disagree with someone, be direct about it and say you do not agree. Do not just mindlessly agree to something you do not agree with. It will give legal grounds to whatever you just mindlessly agreed with.

Speaking only good things over others is important so you do not negatively affect them. This is especially true when you are an authority figure over someone. And you must be careful to speak only good things over yourself, as what you speak will affect you and your life.

I tell people this: Your day is what you make of it. If you decree that you will have a good day, then you create legal grounds for the day to go well. But if you curse your day and say that it will suck, or be a bad day, then you create legal grounds for it to suck or be a bad day.

Remember that the expectations, actions, and desires of your heart translate into words. And these words will create legal grounds for things to happen. If you expect to have a good day, then it is a legal ground for you to have a good day. If you expect something to be difficult, then it is a legal ground for a demon to interfere and make it difficult for you.

Actions, even indirect actions, will write things upon your autonomous collective. If you hide yourself away in rejection, then it is written upon your autonomous collective. If you help the poor, then it is written upon your autonomous collective. If you are mean, then it is written upon your autonomous collective. So do good works, so good things are written upon your autonomous collective.

Joking Around

In this era, people love to joke around. But they do not realize the consequences of joking around. Worldly jokes can and will affect you. Depending on the joke, it can become a word curse unto you or someone else. In the spiritual realm, words can and will be taken in a literal sense. Even though you may be joking about something or someone, it can become literal in the spiritual realm.

Many people jokingly say negative things to one another, but those jokes become real word curses to the other person. Those negative jokes you say to someone else are recorded as an unloving act, and you will have to give an account of those things on judgment day.

Your jokes about yourself have the same effect in the spiritual realm. And those jokes you say about yourself are decrees and curses you put over yourself. Jokes are decrees and may be curses if they are negative.

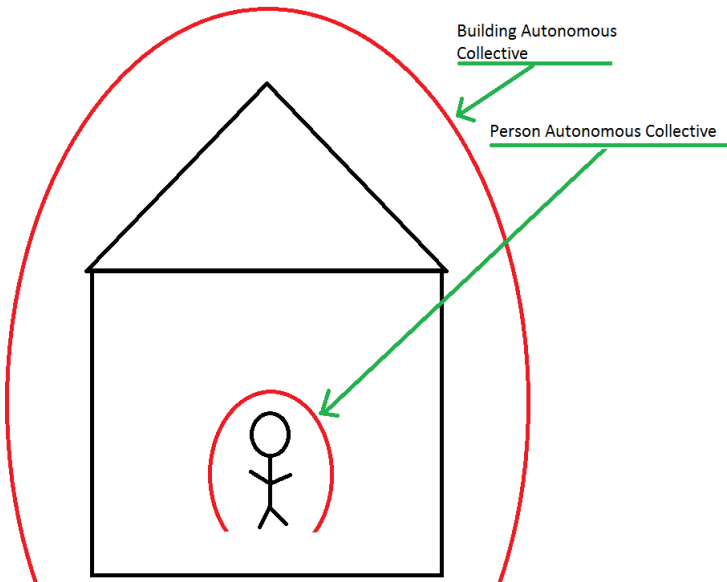

Same with excuses. Your excuses will be written upon your autonomous collective and will become your reality. Suppose you are talking, and you lose track of your thoughts. Then you make an excuse saying, "Sorry, my brain stopped working." This will become a word curse written upon your autonomous collective and allow in demons of forgetfulness, dementia, brain fog, and any other spirit that would cause your brain to stop working.

AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVES CAN MESH TOGETHER AND COMBINE

As stated before, autonomous collectives exist over various locations, entities, and even people. So what does that mean? Everything and everyone has their own personal autonomous collective over them. Therefore, it is possible for there to be autonomous collectives within autonomous collectives.

For example:

A person can be inside of a building. That person has their own autonomous collective yet is surrounded by the autonomous collective of a building. See the Autonomous Collective Figure 1 for an example:

Autonomous Collective Figure 1

So how does this work? In simple terms, both autonomous collectives will combine based on the legal authorities and free will. This means that there are a lot of different ways things can happen. I will only give some basic overview concerning this, meaning that what I write here does not explain everything. And since there are a lot of possibilities in all directions, including opposing situations, the explanation may be jumbled or jump around a bit.

One thing to note is how long the building has been around and how many different people have had the authority to make laws on that building's autonomous collective. If it is an old building with many owners, then who knows what may be on that autonomous collective.

If you gain ownership of a new building, it would be good to ask God to remove everything from the autonomous collective that is not from Him, of love, are blessings, or are good things over it. It would also be good to anoint the building and the land it is on and wash it over in the Blood of Christ to sanctify it. And also, remove any curses or magics put over it. And dedicate the land to Father God.

Here are some possibilities of how the autonomous collectives will mesh together:

Possibility #1: (The building is a home, and the person owns it)

If one person owns the home, and only that one person lives there, then the autonomous collective of the home and the autonomous collective of the person will end up mirroring one another. But if the home was previously owned by someone else, then there will be lingering laws on the autonomous collective from the previous owner(s).

To remove the previous laws, you must anoint the home and decree your authority over it. Then ask God to erase the autonomous collective over the home.

Possibility #2: (The person is the owner who lives with their children)

In this case, the owner is a single parent and the owner of the home. The autonomous collective will pretty much mirror the parent's autonomous collective, but the things the parent allows the children to put upon the autonomous collective will be there.

Now this is something to be aware of: if the parent allows the children to rule over them, then all sorts of things can end up written upon the autonomous collective, and who knows what kind of doors will be open. The parents are the spiritual leaders of the children. And their lives will influence the spiritual outcome of the children, so they must set a good example.

The parents are responsible for the spiritual well-being of their children. The parent must put forth a good example. The laws placed over the home must be in confirmation of the Word ('Word' meaning: the commands of Jesus). The parent must bring the children into unity of righteousness and into confirmation of the Word.

If laws of the flesh are placed on the autonomous collective of the home, then the children will conform to the world and become like the world. Parents, be careful of the laws you write above your home.

Possibility #3: (The person is married and lives with their spouse and children)

When a person is married and has children, what gets written on the autonomous collective over the home will depend on multiple things, such as: how much the children rule over their parents, how much authority is given to the husband, and how much authority is given to the wife. The people with authority in the home will have the laws written onto the home's autonomous collective.

Jezebel and Ahab spirits will set into the home if the husband is submitted to the wife. The spiritual environment will not have a chance to become godly. There may be a form of godliness in the home, but due to the home being out of order, it will not have the power of God within it. And you may chase out the Holy Spirit. A home out of order will open up all sorts of doors to satan, and it will negatively affect, and possibly spiritually harm/destroy, the children.

Possibility #4: (Multiple families are living within a home.)

When multiple families live in the same home, those who have the authority to write the laws will depend on the agreements (of who makes the rules) between the people living there. The same concepts from Possibility #3 will apply here, too. However, these are the things to note:

If things are unanimously allowed to happen, then those things can become laws written onto the autonomous collective. If a person has different laws written upon their personal autonomous collective, then they will have the choice of what laws to follow. If the law they have written on their personal autonomous collective is the opposite of the home autonomous collective, and they choose to follow the law over the home, then the law written over their personal autonomous collective may change to whatever the law written over the home is.

A person can choose, via free will, to be grounded in the laws they have written on their autonomous collective, which can close an open door on the home autonomous collective to them, personally. For example: if a person refuses to drink alcohol and is steadfast in refusing alcohol and the home has alcoholism written upon its autonomous collective, then the open door to alcoholism (which is upon the home) will not affect or influence the person who refuses to drink alcohol.

This is because the boundaries around the person say that the alcoholism demons are not allowed to cross over to them. But the demon is still allowed to talk to the person. And if the person accepts what the demon says, then it will have legal grounds to enter into the person's autonomous collective and jump onto the person.

This does not just apply to alcoholism and alcohol. It can apply to anything. It will all pretty much work in the same way.

Another thing to note is this: If a person has specific laws written onto their autonomous collective and lives with others, then those laws may not affect another person within that home. For example: if a person has laws of depression written onto their autonomous collective, then depression is allowed to rule them. However, the other people within the home may not be affected by this at all. But, if a person has overcome depression in the past, then the depressed person's demons may have legal grounds to jump, or at least tempt, the person who overcame depression in the past.

Possibility #5: (Multiple people together in a single building)

Multiple people living in a single building is where things are complicated. What is written upon the building's autonomous collective depends on if those people have authority over that building.

Suppose the people are meeting in a single building they do not own. In this case, you will have the laws already written upon the building's autonomous collective, and the spiritual environment will already be created. When people enter the building, they will be affected by the spiritual environment in one way or another. Some will resist it, while others yield to it.

But when everyone is there for a purpose, such as working together, having a meeting, living together, a party, etc., there will be unity in that purpose. And temporary rules will be active for however long people fulfill that purpose. So, if people are having a party for two hours, those temporary rules may only last two hours. After the party is over, the autonomous collective laws should go back to the original state, except if the people sinful or Holy acts to change the part of the laws written upon the autonomous collective.

If it is just a meeting, it may leave some stuff written upon the building's autonomous collective. If the meetings are consistent and similar, the laws for those meetings will eventually be written upon the building's autonomous collective. If it is a church-style service, it will affect and impact the building's autonomous collective. But the church service will also be affected by what is already written upon the building's autonomous collective.

One thing to note: if people are gathered together, then the curses and open doors they have will affect others. A person's holiness will impact the environment when multiple people are gathered together. Whether others can receive the holiness or blessings depends on the fruit they have sown into their lives, which is written upon their autonomous collective and spirit.

The open doors and curses on people invite demons in. And these demons will usually attempt to create open doors on people who do not have open doors. And demons use open doors to disrupt or mislead any Godly meetings. Or, if the meeting is worldly, then the open doors will allow the demons to lead and direct the meetings.

If people gather together and have a lot of open doors, legal grounds, and curses written upon their autonomous collective, then a lot of spiritual warfare would need to be done to protect other people, or yourself, from such things. It is possible to protect yourself from other people's curses, open doors, and legal grounds with spiritual warfare. Sometimes, people have such strong curses upon them that spiritual warfare will not keep the curses from affecting them. In such a case, the person with such a curse needs deliverance to remove the curse.

People with witchcraft and control spirits will, most likely, try to take control of a meeting. And such a thing will happen if people do not shut those spirits down. And if people allow those spirits to take control of the meeting, it will eventually be written upon the autonomous collective.

What is interesting is when the attendance of the people changes. When a person does not show up, their autonomous collective is not added to the mix, so the collective group rules change, and so does the spiritual environment. And when a new person joins the group, their autonomous collective rules are added to the mix.

When people come together in unity, their autonomous collectives will combine to make a temporary rule set. Suppose five people are part of a group: A, B, C, D, and E. If all five are together, all five autonomous collectives will combine as a set of rules for everyone to fall under. If A, B, and D come together, only A, B, and D autonomous collectives will combine for a set of rules. However, suppose a set of rules were established by the five, or the majority, and it is written upon the building's autonomous collective. In that case, those rules will still be established, regardless of whether one person is present or everyone is present.

Keep in mind that the following can be identified as 'being in unity:' a prayer meeting; coming together to work as a crew at a business; living together; being together for a joint purpose; comrades in battle; worshipping together; for entertainment; for magic; for witchcraft; for evil; and many other situations not listed. You can be in unity in either: good, evil, or selfishness (the flesh).

An autonomous collective always affects the spiritual environment. And depending on which autonomous collectives are combined will determine the spiritual state of the environment. When Christians gather together, you must be careful about who is there. The gathering of the saints can have different purposes. And depending on which purpose you are gathering for will depend on how the spiritual environment must be set. And by doing that, you will need to include or exclude specific people based on how those people affect the spiritual environment.

When you are training up disciples, it would be expected to have the unrighteous amongst you because you are training them into righteousness. But if you are doing deliverance, be careful with who is on your deliverance team to ensure they do not hinder, or thwart, the deliverance. If you are praying with a group, especially for a city or a large area, then make sure the people gathered are in unity so the prayer is effective and not thwarted.

If you are doing communion, only do it with fellow believers because you are setting up spiritual links between one another. And when you are attached to someone with a spiritual link, spiritual things (both good and bad) can travel between one another. And if you end up linked to an unbeliever, or just someone who professes Jesus with their mouths but are just mammonites, then you could obtain legal grounds for their worldly nature, or their demons, to jump onto you.

If you are doing worship, then be careful who you worship with. People with a bad anointing around them can destroy the anointing of worship and chase away the Holy Spirit. It is crucial to guard the anointing during worship. And sometimes, you can do that with spiritual warfare.

Side Stories About Worship and Spiritual Warfare

Side Story #1:

One time, a man visited a meeting. During the meeting, we did praise and worship. The man thought he was a Christian and professed to be one. He seemed to enjoy the worship. And it seemed like he was praising God. But the man began to pray in tongues in the middle of worship. However, the tongues were demonic. While he prayed, the anointing would wane.

After this happened a couple of times, I did spiritual warfare against the demon, causing the man to speak in demonic tongues. Soon the man stopped praying in tongues, and the anointing got a little higher. After that meeting, the man left and never participated in another meeting with us again.

Side Story #2:

During our meetings, we would do praise and worship. However, the demons didn't like this. So they would shut off the power, so all the musical equipment and lights would go off. This would disrupt the flow of the Holy Spirit because it would throw people off track. And the worship session would be ruined.

Having the power go out was a constant thing for quite a while. Then one day, I shielded up all of the wiring, and electronics, in the building with spiritual shields, so the demons could not mess with them. And the power stopped going off. So, I continued to do this every time we had a meeting. Things were fine for a few weeks, and the power went off again. The Holy Spirit brought to my attention that the demons were attacking the power from the outside of the building.

So I shielded up the electric company and all the electric lines within the whole state, and the power stopped going off. And from then on, every time we had a meeting and worshiped, I would shield up everything electronic in the building, the electric company, the power lines, and the electrical equipment attached to the power lines throughout the state.

I would even ask God to send angels to protect the power lines and electrical equipment, so the demons could not mess with them.

--- End Side Stories About Worship and Spiritual Warfare ---

Possibility #6: (Someone who is living in a rented property)

When a tenant lives on a rented property, the legal grounds of the property will be set by the contracts and agreements between the owner and the tenant(s). The building's autonomous collective may have laws written upon it from past tenants. It will also have the laws from the owner written upon it. The full belief system of the owner may not be written onto the autonomous collective unless the owner is living within that building, too.

The tenant(s) will have some legal grounds and authority to write upon the building's autonomous collective because they rent it, giving them the rights. Only if the rights are revoked by the owner or through agreement will the tenant(s) not have legal rights to add to the autonomous collective.

Suppose the rented property is an apartment complex where many people live together. In that case, the autonomous collectives of the people living in the apartments may mesh together because the people live as a "community" on the same physical property owned by the same owner (entity/person/people). And what others bring in spiritually will be able to affect the other tenants, too. (Remember that your spiritual environment is affected by your autonomous collective.)

And if open doors exist in other people's autonomous collective, then demons will attempt to create the same open doors in your autonomous collective. So, you will need to walk carefully in such situations. You may need to do spiritual warfare to battle off those demons or to protect yourself from the demons. But the same is true for a believer: it gives access to open doors in other people's lives, so Jesus has access. So live righteously in such a situation, so you are an example to others, so doors to Jesus will be opened in other people's autonomous collective.

It is possible to remove what other people have added to the autonomous collective, assuming you have the authority to do so. To remove things written upon the autonomous collective, you will have to know what is written there, and you need to ask God to erase it.

Possibility #7: (People who are all in the same church group (includes all religions))

In 2023, Christians usually meet at a single building to have a church service. Many other religions do the same. When you meet at a single building for your gatherings, the laws of the religion are established upon that building's, and/or property's, autonomous collective.

Depending on which Laws ('Law' as in: The Law created by God) the group fulfills will determine whether you open a portal to heaven or hell. It will also determine the level of anointing upon that building and property. For example: if the building or property is a place of worship, then the anointing of worship can come upon the place. If the building or property is a place of prayer, then the anointing of prayer can come upon it. And so on.

If you are meeting in individual homes, then the laws the group creates can, and usually will, be established upon the home's autonomous collective. If the owner of the home wishes, they may remove the laws from the autonomous collective. But here is the important thing about meeting in homes:

If you wanted to establish Heaven on Earth, one of the pieces required is to set up the Acts church within a city. In the Acts church, people met in their homes instead of "going to church," where everyone meets in one building for a weekly church service. When the people within an area become of one mind and unite to advance the Kingdom, the Law of God will be established upon the individual homes.

Group meetings in individual homes allow for the "when two or more are gathered" conditions. It also fulfills the Law of unity. And those two things will write the Law of God upon the autonomous collective of the home. And that will help conform the family to the Law of God. It will also help conform the community to the Law of God. And when enough homes are in unity, such things will be written upon the city's autonomous collective.

(Being separate from one another, and living alone in individual homes, where you have hardly any contact with your neighbors, will establish the law of disunity in the homes and the community. And that will help to tear down unity amongst the brethren.)

One thing to note about being part of a religious group is this: the religious laws you accept will be written upon your personal autonomous collective. Then those laws will be transferred to your home's autonomous collective. If you are involved in a religion that does not teach the truths of Jesus Christ, then the church group will have a leviathan principality over the group. And spiritual links will be connected to the principality, the group members, and their homes. And that principality will have legal rights to influence the members' decisions.

And to tell the truth: in this era, where the year 2023 resides, the Christian theologies taught by the schools are doctrines of man and demons. The theologies may have some truth, but they also have the lie within them. A lot of what is taught in this era's churches is the doctrine of men and demons and the doctrine of mammon. And the denominations which teach such things have gone so far off track that they are just another religion that worships a Jesus of their own creation.

Autonomous Collectives of Cities and Countries

Cities were already covered previously, so I will not repeat much of what was already written. A City will have a lot of autonomous collectives inside of its autonomous collective. Each building, property line, and human will have its own autonomous collective. And possibly more things will have their own autonomous collective, too. And all of these autonomous collectives will mesh together into a complex thing.

And countries are even more complex because they have multiple cities and regions. And all of them combine to influence the autonomous collective of the country.

One of the major things I want to briefly discuss is the different types of countries so that people can understand some things. There are many types of countries: monarchies, dictatorships, republics, democracies, and more, but I will touch on these four for now.

Amid democracies and republics, the governments will end up reflecting the church. Meaning that if the church is corrupt, then the corruption will enter into the government. The will of the people will affect and influence the autonomous collective of the country and the areas they live in.

The citizens can choose the religion practiced. And it will be passed on to the government. And the church can pick and choose the leaders, even if it goes against the will of Heaven. Suppose the government becomes evil and does evil things and passes evil laws. If the church stands idly by doing nothing, it means it accepts the evil being done by the government. And the church will be guilty of allowing the evil.

One of the delusions that people believe (in this era) is that you can vote in new people to change a republic or democratic country. This is incorrect. A nation will not become holy by changing from one evil leader to another evil leader. It is the Church that has to change first. If the church is evil, then the leader of those countries will be evil. If the church is holy, then the leaders will be holy. It is through the evils of the Church that allows evil leaders to be placed upon the thrones of such a country. If you want a righteous leader, then the Church MUST be righteous.

So, what does this mean? If the leaders of such a country are evil and corrupt, it means that the Church, as a whole, in that country is the same way. If the country's leaders are righteous, then it means that the Church, as a whole, is the same way. And the Church is held accountable for such things.

In countries where kings, emperors, and dictators rule them, the citizens will become a reflection of the Ruler (king, emperor, dictator) of that country. In this situation, the Ruler will make the laws and can choose what direction the country goes in. Since this is the case, the Ruler can directly write onto the country's autonomous collective.

The Ruler can also choose the religion. And the citizens must obey. So, if you have an evil Ruler, then a demonic religion will be passed on to the citizens to follow. This means that the country's spiritual state will be dictated by the Ruler(s) of that country. And the Ruler(s) will be held responsible for the evil. If the citizens know it is evil and decide to follow the evil, and do not rise against it, then they will be held accountable for it, too.

Autonomous Collective Functionality and Effects

Autonomous collectives can affect and influence your environment without you even knowing. People can add to the autonomous collective by the words they say and the things they do. They can add to it via gossip, slander, backbiting, and negative words. And they can affect it by the good things they say. The following examples show multiple situations at a company and how things happened based on what was written upon the autonomous collective.

Example #1:

There existed a large restaurant business with thousands of locations nationwide. It was run by a group of people called corporate. Corporate only cared about money. And all of their decisions for running the company were about money. They were controlled by greed and fear. They feared the loss of money, so they implemented strict rules throughout the company to prevent the loss of money and to try to prevent the company from being sued.

Due to the fear of losing money, and the desire to gain more money, corporate would reduce the number of employees who worked at the restaurants to as little as possible. And since the employees were paid by the number of hours they worked, corporate would cut employee hours as much as possible to save money. Corporate acted like a demon and turned their employees into slaves. They cared nothing for their employees and only cared about their money.

The environment corporate created was one where people no longer had the time to do their jobs properly. The employees had excess work heaped upon them, so it became impossible to do everything they were required to do within the time frame they were given to work. It was almost to the point where each person was required to do five hours of labor within three hours.

This stressed people out due to the impossible burdens they had to carry. The result was bitter, angry, hateful, and resentful employees. And this was the whip of mammon.

Since corporate ruled over thousands of restaurants, an autonomous collective was formed over all those restaurants as a whole. And due to this, corporate actions would cause negative or positive reactions from all the employees hired by this company. And the reactions from the employees would all be written upon the company's autonomous collective.

Since the company placed too many burdens upon its employees, the reaction was negative. And people began to curse the company. And they cursed corporate, as well, calling corporate management incompetent. And with so many curses of incompetency hurled at corporate, the Power of the Air over the company was able to whisper many ideas of incompetency and foolishness to corporate management. And decisions of folly were made because of the curses made against them.

The rules and regulations corporate passed down to the individual restaurants caused the employees to grumble and complain. And those complaints and grumbings became part of the autonomous collective over the company. The people complained and grumbled about the extra work they had to do. And due to the excessive complaints and grumbling about the extra work the employees had to do, legal grounds were established to force more work upon the employees.

All of this created a spiral of: employees complaining about too much work, which opens legal grounds for more work to be placed upon the employees, which leads to the employees complaining more, which leads to more legal grounds for more work to be placed upon them, which becomes a never-ending circle.

Such complaining opens doors to strife because if someone fails to do their job, then that failure would become someone else's responsibility and work to complete. And this leads to complaining about other employees who did not do their job. And all of the complaints end up written upon the autonomous collective. Then the complaints employees make against each other become curses.

Example of Employee Complaints Against Each Other

Employee A complains about how Employee B failed to do their job to every other employee. This sets up curses against Employee B. The gossip also changes the hearts of the other employees against Employee B. As time progresses and Employee A keeps complaining and gossiping about Employee B, more and more word curses are written onto the autonomous collective about Employee B. And as more gossip against Employee B happens, more people turn against Employee B and unite with Employee A against Employee B. And this gives more power to the Power of the Air.

Eventually, the Power of the Air has the legal grounds to cause Employee B to always fulfill the word curses spoken over them by Employee A. And once demons have legal grounds, they will cause Employee B to fail to do their job. And the demons do this to turn people against each other, to cause conflict, inner fighting, and gossip. (We should be careful of our words and make sure we speak only good things about others because it gives the Power of the Air the ability to make such things come true – either good or bad.)

INNER HEALING AND HOW THE SPIRITUAL REALM WORKS

--- End Example of Employee Complaints Against Each Other ---

Example #2:

In this example, we will examine a single restaurant from the large restaurant chain in Example #1. Although the restaurant chain is under a single autonomous collective, each restaurant has its own autonomous collective within the larger corporate autonomous collective.

The restaurant chain has a chain of command that helps manage and run all the restaurants. There is a manager in this chain of command who has the title of “district manager.” A district manager will manage multiple restaurants located in five different cities. And this particular district manager we are examining is concerned with making themselves look good to the corporate managers. And this district manager is looking to increase the profits of a particular restaurant. So, this district manager tries to cut costs as much as possible, including cutting employee hours of this particular restaurant they oversee.

In this particular restaurant, the restaurant manager is lazy. And due to that, the manager desires not to have many customers. Since the manager has authority over the restaurant, such a desire is written on the restaurant's autonomous collective. This gives the Power of the Air authority to prevent customers from visiting the restaurant. So, when the restaurant manager works, it is usually slow, where not many customers come to the restaurant, not unless there is some special event that causes an influx of people to be within the city.

Since the restaurant manager is lazy, things are done lazily and without excellence. Things are also done incorrectly. And, sometimes, things are not done at all. And such things are written upon the restaurant's autonomous collective. Due to this, a spirit of laziness becomes one of the principalities over the restaurant. And this spirit affects everyone in the restaurant. So, everyone begins to suffer from laziness within the restaurant.

Since hours are cut, and laziness has legal grounds, the following things happen: things do not get done; things are not done correctly; things are not cleaned correctly; people feel drained; people do not want to work; strife sets in because people do not do their jobs; gossiping about others set in; people become discouraged; people stop caring to do their job properly; and complaining about others intensify.

The restaurant's assistant manager is lazy, pushing their work onto the other employees. When other employees do not get things done, the assistant manager will gossip and complain to the other employees about it. The assistant manager can see all the faults in others but cannot see their faults. The assistant manager is also full of pride and looks down on others.

Since the assistant manager has authority in the restaurant, the assistant manager's slander against others becomes part of the written law on the autonomous collective. So if the assistant manager slanders an employee, saying they are lazy, then such a thing becomes written law on the autonomous collective. And the spirit of laziness has legal grounds to come upon such an employee while they work and cause the employee to become lazy.

But the assistant manager has a favorite employee. And the assistant manager always speaks well about this employee and says good things about them. And such things are written upon the autonomous collective. Due to this, the spirit of excellence has legal grounds to come upon the assistant manager's favorite employee and cause them to be excellent in their work.

Example #3: (The Story of the Closers)

A Definition: A 'closer' is an employee who cleans and closes the restaurant at the end of the day.

Example #3 is within the same restaurant as Example #2. Employee A was a closer who worked in this restaurant. Employee A did a good enough job, according to the manager. But the assistant manager was constantly critical of the work of Employee A. And so the assistant manager always complained about Employee A. So, Employee B was hired to replace Employee A as a closer.

Employee B tried to walk the path of excellence and do everything correctly. But it took an extra hour to clean the things which were never properly cleaned. And it took extra time to prepare the restaurant for the morning shift because of the additional demands from the assistant manager. And this caused the company to pay an extra hour or two in wages every day Employee B worked (about 1/8th to 1/4th of a daily wage).

The assistant manager was friends with the district manager. The district manager was offended because Employee B took more time to do everything correctly. So, the assistant manager and district manager gossiped about it with each other. The assistant manager gossiped about it with the other employees behind Employee B's back. This set up laws upon the autonomous collective for Employee B to always take excessive time while cleaning and preparing the store.

And due to the laws written upon the autonomous collective, even if Employee B was going to complete everything early, the Power of the Air had the legal grounds to delay things so that Employee B would take extra time. And such things happened until the district manager set a new rule stating that Employee B must leave no later than 30 minutes after he was scheduled to leave work. This made it impossible for Employee B to do his job unless he yielded to laziness.

Brokenness set into Employee B, and he lost the desire to excel and do his best. The same despair, and lack of care, which the other employees had, set into Employee B. So, Employee B began to cut corners, as the other employees did. And he resigned himself to doing his best within the limitations placed upon him by upper management, which resulted in fewer things being done, and poor cleaning methods.

Example #4: (The Effects of Slander)

A Definition: An opener is an employee who prepares the restaurant in the morning for business.

Example #4 is within the same restaurant as Example #2. The assistant manager was an opener and wanted the restaurant to be prepared in a specific way by the closer. When the restaurant was not prepared in the specified manner, the assistant manager would slander the closer for it to every employee she worked with.

Since Employee B was placed under new time restrictions and could not put the place in order like the assistant manager wanted, the assistant manager began to slander Employee B about everything he could not accomplish. This went on for months. And this established laws upon the autonomous collective, which gave the Power of the Air the authority to cause Employee B to make mistakes and to delay him so things would not get done the way the assistant manager desired.

In this particular restaurant, there were three openers: the assistant manager, the restaurant manager, and Employee C. The restaurant manager and Employee C did not slander Employee B as the assistant manager did. So, what happened? The slander (laws), which the assistant manager wrote upon the autonomous collective, bore fruit. And that fruit only affected her. And this is how it affected only her:

The closer had eight different tasks to close the restaurant at night successfully. Normally, the closer would be successful in completing those tasks every night. However, the assistant manager gossiped about four tasks because they were not completed according to her standards. And the assistant manager gossiped about how Employee B failed at these tasks. Once that gossip was recorded onto the autonomous collective of the restaurant, the Power of the Air had the authority to cause Employee B to fail in those four tasks every night he closed if the assistant manager was working the next morning.

However, those laws did not activate when the manager, or Employee C, opened the following day. So, Employee B always completed his tasks correctly. This was because the manager and Employee C did not participate in Employee B's slandering. The slander became a curse only to the assistant manager.

She declared (gossiped) that Employee B would fail in four different tasks to many different employees. It was the seed she had sown as a law onto the autonomous collective. And then, she was forced to go through what she decreed about Employee B. This happened because of the following spiritual law: Whatever you sow, you must reap. The assistant manager always received what she complained about because she reaped what she sowed.

If you speak good about others, even if they are doing wrong, then it can open up the legal grounds for God to change the person. However, if you are intent on speaking evil about someone or always point out a person's fault as though it was the truth, then it will create legal grounds for the Power of the Air to cause the person to become however you slandered them. And that person will only be that way around you, assuming it is not part of their personality.

Now if the person you speak about accepts whatever you say as truth, they will enable that seed in their life. If you speak good when they are doing bad, and they believe the good, then improvement should come upon them. If you speak evil about someone's fault, and they accept it, it will enable legal grounds for demons to be on them and cause such a fault to become part of their lives – and such a fault may get worse.

Example #5: (Restaurant is Busy, Not Busy)

Example #5 is within the same restaurant as Example #2.

In the restaurant, the employees put a curse over the restaurant which said: "If someone mentions that it is slow (very few customers), then there will be a rush of customers." Everyone, except Employee B, agrees with such a statement. Therefore, it became a law written upon the restaurant's autonomous collective. So whenever someone says: "It is slow," then the Power of the Air has legal grounds to cause a rush of customers to come in.

In the same restaurant, Employee A and Employee C are also closers. With these people, they accept an idea that states: "We will be busy with tons of customers right up until we lock the doors at night." Often, such things will happen because it is written upon the autonomous collective as though it were fact. So, the Power of the Air has the legal grounds to make it "fact."

However, Employee B is diligent with his prayers, unlike other employees. He will pray daily to have enough time to finish his closing tasks. He will pray the same prayer for his coworkers, too. He does not accept the things written upon the autonomous collective, either. And since a closer is considered a temporary "manager," he has legal grounds to override some of the things written upon the autonomous collective.

And God makes things easy for Employee B and his crew. About two hours before closing, when part of the crew leaves, God slows the number of customers coming in, which allows the other employees time to get things done.

*Example #6: (Atoms Obey the Laws of the Autonomous Collective)Preface

In this era, people consider atoms and objects as inanimate. They assume these things are not alive and do not have a conscience. In reality, it is the opposite. There is evidence in the Bible where Jesus claimed the rocks could cry out, and Psalms says the stars sing praises to God. The rocks crying out and the stars singing praises to God is not some happy figurative language or miracle. It is reality. Atoms (and objects) really can talk and have a conscience and feelings.

Objects are also obedient to the things written upon autonomous collectives, too. And they are obedient when we ask them to do things (assuming it is legal for them to do so or you have the authority to tell them to do something, such as telling the water to turn into wine, which is telling some of the atoms to restructure themselves into grapes and alcohol).

This example exists within a sandwich shop. In this shop, there are cheese slices that come packaged together. At one point and time, it was difficult for Employee A to separate the cheese slices, so Employee A complained to Employee B. Employee B accepted the words from Employee A and tried to separate the cheese slices. Employee B found the cheese slices hard to separate. Therefore, the two employees unified in the idea that the cheese slices are hard to separate. And so it was written upon the store's autonomous collective.

The two employees gossiped about the cheese, and the rumor spread among the rest of the employees. The other employees began to find the cheese hard to separate. And this lasted for a long time. Then Employee D was hired. He took a different approach to the cheese. He would ask the cheese to separate easily. The cheese obeyed and would separate easier for Employee D.

However, there were times when it was still difficult for Employee D to separate the cheese slices. This was due to the laws written upon the store's autonomous collective. So, Employee D would decree: "While I am working at this store today, the laws about the cheese being difficult to separate, which are written upon the store's autonomous collective, will be blotted out. In the name of Jesus." Then Employee D would decree that his autonomous collective would cover the whole store.

In doing these things, the negative laws about the cheese would be temporarily removed from the store, and new laws, which said the cheese was easy to separate, would be placed over the store while Employee D was working at the store. However, Employee D noticed that the cheese would become difficult to separate when Employee A stood beside him. This was due to Employee A's autonomous collective mixing with Employee D's autonomous collective. This caused dual laws over the cheese, which said it was hard and easy for the cheese to separate.

Employee D noticed this and decreed, "Employee A's autonomous collective is to be restricted to one millimeter of their body for as long as I am at the store today. In the name of Jesus." Afterward, Employee A's autonomous collective was restricted to only affect Employee A. And when Employee A stood next to Employee D, the cheese was easy to separate. And when Employee A separated the cheese, it was easy to separate because Employee D's autonomous collective was the only set of laws over the cheese.

The cheese was only difficult to separate because that is what everyone expected and wanted. The cheese knew the laws written upon the autonomous collective and the employees' intentions, which said, "The cheese slices are hard to separate." So, the cheese slices obeyed the people and the laws upon the autonomous collective and bonded together to make it difficult to separate the cheese slices.

Employee D changed the laws over the cheese. He blotted out the negative laws and restricted other autonomous collectives from expanding over the cheese to interfere with the laws he set up over the cheese to make it easier to separate. The blotting out of the laws of the store's autonomous collective was only temporary, which only lasted the same amount of time Employee D worked at the store. Once he left, everything would go back to normal.

A Warning: doing things like this can be witchcraft and might get you in trouble with God.

Summary

Inanimate objects and plants are conscious and have feelings. They will obey the Law that God created. And they tend to obey the laws written upon the autonomous collectives. Sometimes, they will do what you tell them (which includes the negative things you say to them). Treat them nicely, and they should respond in kind. Inanimate objects have a purpose. And they want to be used for that purpose, too.

Autonomous Collectives and Ownership

You can gain ownership of an autonomous collective in many different ways. Land ownership can be transferred to you from the owner(s), or you can claim it for yourself. If you purchase a building or land from someone, it gives you ownership. You can gain ownership from inheritance. Or you can claim ownership if no one owns it. And you can steal ownership.

Making decrees over an area will be written on that area's autonomous collective. If you decree that you own a property or building, it will be written on the autonomous collective. If someone else already owns it, trying to force the ownership change using ungodly methods is witchcraft. But there are times when God will have someone make proclamations of ownership over something. If this happens, then know it is to set a specific precedence, so the Law of God can be fulfilled. Sometimes this is done as part of spiritual warfare to reclaim land for the Kingdom.

I will give you an example of someone who unknowingly stole the authority of a home for himself:

Example of a Man Who Stole Authority Over a Home

There existed a particular ministry. In this ministry, a family moved to a new home and gave their old home to the ministry. The ministry was glad to have it because it gave them another home to place the homeless in. However, before the home was renovated and ready to have people move into it, a homeless man, a ministry member, entered the home and started living there.

He started telling everyone in the ministry that he was going to own the home and that he already owned the home. The other ministry members began to believe it, meaning they united with the idea that the man owned the home. This set the precedence for ownership to begin to shift over to him. He didn't know it, but what he was doing was witchcraft.

Because of the ownership shift from the ministry to the man, the spiritual environment changed within the home. Since the man gained authority over the home's autonomous collective, the home's autonomous collective began to mirror the autonomous collective of the man. And since the man was not holy, the spiritual environment shifted unto unholiness.

Eventually, the man was made to move, and other people moved into the home. The home was anointed with the blood of Christ. One of the people who moved in was aware of the authority shift of the home from the ministry to the man. So they removed the authority the man had over the place and set the authority back to where it needed to be.

--- End example of a man who stole authority over a home ---

Autonomous Collectives and the Effects of Singing:

Singing will affect your autonomous collective, too. Whatever you sing will also be written upon your autonomous collective. If you sing blessings over yourself, they are written over you. But if you sing curses over you, then you will have the curses written over you. Those things sung can also be written upon the autonomous collectives of buildings and areas.

In the year 2023, there exist many different genres of music. I will cover a few, so you can understand how they affect people and autonomous collectives.

One is called 'rap,' 'R&B,' or 'hip-hop.' This type of genre usually has the following themes: sex, violence, theft, drug use, money, fame, committing crimes, pride, bragging, poverty, alcoholism, and vanity. In my country, there are high-poverty areas called ghettos. These ghettos usually have a lot of crime. There are many reasons for this, but I will only focus on the effect of singing.

In the ghettos, most of the music sung is of the 'rap,' 'R&B,' or 'hip-hop' genre. And all of the themes from the music are written upon the autonomous collective of that ghetto. So when people sing about having premarital sex, then premarital sex is written upon the autonomous collective of the ghetto and the people singing it. And it opens the door to premarital sex. And it does happen. And it leads to bastards being born. And this leads to the bastard curse, which leads to separation from God for 400 years.

When people sing about violence, they write violence upon their autonomous collective. Same with theft and crime. And when multiple people sing the same song, it creates unity within those people and those lyrics. And after enough people are in unity with such a song (meaning that they have all sung the same song and agree with it), it will be written onto the autonomous collective of the ghetto. And then you see doors open to crime, theft, and violence. This will happen with the rest of the themes which are sung, too.

Usually, ghettos are poverty areas. Although money is sung about in the music, it only flows into the ghetto in small amounts. So, money becomes one of the gods worshiped in the ghetto. And the money is blocked because of the people's sins within the ghetto and due to the curses over the people and the curses over the ghetto.

In this country, it has been revealed that some songs are magic spells. This means that people are singing magic spells over themselves. And this binds them down to the satanic. Songs being magic spells are not limited to a single genre. It spans over multiple ones.

This is information for those who wish to see changes happen within areas similar to ghettos: if you would change such a place, you would first have to change people's view to a Godly view. And you would have to get them to stop singing such curses and magic over themselves. Music is one of those things which creates their chains of bondage and keeps them chained in bondage.

Another genre is called 'country music.' This genre usually has a theme about relationships where they love someone or the relationship ends. Consider singing songs about how your relationship will end or go bad. The music doesn't use names to describe people. No, it uses words like: 'I,' 'my,' and 'me.'

So imagine the consequences of signing a song that says, 'My spouse left me, and now I am all alone.' That is being written onto YOUR autonomous collective, not the singer's, because YOU sang it. It opens the door for your spouse to leave you and cause you to be all alone. Even if your spouse has already left you, just singing the 'I am all alone' part of the song will write a curse to keep you 'all alone.'

Autonomous Collectives Summary

Autonomous collectives are spiritual boundaries with complex laws written upon them. What you say and do will write those laws upon those autonomous collectives. The Bible tells us to be careful of what we speak. It also tells us to “do unto others as you would have them do unto you.” One of the reasons the Bible tells us those things is because those things will be written upon the autonomous collectives.

Maintaining the correct laws on the autonomous collective is imperative to having and maintaining a holy and sanctified life, home, area, city, and country. If the laws you make cast out God, then satan will enter. If the laws you make are selfish, then they will block God and angels from entering, and satan will enter.

Most of the problems people have are self-inflicted. It is due to their ignorance because they do not know that they are ruining their lives with what they say and do. God said, “My people die due to a lack of knowledge.” Not knowing how the spiritual realm works can kill you spiritually. Learning about the autonomous collectives and how they can affect you is a way for you to gain knowledge so that you will know what to do and not to do so God has legal access to your life. And, so, you will know how to keep satan out of your life.

The autonomous collective may not be specifically mentioned in the Bible, but it is indirectly mentioned by how we need to watch our words and treat each other. In deliverance, we learn about word curses. But to those who know about word curses: did you ever wonder where those curses were written or stored? I did. And I sought out God for that information. “Seek and you shall find,” and I did that. So I sought out the information from God, and He taught me about it.

I first saw the word curses as post-it notes pasted all over my head in a dome shape. It was the same when I saw them over a city. And when I looked at the world, the entire planet was covered in them. And that is how God revealed it to me.

A prophet, who goes by “Son of Joy,” was taken into the spirit and saw them just as they appeared to angels. And he saw transparent walls (imagine glass walls) with words inscribed with light upon those walls. And the words of light were the laws, while the clear walls were the boundaries of the autonomous collective.

These days, I see autonomous collectives a little more clearly. They look like a thick piece of glass that covers areas and people. Some of the words upon them are larger than others. Some of the words are large, as in: the letters are miles wide. And some are tiny. The bigger words represent the laws that have more authority. In contrast, the smaller words have less authority. The words are suspended in those walls in a 3D manner. To look at it from below, it is all jumbled up, and you cannot read them. But if you change your view to a side view, then you can see rows, upon rows, of words – each of those rows stacked upon each other.

I do not claim to know everything about autonomous collectives. I only know what God has taught me. I am sure there is much more to learn about them, so do not limit yourself to only what is written here. Just seek God out for more information. I will try to add it to this book as I learn more.

FULFILLING THE SPIRITUAL LAWS OF GOD

I want you to understand that everything operates within the Law that God created. Am I talking about the Torah? Yes and no. The Torah is part of the Law, which God created. But I am talking about the Law, which God created before the Bible was written. The Law that governs all the heavens, all the spiritual realms, all the dimensions, and governs what humans, demons, angels, and all of creation can and cannot do. The Law governs how everything operates. Even the law of physics is part of the Law. And even God obeys and follows the Law. And Jesus is the Law.

Within the Law, ways exist to fulfill the law to obtain something. Jesus said He came to fulfill the Law. He did not say that He came to follow it. There exists a difference there. Following the Law is doing what it says. Fulfilling the Law is to fulfill the requirements already set by the Law to obtain something. I will give some examples to explain how to fulfill the Law:

--- Examples ---

Example 1:

If you want a breakthrough, you must honor wisdom with sacrifice. If you want more wisdom, then you will need to honor wisdom by: honoring the angels, the Spirit of Wisdom (who brings you wisdom), and the humans who give you wisdom, too. Part of honoring wisdom is to put what you are told into action (there are other ways to honor, too). And if you honor wisdom properly, you will obtain blessings from that.

A lot of times, the Spirit of Wisdom will speak through others (man and angel). To accept what they say and do what they tell you, is part of honoring them. For humans, sometimes giving to them (either something they need or money) is a way to honor them for the wisdom they have given you.

Example 2:

You reap what you sew. This is part of the Law. It says that you must receive the consequences, or blessings, of whatever you do. If you fail to take care of your teeth, then you will get cavities and your teeth will rot out. If that happens, God will not do a miracle to heal your teeth. If God did, it would go against the Law, which says you reap what you sew. And if God did that, it would give satan legal grounds to do something similar, like remove the blessings that people sewed by honoring wisdom.

--- End Examples ---

One of the main things to understand is this: if you do not follow the Commands of Jesus, you will contract satan into your life. That is part of the Law. If you are not for God and His ways, then you are automatically for satan and satan's ways. There is no in-between.

If you sew evil, then you will reap evil. If the generations before you sewed evil, you will reap evil, not unless you decide to live differently and change what was sewn during the generations before you. Harvests will keep reaping until what is planted changes. If a tradition is established, it will keep reaping the good or bad until someone changes it.

If you want to change into a Godly person, then you will need to learn and follow the commands of Jesus. And you will need to learn which parts of the Law you need to fulfill so that you can make good connections to the Holy Spirit, which is the mind of Christ, and so you can have access to the promises of God. If you do not fulfill the Law correctly, then you will not obtain the promises of God, nor will you open up the portals of Heaven, from which blessings flow.

And this is important to know: faith cannot change the Law. It can only work within the Law. For example, a person cannot simply believe that some random human, angel, or demon can get them into heaven. No, only through Jesus Christ will you get to heaven. That is part of the Law. It cannot be changed, and faith cannot ever override it.

Another example: I have come across people who believe in faith that they will always hear God, so they never test the spirits. This is foolishness because demons are allowed to talk to us, too. And those people would listen to demons most of the time because they believed the demons were God. And when they did what the demons told them, they officially created spiritual contracts with them.

Part of the reason we are here on Earth is to choose who we will follow:

God or satan. And the demons are allowed to tempt us and talk to us, because they are needed, as stumbling blocks, to see if we will stumble over them and fall or if we will ignore them and choose God instead. Always test the spirits. And learn the difference between how the voices, sound, feel, and how your body is affected when a spiritual being talks to you.

So, to use your faith in an attempt to remove the Law, or change it, is just foolish. It will not happen. What makes things worse is that satan attempts to establish various theologies, traditions, and laws and then tells us to 'believe in faith' that those theologies, traditions, and laws will happen. And many people fall for the lies and believe and have faith in such things. But this gives people false hope and sets them up for their hope to be deferred or to be destroyed. And this is to cause people to turn against God when the false hope does not come true.

One such theology is the rapture theology. It gives people a false hope that they will not see trouble or tribulation. And when tribulation hits them, they turn against God and Christians. Proof of this has been seen throughout history in places such as the Ukraine (during Stalin's reign) and China (During Mao's reign).

Regardless of how many people believe a lie in faith, it will not cause the lie to become true. And when many people have faith in a lie, it means that a whole bunch of people believe a lie and put their faith in that lie. And those people are already set up to stumble when the lie fails them. And some of these lies are so bad that they will cause people to lose their salvation because it causes them to reject Jesus. And this is why teaching the truth is so important.

If people become unified in a lie, it will be written upon the group's (or church's) autonomous collective. And that will open doors for the demonic. In some cases, it will open the doors for false signs, wonders, and miracles.

Your Spirit and Soul

YOUR SPIRIT AND SOUL

LEARNING ABOUT HOW YOU ARE MADE

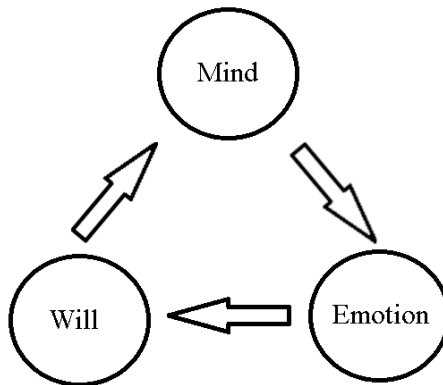

You are a three-part being: soul, spirit, and body. The soul and spirit part of you are both spiritual. They exist in your body, which is the physical part of you. Your body is a biological machine that your soul and spirit control. The soul and spirit will work together to control your body. How exactly? I do not know yet.

In this section, I will go into depth about the inner workings of your soul and spirit.

Your Soul

Your soul is split into three different parts: mind, will, and emotion.

The stuff that goes into your mind will influence your emotions. Your emotions influence your will. Your will influences your mind. The picture below shows the cycle of how the mind, will, and emotions influence one another:

The Mind

Your mind is where your imagination, spiritual eyes, and spiritual ears are. It is your perception and taste. It is also where your thoughts and dreams occur. Your knowledge and memories are stored here, too. It contains all of your experiences and everything you have ever heard, seen, smelled, read, thought, and imagined.

It contains all of your knowledge. It contains the full measure of your current potential, which can only be increased if the mind, itself, increases. If you steward your mind, then it will grow. Your knowledge will increase with humility. This is because you must be willing to learn. If you have pride, you will refuse to learn, thus, preventing you from gaining new knowledge.

The Bible says that we war not against flesh but against the spiritual things. Well, most of the warfare is wages in the mind. Demons work to influence your mind (with thoughts and knowledge) to get you to act. This is why the Bible tells you to take your thoughts captive and to cast down all thoughts (vain imaginations) that are not of God. (This means to control your thoughts.) Since many people do not have high discernment in this era, they cannot tell when a demon is talking to them. Instead, they assume that demonic voices are their actual thoughts.

And what are vain imaginations? The pictures demons show you in your imagination; how demons appear in your imagination as people (especially naked people); and when demons talk to you (which most people assume are their own thoughts). Vain imaginations are also the ungodly or evil things you imagine. They are also the ideas people have that do not advance the Kingdom of God.

The Imagination

Your imagination is important. It is linked to your spiritual discernment. It also helps you to create a connection to the Spirit of Wisdom. The better your imagination is, the more receptive you can be to the Spirit of Wisdom. Same with seeing into the spirit.

The Spirit of Wisdom is one of the main spirits that will bring you ideas for doing things or creating new things. People with good imaginations can connect to the Spirit of Wisdom to receive new ideas and revelations. And they can further imagine the new ideas and revelations they receive. And such things are considered as faith.

To have faith is to have a general idea that something is possible. If a person fails to act upon that faith (idea) or to bring that faith (idea) into existence (like a new invention), then that faith is dead. Because faith without works is dead. (“Works” means: acting upon the idea God gave you or bringing it into existence.) Imagination is important to having faith. If you cannot imagine something, then you cannot have faith in it. If you fear that the idea will not be possible, then it will die, and so will your faith in it.

Kids are known for their active imaginations. However, in this era, parents are known for shutting down a child’s imagination while replacing it with a small, conceded box of worldly information, which limits children on an unimaginable scale. And such a thing will destroy the child’s ability to connect to the Holy Spirit and their ability to fulfill their blueprint.

And telling a child that the things they imagine will not happen (come into existence) will shut down the child, bind them to fear and doubt, and keep them chained down, unable to rise above the limitations placed upon them as they grow up. A child’s imagination must be cultured properly. They must be taught to bring their new ideas forth and experiment with them to see if they work. And then be taught not to give up if their ideas fail. And to seek new ideas and ways of doing things when they fail.

The imagination is a very important part of the mind because it will be the main component needed to fulfill your blueprint. (“Blueprint” meaning: The task you are supposed to complete on Earth.)

The Emotion

Your emotions exist here. So does your sense of humor. The emotion part of your soul is where the throne of your heart is located. And you get to choose who sits there: you, God, or satan. The emotion part of your soul can also be considered as “the heart.” Emotions influence your will. Meaning: once you have enough emotion, your will, will be activated, and you will act.

If you research manipulative people, you will see that they will use words to influence your mind, which will influence your emotions. And once your emotions are activated, your will is affected, causing you to move into action.

The emotion part of you is easily harmed. Whenever someone does not do something in Love (Jesus’ form of Love) towards you, the emotion part of your soul gets damaged. These acts include every word and action someone does. Not doing or saying things in love will create broken people. And you will have to give an account on judgment day for every unloving thing said and done to someone else.

People who hurt others are almost always extensively damaged emotionally. Stalkers and sexual predators are usually damaged via rejection and dejection. Heartless people have been hurt so severely that their love has died. Demons work hard to destroy people emotionally. Once someone is destroyed emotionally, they usually refuse to work for the Kingdom of God. To get someone to be stable again, healing their deep hurts is required.

Demons also work to manipulate people’s emotions with information to get them to act. To overcome this, you will need to control your emotions. Emotions are controlled with discipline. Discipline can come from self-discipline, discipline from someone who has authority over you, or disciplining a child.

The physical brain also influences emotions. The chemicals in the brain can cause your body to feel specific ways, influencing emotions. Getting high from drugs causes specific chemicals to flow into the brain, which will cause specific feelings (usually happy ones) to arise, but this comes at the cost of damaging the body.

A poor diet, with a lack of exercise, will cause specific chemical reactions in the brain, bringing in negative emotions. It is important to have a good diet with proper exercise to help maintain your emotional stability. Overwork, or a worn-out body, will negatively affect your emotional state. And a negative emotional state will affect your link to God and working for His kingdom.

The Will

Your desires are part of your will. Your will moves you into action. Your will helps to move your physical body. Your will is your authority over your eternal self. Will is strengthened via gratitude, worship, and hearing God's Word.

Your will must be trained to have total authority over the body, emotions, mind, and which sources of information you obtain information from. We should aim to align our will to the will of God and become one with Him, in both will and desire. Once we do that, our will is no longer our own and becomes one with God and Heaven. And then we will operate in the same will and mind of God.

YOUR SPIRIT

Just as you have a physical body, you have a spiritual one. A person's spirit is their spiritual body. The spirit does not have feelings or emotions (for that is part of your soul). But it can feel pain, just as your physical body can. This spirit of life comes from God. Specifically, you can find a reference to this in Genesis 2:7, when God breathed the spirit of life into Adam, thus, giving life to Adam's soul. Sometimes people will refer to the spirit body as the "spirit man." For simplicity, I will refer to your spiritual body as "your spirit" or "spirit."

Your spirit gives your soul life and allows you to be alive. When a soul is detached from the spirit, the person dies and ceases to exist. It is the same with the other living beings that God created. And the sword of Truth is sharp enough to separate someone's soul from their spirit. Not only does your spirit give you life, it also has writing upon it and inside of it. Those words are written in light.

Father God wrote your talents, assignments, and personality on the inside of your spirit. The Bible tells us that the Word of God is written upon our hearts (Romans 2:14-15, Hebrews 8:10, Jeremiah 31:33). In reality, those words are written upon the inside of our spirits. And the words God inscribed there were written there while we were in the womb. Your soul writes everything written on the outside of your spirit through your free will. Whatever your heart accepts or your mind determines as truth, will be written onto the outer part of your spirit. And that will become the law, which presides over you.

You will either write the Word upon your spirit or the counterfeit word upon your spirit. When you write the Word upon your spirit, you end up with love being written upon your spirit. When you write the counterfeit word, you will have lies written upon your spirit, such as insecurity, bitterness, fear, anger, arrogance, and worthlessness. The world teaches the counterfeit word.

All of these things written upon your spirit end up being the laws by which your life operates. This is because whatever the spirit receives as reality overrides the soul's thoughts. Whatever is written upon your spirit, you will accept it as reality. This is why it is so important to be consistently surrounded by things of the Spirit. Your spirit does not distinguish between right and wrong or truth and lie. It only has those things written upon it that you have accepted as reality. If you inscribe lies onto your spirit and allow others to do the same, and accept these lies as reality, then you will keep believing those lies into eternity (after you die).

That said, a person's personality will not change after death. If they are evil on earth, they will be evil after they die, and Jesus will not allow them into Heaven. If they are righteous here on earth and can be Love like Jesus is Love, then they will be that way after they die, and Jesus will let them into Heaven.

When you make decisions, you look at your spirit to see what is written there and decide based on what is written upon your spirit. If what is written upon your spirit is of the Word, then your decisions will reflect the Word. If they are evil, then they will reflect evil. The things written onto your spirit will command both your body and mind.

The words of Jesus are the only things that should be inscribed upon your spirit. However, people tend to allow people and demons to write whatever they want upon their spirits. If the things written upon your spirit are not the words of Jesus, they end up as legal grounds for demons to be on you. The word curses you accept as reality are also written upon your spirit.

Words spoken over you can end up written upon your spirit. Knowledge and doctrine can be written upon your spirit if you do not reject it. Morals, values, and belief systems are all written upon your spirit, and these things end up as the laws governing your life. And these laws give God, angels, or demons access to your life; or will remove God, angels, or demons from your life.

The things you say to people can end up written upon their spirits. The words you speak about a person will be written upon their spirit. Because of this, we should be speaking only good things about a person and only speaking good things to one another. Speaking negative things to a person, or over a person, will write those negative things onto that person. And it will begin to affect the person and/or open up legal grounds for a demon to jump on the person.

Demons read your spirit to discover your likes and dislikes. They read your spirit to find out what you hate, so they can torment you with what you hate. And they read your spirit to find out your fears because all of your fears are written on your spirit. Then they repeat what they read and give you vain imaginations to get you to react. And demons read your spirit to see if they have legal grounds to be on you or to influence you.

The things in the spirit will eventually manifest in the flesh. Although people may suppress what is written on their spirit, those things will eventually manifest. The things of the “heart” will be made manifest, either through action or speaking (Luke 6:45 – paraphrased). In this verse, the “heart” refers to a person’s spirit.

Even if people know the effects of poisonous words, they cannot stop themselves from speaking the counterfeit gospel. This is because the vile inscription of bitterness is upon both soul and spirit. What is inscribed upon the spirit cannot be stopped from manifesting in the flesh. The inscription must be cleansed in the Blood of Jesus and rewritten with the Words of the Lamb.

A person may temporarily suppress the darkness, but it shall eventually resurface if the mind and spirit are not renewed. The flesh has no authority over the spirit. Only the spirit can manifest in the flesh, not vice versa. Only the words spoken by Jesus, the King of kings, can reform the spirit. For this reason, you must focus upon the words of Jesus. If a thing contradicts the Words of Jesus, it is counterfeit. Do not teach new generations to chase after things that rot and rust, which are the things on this planet.

The Bible talks about the renewing of the mind. It also talks about going through the refining fires of God. The renewing of the mind is part of the process of salvation (or being “saved”). In this era, people assume that salvation (or getting saved) is saying a salvation prayer (usually the one invented by Billy Graham). However, this is wrong. The process of salvation is a refinement process of going through the refining fires of the Holy Spirit, where you are refined (changed) into the image of Jesus Christ. And once you complete that process, you are “saved.” (The word “saved” in Greek is “sozo,” which can mean: to heal or to be made whole. So, to be “saved” is a healing process to be made whole).

The refining process of salvation is one where the mind is re-educated with the Words of Jesus so you become Kingdom-minded. And as you go through the process, the things from the world, which are written on your spirit, will be washed off with the Blood and rewritten to the Words of Jesus. To be born again is to receive a new spirit cleared of all previous inscription.

Below are some examples of situations concerning the writing of the spirit:

---- Examples ----

Example 1: (A friend who put demons on another person)

There existed a man and his friend. The man had a situation where he had mold in his home. He was not experiencing any health problems. When he was talking to his friend about mold removal, his friend told him to leave the house because he would suffocate. At that moment, a demon of suffocation jumped onto the man and began to suffocate him. The demon didn't completely cut off the air supply, but it caused the man to have trouble breathing. Eventually, the man cast the demon off, and he was able to breathe correctly again.

The demon had legal access because the friend had spiritual authority in the man's life. The man also partially accepted what his friend said about suffocating because he had already read about people having breathing problems due to mold. So, it was a law that was already established upon the man's spirit. And when the man's friend said that he WOULD have breathing problems, this wrote onto the man's spirit and autonomous collective that he would have breathing problems. So, the demon had legal grounds to jump on and strangle the man – and it did.

Example 2: (A man got a demon from a well-known prophet (spiritual leader))

A man was listening to a certain prophet's teaching about how to rest in God. The man had already reached the point where his soul was at peace. And if the man stopped thinking, his mind would go blank, and he would instantly be in the rest state with no problems. The prophet taught his theology that said: "If you clear your mind, then you will get seven demons because clearing the mind is akin to cleaning a house. And if a house gets cleaned, then seven demons will return."

However, this was a false theology based on misinterpretations of scripture. After the man had heard the prophet's theology, a demon instantly jumped onto the man. This was because the prophet spoke such a law over the audience, which stuck onto people's autonomous collectives and their spirits. The man was aware of what was happening and immediately asked God to remove such a thing from his autonomous collective and spirit. God did so, and afterwards, the man cast off the demon that jumped onto him. And the demons never returned, even when the man did clear his mind.

Example 3: (Babies and toddlers)

Babies and toddlers will act in accordance with what is written upon their spirit. And before their spirit is tainted with the world, the child will act like those who are in Heaven. They are kind, loving, and generous. They easily forgive. They easily trust. And they are willing to give you their possessions. See how a toddler will eat some food, then try to give you what is left of their food? Or they will find an object on the ground and hand it to you? Or they will play with their toy and then hand it to you?

There is a reason for that. It is because of the love and generosity, which is the Law of God, written upon their spirits. The child's will does not reject the Law of God written upon their spirits, so they are influenced by what is written upon their spirit. But parents tend to teach children selfishness, and the laws of selfishness are written upon their spirits, thus, causing a child to be selfish. And then, the children begin to cry and complain when their stuff is taken from them. Eventually, the child will go into rebellion, which people from my culture call "the terrible twos."

---- End Examples ----

Here is something to consider: The Bible says that God controls our every breath. People do not understand how true this really is. The Spirit of Life, which we are given, regulates our body. God uses it to automatically control the breathing of our body. Sure, we can use our will to hold our breath or to change our breathing pattern, but if our spirit were taken from us, then we would not be able to control our body and breathe.

ALTERS

When I say alter, I am not talking about an altar table where you make an animal sacrifice. I am talking about when a person's soul splits into another self.

Yes, there are such things as alters. No, they are not demons, but there is a demon named "false alter," who pretends to be an alter. You cannot cast alters out. And if you try to cast them out, they usually go into hiding and refuse to emerge. This is due to them getting scared of you because you are trying to cast them out. If this happens, then they may develop a fear of humans. Alters are traumatized already. Being mean to them, trying to yell at them, or trying to cast them out like a demon, will traumatize them even more.

An alter is created when a person goes through a lot of trauma, and their soul splits to absorb the trauma the main soul would usually receive. They do have their own thought processes and a stunted maturity level. Usually, the alter is stuck at the maturity level of the person's age when they are first created. So, if the alter is created when the person is three years old, the alter will have a permanent maturity level of a three-year-old child. And the alter will still be that way even if the main person is 80 years old.

Alters can gain knowledge. Alters can become evil. Alters can become witches or warlocks. Alters can choose to serve Jesus or satan. Alters have different personalities. And when an alter takes over the body, you will usually see a change in personality. Someone with Multiple Personality Disorder may have alters, have demons take over their body, or both.

A person can have more than one alter. Alters can be locked up by demons and tortured by demons. Alters can sometimes see other alters and demons. Alters usually know demons as "shadows." Alters tend to talk to each other and will know the existence of other alters. Sometimes alters will be friends with other alters. If you ask them, they might tell you how many other alters are inside a person.

Alters have different names. Usually, they will gain the name of the person who caused the alter to be created. And that person is usually the one who caused the trauma to happen.

I do not know a lot about Alters. I have no idea what happens to alters after a person dies. But I do know that God can heal their damage with the inner healing reported in this book. I know they can be reintegrated back into the main soul, too.

YOUR SPIRIT AND SOUL

Inner Healing

INNER HEALING

PREFACE

The things written in this book come from what God has taught me over the years and from the experience I have gained from doing healing on myself and others. I learned these things because I sought out healing from the hellish things I endured for about five years. In the Bible, God told us “Seek and you shall find,” which is what I did. And during that time, God showed me a few complexities of a person's soul and spirit. Receiving the knowledge on this taught me how God heals the ‘hearts’ of broken people.

Up to the point of writing the first version of this book, I have not read any books about spiritual healing, nor have I learned about inner healing from others. Therefore, I cannot tell you whether other forms of inner healing will work. But I know there is more than one way for a broken person to be made whole or to heal a broken heart. So, do not consider this to be the only way to receive inner healing.

This method of inner healing is quite complex because, in reality, what God does to heal someone is quite complex. To understand what I am talking about, you will need to read the information I wrote concerning autonomous collectives, emotions, and your spirit. Knowing about these things are the core components needed to be able to do inner healing in the way God taught me. You must know how the spiritual realm works to do inner healing this way.

Getting Started

With inner healing, we will focus on three things: the emotion part of your soul, your spirit, and your autonomous collective.

Emotions are Easily Damaged

The emotion part of your soul is easily damaged. When you are first born, the emotion part of you is unharmed. And it is perfect, like how God wanted it to be. However, everything done to you that is not in God's perfect love will harm the emotion part of your soul. It starts with those who raise you – usually your parents. They will treat you as they were treated, according to their selflessness or selfishness. In the fallen world state, usually, they will pass on their selfishness, which is what they do in this era.

Here is a small list of various things a parent can do to cause emotional damage to a child (note that this is not a complete list):

- Failing to change the diaper on time
- Feeding the child when they are hungry.
- Every time they yell at the child.
- Every time they abuse the child.
- Every time they talk negatively to the child.
- The wrong tone of voice.
- Abandonment
- Hating the child
- Raising the child to be worldly causes the child to desire stuff, recognition, and acceptance of man, which will cause emotional damage when the child does not get those things in the future.
- Raising the child to be selfish will cause future emotional damage every time the child does not get what they want.
- When the parents are not there for the child.
- When the parents fail to recognize the child.
- When the parents fail to recognize the child's achievements.
- When the parents talk down to the child.
- Not loving the child.
- Being hateful to the child.
- Teaching the child to not forgive.
- Teaching the child to hold onto unforgiveness, resentment, or bitterness.
- Not playing with the child.
- Ignoring the child.
- Being mean to the child.

- Passing on fears
- Instilling fears
- Telling a child that they are incapable of doing something
- Telling a child that they are stupid, dumb, an idiot, etc.
- Causing the child to give up
- Breaking the spirit of the child
- When the parents tell the child that they deserved the bad things that happened to them.
- When the parents do not encourage the child after they fail.
- When the parents try to force the child down a certain life path.
- When the parent teaches the child to go against the Law of God that is written upon their spirit (heart).

(You have God's Word written upon your spirit when you are born. As your parents teach you to do the opposite of what is written on your spirit, it causes emotional damage because it goes against who you are.)

It is easy to emotionally harm a child. Such things can emotionally harm an adult, too. Below is another small list of things that can cause emotional harm:

- When someone makes fun of you
- Bullying
- Physical torture and physical harm
- Emotional torture and emotional manipulation
- Abuse
- Tormenting someone
- Manipulation
- Jokes
- Dishonor
- Financial pressures
- Pressures from your job.
- Pressures from having a family.
- Pressures from your spouse.
- Pressures from the world (life)
- Pressures from friends, managers, leaders, ruling authorities
- Fear
- The wrong tone of voice

INNER HEALING

- Being mean
- Destroyed dreams
- False hope, loss of home, deferred hope, hopelessness
- Depression
- Rejection and Dejection
- Unforgiveness, resentment, bitterness.
- Arguments
- Anything that is not done in the Love of God

And these lists can go on for thousands of pages.

How Damaged Emotions Affect You

As you can see, it is easy to get damaged emotionally. Even going through everyday life will cause emotional damage. Because of this, an ordinary person can easily have tens of thousands of emotional wounds, if not more. Those who are severely broken and have lots of problems can easily have hundreds of thousands of wounds upon the emotional part of their soul. And each of these wounds can be a legal ground for a demon to be on the person. (So, hundreds of thousands of legal grounds.)

This is one of the reasons why it is very important to watch what you say. It is important to control your tone of voice. And it is important to treat people with love, respect, and honor. In doing so, you will build the person up. While failing to do so will tear the person down, even to the point of destroying them. A tyrant can be created by saying the wrong thing to the wrong person at the wrong time. And even a smile can lift or cast depression off of a person.

The emotion part of the soul influences the person's will. And this causes them to act. When a person is wounded emotionally, they will (re)act accordingly. And there are many examples:

--- Examples ---

Example 1:

A woman who has been emotionally abused via manipulation will likely submit to a manipulative man. Heal this damage, and she can break free. Heal it not, and she will never escape the grasp of a manipulative person because they will use manipulation to cause emotional pain, and the woman will submit herself to whatever the demand is to make the pain or fear go away.

Example 2:

A woman who is physically abused will have emotional damage. The “fear of pain” will cause emotional damage. And the beatings will cause her to go into fear and submit to the person who is beating her. If that emotional damage is healed and the fear is removed, she can break free from her abuser. Notice that emotional damage and the fear are two different things. Look at the section about removing fears for details on how to remove fears.

Example 3:

Alcoholism is a complex thing and can have many reasons (roots). But if a person is emotionally wounded and an alcoholic, then it is possible that the person may be drinking to remove the emotional pain. If alcoholism is linked to emotional damage, and the emotional damage is healed, then it may be possible to remove alcoholism from that person’s life.

Example 4:

Rejection can cause many things. A constantly rejected person may turn to porn to ease the pain of rejection. Rejection may lead to stalking or rape. In all three cases, it is the wounds from rejection that causes people to turn to such things.

Example 5:

Loneliness can cause a person to dive into entertainment in an attempt to fill that emotional need to be loved, accepted, or to numb the pain of loneliness. Usually, loneliness damage and rejection damage are found together. If you do not have good companionship, then loneliness may only be temporarily healed.

Example 6:

A child who is constantly made fun of or bullied can develop a sense of worthlessness, self-hate, and self-loathing. Healing the damage to their emotions can help to erase the sense of worthlessness, self-hate, and self-loathing. And the healing can help them go from being timid and standoffish to being bolder and more willing to speak up.

Example 7:

When a parent rejects a child, the child can form resentment, unforgiveness, and hatred towards the parent. Rejection can come in many forms, such as: the parent working all the time and never spending time with the child; sending a child to school or daycare; with divorce, both during and after; when a parent leaves or cuts off contact with a child (abandonment); and so on. In such situations, the child will have to release the resentment, bitterness, and hatred towards the parent, then forgive the parent before healing can occur.

Example 8:

A person who is full of anger has been emotionally damaged a lot. There are many ways a person can be damaged, so you will need the guidance of the Holy Spirit to find out what to heal. But, one thing to note is this: a person full of anger or hate will have unforgiveness, resentment, bitterness, and hatred they will need to give up and release before they can get healed. And they will need to forgive the people who hurt them.

Example 9:

Adultery can cause deep emotional damage. Adultery can cause rejection, dejection, feelings of inadequacy, and worthlessness which will cause emotional damage. The demon of betrayal will gain legal grounds, as well. And that demon will play on the emotional hurts to make things worse. Hatred, bitterness, resentment, and unforgiveness will form towards the person who committed adultery. Strife and conflict demons will gain legal grounds, too. All of these feelings and emotional harms will contract in those specific demons. For example, rejection will contract in the rejection demon, and dejection will contract in the dejection demon.

--- End Examples ---

HEALING THE EMOTIONAL DAMAGE

Healing the emotional damage does not have a specific technique and can be done in many different ways. But it does follow a simple principle (method). And this is what you can do:

1. Ask God to show you or reveal to you the emotional damage. You will need to have a good connection to the Holy Spirit for this. If you can see in the spirit, then all the better.
2. Ask God to show you if you have any bitterness, resentment, unforgiveness, or hatred because of the emotional damage. If you do, then release the bitterness, resentment, and hatred. And openly forgive the person or people who was/were the cause of the emotional damage.

(If you find that you have difficulty forgiving someone, ask God to make it easy for you to forgive them. If you find that you have a hard time releasing bitterness, resentment, or hatred for someone, ask God to make it easy to release and take it from you. And He will make it easy for you, assuming you are willing.)

3. Ask God to heal whatever He revealed to you. If your faith is at the point where you believe that He will heal everything just by praying for it, then stop here. Otherwise, continue.
4. Pray in tongues. Only God can heal you correctly. You will probably break something if you try to heal it yourself, which is why you should leave all the healing to the Holy Spirit.
5. If God allows you to jump in and be active, then do it.

If you are doing the healing on someone else, then apply the above principles to them.

Healing emotional damage is relatively simple in concept. I have found that the most difficult part of inner healing has been trying to find out what to heal. And for me, it was a long multi-year process because things were only revealed to me during certain seasons in my life, like when I was ready to be healed. When healing yourself or others, expect most of the healing to happen over time and not instantly.

Although I was getting hundreds of hurts healed daily, I had thousands upon thousands of hurts to heal. Some hurts were buried under other hurts, so the ones on top had to be healed before the ones below could be seen. And some hurts were linked to other hurts and could not be seen until the linked hurts were healed.

In the beginning, I had to do daily inner healing, healing hundreds of emotional damages per day, which took an hour or two a day. And I had to do this for months before I saw noticeable progress. When I did inner healing on others, they usually would not see immediate differences, so they would give up and quit. Just keep in mind that it will take a little while before you see results. And if you give up, you will not get results.

The Beginning

When I started doing inner healing on people, I would sit and listen to their testimony, and the Holy Spirit would point things out while I listened. And I would write those things down. Afterward, I would have a list of things to pray for, which were all the hurts the people had. Then I would go through the list, praying for each item individually.

To do that, I would lay hands on the person and ask God out loud to heal that issue, followed by praying in tongues. The Holy Spirit would pray in tongues until the person was healed in that area, which usually lasted a few minutes for each wound/problem. Then I would repeat the process for the next issue on the list. Usually, a short list would take four or more hours of praying in tongues.

While I was praying in tongues, the Holy Spirit would show me a vision of the person's soul. He related the soul to being like a mansion with many rooms. So, there were rooms, hallways, and doors on the rooms. And He showed me the damage on the walls, representing the emotional damage or the problems people had. And He showed me broken doors, which represented the open doors that people had (relating to specific things in the spirit).

He showed me that the different rooms represented the different things about the person, like their talents, skills, abilities, knowledge, hearing, seeing, memory, emotions, etc. And inside those rooms was the damage and demons. Sometimes those rooms contained spider webs or even darkness.

The rooms would also have spiritual objects in them like alters, chains, and spiritual objects that gave demons legal grounds to be there. I remember seeing multiple rooms where demons built rooms inside of rooms, which represented how a demon took over a section of a person. In one room, a demon set up a tent. I also saw demons chained to a person inside some rooms.

I even remember seeing yellow goo or slime representing either the worldly stuff people picked up from being in the world or their selfishness. I saw it all over the walls, floors, and ceilings. Sometimes it was in the hallway. One worldly person had a whole room full of this slime up to the ceiling. That room was also filled with worldly objects (or idols).

I also saw a hallway with many rooms where the emotions were located. Each room represented a different emotion. On some of the broken people, the doors to their emotions were closed, representing them being emotionally closed off to that emotion. Sometimes those doors were closed and chained up, so they could not be opened. In this era, the teachers of deliverance teach us to 'close the doors' to things. And they only teach us to close the doors to things. But with what I experienced with healing, I learned that I needed to open doors to things, too.

For instance, if your door to love is closed, there is no way you can receive or give love. While the door to love is closed, you will mostly have anger and hate instead of love. If all of the doors to peace, love, joy, happiness, kindness, compassion, gentleness, and gladness are closed, then at best, all you are capable of is a state of no emotions. Otherwise, you are full of negative emotions.

So, in some things, like your emotions, you need the doors to your emotions opened. You also need to open the door to Jesus and the Holy Spirit. Doors to blessings can be shut or opened. So close the doors to evil, and open the doors to everything in confirmation of the Word.

While I was doing inner healing on myself, I would open the doors to the good things, like love. In response, the demons would try to close those doors. In one instance, I asked God to open the door to love, and He did, but a demon held it shut. So I removed the door to love, so it would always be open. Then a demon stood in the opening where the door used to be, preventing love from coming in. Then I asked God to widen the doorway to be so big that the demons could not block it. And it was so. At which point and time, the demon could no longer block the flow of love.

Seeing the soul as a mansion with things inside of it were all visual representations that the Holy Spirit gave me. And those visual representations were metaphors of what was happening in the spirit. It was not how the soul actually looked, but just a representation I could understand at that time. The healing sessions were usually quite long, too. But seeing the rooms, the things within the rooms, the demons, and interacting with the Holy Spirit while He was working kept my mind focused and busy enough that it seemed as though hardly any time had passed.

Those were the early days when I first started doing inner healing on others. During those days, God would show me the problem. Then I would ask Father out loud to fix the problem. Afterwards, I would pray in tongues. Then as I prayed in tongues, I would see the rooms heal, shift, change, and even get removed. I even saw the rooms go from being rooms of darkness to being a room of light with white walls.

And when I proved myself worthy by using what I was given with healing (to heal myself and others), the way I did healing got upgraded and changed.

The Next Stage

In the beginning, it would take a long time to do inner healing. Then one day, I was asked, “Why does it take you so long to get healed? I can ask God to heal me, and it is near instant.” At that point, I realized that it was a matter of my faith putting boundaries upon the Holy Spirit to take a long time to heal things. (I believed it would take a long time, so it was.)

So, I changed my view and believed that the Holy Spirit could heal things quickly. And then it happened: things sped up by about 60-fold or more. So instead of taking 1 hour, it would take around a minute. And my healing sped up exponentially. A month's worth of healing now only required a few hours of prayer. And I began to change very quickly. Healing the wounds caused my anger and desire for sin to fade away. And it opened me up to love. So I calmed down quickly and began to get out of my sins.

Eventually, I was overcome by the complexities of healing. I could not figure everything out, and even seeking God on every little thing only revealed what I could understand or expect, which left out many things. So healing could not be completed in some cases. So, I decided to change my faith. And in faith, I believed that God knew what He was doing, so I just asked Him to show me something in the spirit, and I would pray about it.

So my visions began to change. Instead of seeing rooms and halls and whatnot, I began to see an outline of a person's spirit, which looked like a simple 3D glass-shaped person. There are no details, like fingers, toes, or facial details - just a generic human bubble shape without any features. Inside this outline, I would see the wounds. What were the wounds related to? I had no idea, but I knew they needed to be healed. So I went into action.

I would pray in the spirit while cleaning the wound. (I cleaned the wound using my imagination.) Usually, I would have to cut into it to drain the infection. Sometimes I would have to break hardened skin, which was like cement. And I would have to scoop out the nasty stuff inside the wound until nothing was left. Sometimes, demons were inside the wounds, and I would pull them out.

I would wash the wound with the Blood of Jesus and the Water of Life. Sometimes I would put healing balm on the wound. Once the wound was cleaned, I would take clay and press it into the wound and smooth it out. And finally, I would use fire to bake the clay, and the wound would disappear.

Was I doing this for real, or was it part of my imagination? Unknown. All I know is that God showed me something, and I “knew” what to do. And I went into action, so I was doing something in the spirit. Perhaps it was just a way of praying to the Father via my actions in the spirit. And while I relayed that information via “prayer actions,” the Holy Spirit healed the person. (“prayer actions” meaning: I am praying using actions to give meaning to my prayers – in worldly terms: something similar to body language, but all of this was done in the imagination and spiritual realm.)

And this became the new normal for me to do inner healing on people. It also became easier for me, too. At this point, I would learn about someone's traumatic experience. And instead of finding out all the details and trying to heal every individual wound from that experience, I could ask Father God to show me all the wounds related to the experience. Then I would see various wounds of different sizes and different depths.

Then I would zoom in and go to each of the wounds to clean them. The wounds had length, width, and depth to them. And some of the wounds were very deep in some places. Some of the wound depths went miles deep. And all the wounds had different shapes, too.

At times I could feel the flesh of the wound. Sometimes I could feel the infection, which made me feel sick. Sometimes I saw dark blood, which represented some really bad wounds. Sometimes, there were hidden wounds inside of the wounds, and I would have to cut open the walls to find them and drain them.

And those things would take a while. Eventually, the Holy Spirit gave me the idea to scoop out the entirety of the wound and replace it with a mixture of the Blood of Jesus, the Water of Life, and clay. Then I would bake it with fire. That was the fastest method I had used for the healing. And what was the side effect on the person? They were healed exactly where they needed to be healed because God showed me exactly what needed to be healed without all the details.

That was my experience with visions and inner healing. But God is not limited to doing things in only one way. God will relate to the person and use what is necessary to do inner healing. With one person I knew, God showed them a heart with thorns in it. And they would pluck out the thorns in the heart while praying in tongues. God had another person use the worldly lessons they knew to do inner healing. In another instance, there was a deliverance minister who would pray a simple prayer of: "God please heal <this wound>," and God would heal it. (<this wound> means: "Any wound God revealed to them.")

God is not limited on how to do inner healing, so keep this in mind. There are other ways, like just sitting there and praying in tongues until you are healed. If you use what I have learned, and He gives you visions, then be open to getting a vision different from what I saw. Or He may give you the same visions He gives me.

Complexities of Healing

When God took me through the process of healing the soul, I learned quite a bit about healing until I began to get overwhelmed by the enormous task. At first, I targeted each wound individually. As time passed, I found it cumbersome to constantly seek out the various individual issues that people had.

Just by working on myself, I had thousands of individual things I had healed over a year. And I estimate that I may have needed hundreds of thousands of things healed. And if I needed that many things healed, then other people would need the same amount of things healed, if not more.

Although it was cumbersome, I learned a few complexities of the human soul and a few complexities of how people are damaged. I learned that you cannot heal a single problem, and everything would be better. No, all of the problems and hurts were interconnected to the point where the core problem would have hundreds of other hurts and issues linked to it.

The hurts (emotional damages) were connected together like a spider web. So imagine a spider web, and each place where two lines of web connect is a problem to deal with. The lines of the web between the connection points are “links” between the problems. At the center of that web is the root problem. But you could not reach that root problem until all the other hurts were dealt with (the outer web was torn down).

The connection points are not only hurts or emotional damage. They are also things such as a person’s bitterness, resentment, hatred, unforgiveness, sin, life events, past and current situations, current and past problems, things written upon their autonomous collective, and things written their spirit.

So imagine starting from the edge of a spider web, slowly disconnecting (healing) every point where the web connects. You work from the outside and disconnect every point on the web's outer edge until all those points are disconnected. Then you move to the next inner layer of the web and continue the process of removing the linked points until you reach the center of the web where the root cause is.

And once you get rid of the connected issues, then the root of the problem can be healed and dealt with. If any of the linked issues were left behind, then only part of the root could be removed, allowing the wounds to re-establish themselves. And then the web of interlinked issues would re-establish themselves around the root as time goes on (as if the web regrew itself).

When you do inner healing, all interconnected parts must be healed and removed. Otherwise, the problem can be re-established. The hurts can be re-established through life events or even through demons.

Before I move on, allow me to give you an example of a man who is addicted to porn so I can expound upon it:

Example (Man Addicted to Porn)

There was a man who was addicted to porn. However, it was not just lust or desire for sex that led the man into porn. It was also loneliness, rejection, the desire to be loved, and the demonic driving him. And it was from the thousands of times he was hurt from his past relationships, which drove him to porn as a way to try to ease the emotional pain from the past.

If you just dealt with the lust part or the demons, then the man would still turn to porn when he emotionally got hurt again. Even if the man got married and was no longer lustful or lonely, he would still look at porn because of a driving spirit. Even if that spirit was removed, he would turn to porn whenever his wife rejected him.

Even if you healed 80% of the man's emotional damage, and removed all of his loneliness, rejection, demons, and fulfilled his desire to be loved, the man would still return to porn in the event that one of the old emotional wounds was triggered. And since some of those wounds still exist, they could be used to reestablish a full-blown porn addiction while causing his loneliness, rejection, and demons to return.

--- End Example ---

The example about the man addicted to porn is a simplified version of the complexities. In reality, a (root) wound could start with the parents and what they did to their child. Then, later in the child's life, the actions of the child's friends would create related wounds or expound on the wound, thus causing more wounds in that area. Then it continues on with associates, the spouse, the pets, the job, the entertainment, and even the spiritual leaders. Plus, the self-inflicted damage through various sins of that person's life, as well as, traumatic events in the person's life.

All such things can be linked to a (root) wound. If all of the linked issues are not dealt with, then a wound can be re-established, even if it was previously healed. To make healing even more complicated, some of those issues are in the physical. Meaning it could be a job, a spouse, a state in life, etc. So if that physical issue is not dealt with, then it means that the wound cannot be healed.

And such a situation is what I call “an infinite reality.” To define it another way, an “infinite reality” is: “A wound that cannot be healed because the underlying problem or issue cannot be solved or removed.” Another way to consider an infinite reality is this: a reality where a wound will infinitely reappear because you cannot get rid of the thing that is causing the wound.

So if a man is wounded because he is not married and turns to porn for relief, then he is stuck in an infinite reality with porn until he is married. A person who smokes to relieve stress will not be able to stop smoking until something else takes the place of smoking to relieve their stress. So this would also be an infinite reality.

If a person has been through a traumatic event, they may end up stuck in an infinite reality until they go through that type of event again with love instead of traumatization. And they may not be able to do that until after they die and go through the Courts of Consideration, which is a place in Heaven where healing happens.

Having unforgiveness towards a person will create an infinite reality, too. God will not heal an unforgiving person. Usually, a person will not feel the unforgiveness they have towards someone. So you would have to ask God to reveal the unforgiveness. It is the same for bitterness, resentment, and hatred.

If the wound has been there a long time, then the person may not feel or recognize the unforgiveness, resentment, bitterness, or hatred. Old wounds tend to get buried under other wounds and forgotten, so people may not realize those wounds exist. In such a case, you will have to ask God to reveal those wounds.

The amount of hatred inside of someone can be measured. They can have an atom-sized amount to a galaxy-sized amount of hatred within them towards the person who created the wound. Hatred is always formed within a person when they get wounded, even if it is an atom-sized amount. An atom-sized amount of hatred cannot be felt, so you would have to ask God to reveal those atom-sized hatreds.

(When I refer to <sin>, it can be a normal sin, or even something simple like addictions, indulging in entertainment, hobbies, or any other type of worldly activity.)

If a person is stuck in an infinite reality, it is pointless to try to heal them or to try to get them to stop the <sin> they are in. They are bound to the <sin> until things change. And here is a danger: if a person is relying on a <sin> to stay emotionally stable, then getting them out of that <sin> could cause them to emotionally break down or cause them to fall into severe depression, or cause them to commit suicide.

Although it may seem odd, sometimes people are wounded badly enough to need the <sin> to stay alive. If a person is like this, then you will need to seek the Holy Spirit on how to handle the situation. Humans cannot handle a situation like that because it is too complex and has too many possibilities. Leave it to the Holy Spirit to guide and direct you.

A word of warning to people who get their healing: You can get rehealed if you lose your healing, but if you do not make an effort to keep your healing, then eventually, God will stop healing you in that area because it is a waste of time. After you get your healing, you will need to be a good steward of your healing and make sure you do not lose it. Failure to be a good steward of your healing may lead you to lose your healing and not get your healing back.

A thing to note about healing: once a wound is healed in a specific area, the person may experience hurting, but in a different way (usually with lessened pain), within a linked area to the wound. For example: if a man has wounds from being rejected by women and the primary wound of “rejection of women” is healed, then the linked area of “intimacy rejection from his wife” may still exist and activate when the man’s wife refuses intimacy. So if a person is still experiencing pain from a specific wound, although that wound is thought to be healed, search for the linked variations of the wound and heal them.

The Reasons Why Inner Healing Takes Time

Inner healing usually does not happen instantly with a single event or prayer. Personally, I went through multiple periods of time over many years, which lasted multiple months at a time, where I would do inner healing on myself every single day for multiple hours per day. This was thousands and thousands of hours worth of inner healing to reach the point where I was healed enough for my mind and personality to be at the point where I could start the process of reforming to the image of Christ. (Inner healing not only heals the wounds but can also remove the worldly nature from the person, too.)

Inner healing was not instant. It took a lot of time. Over the years, God taught me a few reasons why it takes time for inner healing. Below is a list of reasons why inner healing takes time.

Disclaimer: Not all of these reasons will apply to every instance of healing. This list is not the full list of reasons, so there can be more reasons than what is written here. So here are some reasons why inner healing is not always instant and takes time:

1. There is a learning process for everyone involved, especially for the person being healed.
2. It is a test for the person being healed to see if they can maintain their healing or return to the way they were before.
3. It is part of how a person will spiritually grow. If a person were instantly healed of everything, there would be no spiritual growth.
4. Spiritual growth happens in seasons, and so does healing. After a certain amount of healing, a person will rest for a season before the next round of inner healing. After a round of healing, a person will go through a season to readjust to their newfound freedoms of being able to do things without hurt. In this season, there is usually no healing.

5. Healing a layer of wounds will reveal the next layer of hurts that need to be healed. And if a person wants their full healing, then they will seek God on what to heal next. This is part of the test to see if a person is willing to keep pursuing inner healing. Inner healing will also lead to spiritual growth, as it will clear a path for a person to make connections to the Seven Spirits of God (the mind of Christ, AKA Holy Spirit). If a person pursues spiritual growth, they will be able to chase after God even better after each round of healing. So, this is all part of the test to see if a person is truly seeking after God or if they just want to feel better.

6. One of the reasons why inner healing can take so long is because of the test to see if people will endure to the end. The timing of inner healing is linked to God's timing. And the healing will happen when you are ready for it or when you pass the tests you face in life. People who want instant progress are not worthy of the Kingdom. Those who will keep pursuing will obtain what they desire and are worthy of the Kingdom.

7. Those who want a quick fix to feel better will find themselves with momentary healing. But they will lose that healing because they refuse to heal all underlying problems. Then they will stop the healing sessions, saying: "This doesn't work." This test helps to filter out those who will and will not be a waste of time to heal. People who want a quick fix so that they can go back to their mammon lives are a waste of time to deal with. So be glad when such people leave, because they will not waste your time. But have compassion, and pray for them because they are not where they need to be spiritually.

8. The healing process is also a teaching method to the one receiving the healing. And the long process teaches many things to the one receiving it. It will also teach the one who is doing the healing, too. And the person who learns the healing process will be able to help others heal, too. So, it has a replicating effect.

INNER HEALING AND HOW THE SPIRITUAL REALM WORKS

9. A person may not be ready for the healing, so it will be delayed. Sometimes specific things need to happen in a person's life before healing can take effect or even have an effect. Sometimes, people are not spiritually ready to be able to do the healing or be able to handle the healing, so it delays the healing process until the person is ready.
10. Disobedience to God can cause delay in your healing.
11. Sin can cause delay in your healing.
12. And, I am sure there are even more reasons, which I have not learned yet.

Demons and Inner Healing

Demons (including fallen humans) are the ones who work to destroy people.

Usually, it will be the demons who work endlessly to create and re-establish and create interlinked issues to the root of a problem, so the root will not be removed.

A demon will latch onto any hurt and work to make it worse. And demons will keep attacking the same wound to make someone vulnerable in that area. And the person may become so emotionally damaged that the mere mention of the issue could cause an emotional breakdown.

The damage to the soul gives demons legal grounds to be there. It is easy to emotionally wound people, so demons work extra hard to cause those emotional hurts. Their plans are intricate and even involve using other people to wound someone. It is all part of the plan to cause division, strife, bitterness, unforgiveness, resentment, and hatred within wounded people. Once the demons succeed at creating cause division, strife, bitterness, unforgiveness, resentment, and/or hatred in someone, then that person's link to the Holy Spirit will be diminished or cut. Meaning: it separates a person from God.

Confidentiality

When doing inner healing on people, the Holy Spirit may reveal things in their hearts that you should not repeat to others. So keep your mouth shut to others when things are revealed to you. Do not gossip about other people's wounds or their problems. And do not judge them either. Once their wounds are healed, they will eventually drop out of their sins and will eventually change into holiness, assuming they keep pursuing God.

Inner Healing: Fears

HEALING THE FEARS

Emotional damages are just one aspect of healing. One of the major things people deal with are fears. The kingdom of satan is a kingdom of fear because everything they do is rooted in fear. Every sin is rooted in fear. Manipulation is rooted in fear. Same with control. Same with how people live their lives in this era (2023).

Getting rid of your fears (healing your fears) is part of inner healing. It is one of the areas that need to be addressed so you can advance spiritually. And it is important so you can get into your blueprint and do what God has called you to do. And in this era, everything that is taught in life is based on fear. If you want to break free of the world, you must remove the fears the world instilled into you. Do it not, and you will not be able to break free of the world.

FEAR CONTROLS PEOPLE

Fear controls how a person acts if they are not connected to the Holy Spirit and walking in obedience to Jesus. And fear keeps people from connecting to the Holy Spirit and/or walking in obedience to Jesus. A lot of that is due to self-preservation. It is what the world teaches people. The world (mammon) teaches you to look after yourself and your immediate family. And this instills countless fears into you.

To get some clarity, let me give you some examples of how fear controls someone:

--- Examples ---

1. Theft is the fear of not having something or the fear of not being able to obtain something.
2. Rape is the fear that you will not be able to have sex with the person, the fear you will not be loved, or the fear of rejection.
3. Rejection is the fear of not being accepted, the fear of not being loved, the fear of being rejected, or the fear of being hurt. The root of rejection is the fear of man.
4. Love of money is the fear of lack or the fear of not having money.
5. Greed is the fear of not having something or the fear of losing something.
6. Selfishness is the fear of loss, the fear of hurt, or the fear of not getting what you want.
7. Manipulation uses someone's fear to get them to do something.
8. Control may use rules and regulations, which uses the fear of punishment, to get people to abide by the rules. (In Heaven, you abide by the rules because you love Jesus and you want to obey Him.)

9. In this era, you are taught to get a good education so you can get a good job. This is also a fear – A fear that you will have lack if you do not get a good education. Also, a fear of lack if you do not get a good job. And a fear that you will not be able to provide for your family if you do not get a good education and job. It also creates a fear that you will not get the stuff you want.

All those fears are implanted into people to move (manipulate) them to a worldly life of getting an education and becoming a corporate slave. And such a thing leads to the destruction of the imagination and binds people down to job slavery and debt slavery, which enslaves them into fear of loss if they lose their jobs.

10. Company slavery, where the employees become slaves to the companies, exists because people fear losing their job. And in that fear, they fear lack. They fear the loss of money. They fear the loss of the things they are indebted to. They fear that they will not be able to pay their debt. They fear that they will not be able to eat or be able to take care of their families. And they fear the loss of their family. So they enslave themselves to a company for a meager amount of money.
11. Engaging in entertainment or sin to satisfy a hurt is the fear of being hurt if you do not engage in such a thing or act.

And there are millions more examples.

--- End Examples ---

FEARS DESTROY YOUR FAITH AND SPIRITUAL WALK

Fears destroy your ability to have faith because the fears cause you to give up. And, in turn, you give up on your destiny and blueprint that Father God gave you. Which, in turn, destroys your connection to God, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit. And that is how satan traps and destroys a person – with fear.

So, getting rid of your fears is paramount when receiving inner healing. Your fears also lead you to getting wounded. If you heal the wounds but maintain the fears, then once the fear happens or is activated, the wound will return.

The fears keep you from God, too. Every fear you have, tells God that He is a liar. So if you fear something, it means that you do not believe or have faith that God is capable of making that fear null and void or preventing such a fear from happening. When you are in fear, you are also calling God incompetent because you lack faith in God's competency in that area you have fear in.

And when you call God a liar and incompetent, you create curses above you, preventing you from having a relationship with God, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit. And this will destroy your spiritual growth AND prevent you from growing spiritually. So, getting rid of your fears is really important, especially if you want to grow spiritually. Getting rid of your fears will enable you to have faith. Want more faith? Then get rid of your fears, for fears lessen your faith. In fact, the opposite of faith is fear.

HOW TO GET RID OF FEARS

So how do you get rid of your fears? First, you need to know where your fears are written. All of your fears are written upon your autonomous collective, your soul, and on your spirit. Even if you heal the wounds, then you still have your fears written on your knowledge, your spirit, and your autonomous collective. And since they are on your spirit, they will override your soul, making it difficult to overcome them.

Since they are written upon your autonomous collective, they are boundaries over your life, which state that demons are allowed to make those fears come true. And they end up as the curses which are allowed in your life. And the fears bind you from taking action. The fears written on your spirit also act like curses over your life and are legal grounds for demons to be on you and in your life. The fears in your knowledge and emotions are used to manipulate you by both people and demons.

In order to get rid of your fears, you will need to be a believer in Jesus. Remember that a believer is someone who is actively obeying Jesus. While the title Christian has been watered down in this era to be a person who does not obey Jesus and claims an association with Christianity (or a denomination) while claiming they are “saved.” The things written on your spirit are permanent and cannot be erased without the Blood of Jesus. And only a believer has access to the Blood.

Also, you will need a desire to get rid of your fear. You will also need to be willing to let go of your fear and be willing to do what is necessary to get rid of the fear. Sometimes, you will need to repent of things in order to get rid of the fears. (Continued...)

INNER HEALING FEARS

If you are a believer, then you can follow these basic steps to get rid of the fears:

1. Ask God to show you the fear you have.
2. Be willing to release the fear and repent if need be.
3. Declare out loud that you do not fear what God has revealed to you.
4. Ask God to erase the fear from your autonomous collective, soul, and spirit.

OR ask God to rewrite the fear so it says that you do not fear what was shown to you.

5. Repeat until your fears are gone.
6. Do not come into agreement with those fears again.

Those were the steps I followed to get rid of my fears. I led others through those steps to get rid of their fears. And everything was successful. But keep this in mind: getting rid of the majority of my fears did not happen instantly. It took months while getting rid of a lot of fears every day. (Continued...)

Now, let us look at an example of how to do this:

1. I ask God to reveal one of my fears. He reveals that I have the “fear of losing my wife.”
2. I decree out loud: “In the name of Jesus, I decree that I do NOT fear losing my wife.”
3. I ask God to erase those fears by praying: “Father, please erase all instances of fears that say: ‘I fear losing my wife’ that is on my soul, spirit, and autonomous collective. In the name of Jesus.”

Or I ask God to rewrite those fears by praying: “Father, please rewrite all instances of fears that say ‘I fear losing my wife,’ which is on my soul, spirit, and autonomous collective to: ‘I do NOT fear losing my wife.’ In the name of Jesus.”

4. Repeat the process

After getting rid of most of my fears, I became stable in my actions. My double-mindedness began to fade away because the double-mindedness was caused by the fears conflicting with everything. My vain imaginations began to fade because they were based on the fears of various things happening. And I started trusting God more, which accelerated my spiritual growth exponentially.

I discovered that rewriting the fear to: ‘I do not fear’ makes you bolder and more resistant to that fear than if you just asked God to erase it. I know that demons will attempt to reinstall those fears into you, so having them rewritten instead of erased will make you more resistant to having those fears reestablished.

After getting rid of the fears, you will need to resist having them re-established. The removal of the fear will only be permanent for as long as you allow it to be permanent. If you allow a demon to reestablish the fear, then you will regain your fear. You can ask God to remove it again, and I am sure He will, but keep this in mind: if you keep reestablishing your fears, then God will stop removing them because it is a waste of time.

Remember that fears have general categories and sub-categories that are more specific. Then there can be even sub-categories under sub-categories. Even if you get rid of a general category, the sub-category fears may still exist. There are even individual specialized fears under categories. So be sure to get them all. Also, take note of the wording. Although the fears seem to be the same, just subtle differences within a fear can lead to a new fear.

When you go to heal the fears, you must get rid of all aspects of the fear. You can get rid of the general category of the fear, but you will still need to get rid of the individual specialized fears within that category. For example, you may have a fear of spiders and a fear of black widow spiders. You can remove the fear of spiders, but it will not necessarily remove the fear of black widow spiders. If the fear of spiders is removed and the fear of black widow spiders is not removed, then a demon can use that against you because it is a niche entrance, which can be used to reestablish the fear of spiders.

I will provide a list of fears to help people understand a few different types of fears. However, this list does not contain all the fears possible. There are probably over a million different fears. You will have to seek the Holy Spirit to discover which fears you have.

Fear List

(This list does not include every fear. The list is just an example)

FEARS ABOUT YOUR CHILDREN

- Fear that your decisions will hurt the children
- Fear that your child's world will fall apart because of the divorce
- Fear that your child feels like he/she has been abandoned
- Fear that your decisions will harm the kids
- Fear that your decisions will cause the kids to suffer
- Fear that your decisions will cause the kids to be unhappy
- Fear that divorce will cause the kids to suffer
- Fear that divorce will harm the children
- Fear that divorce will cause the kids to be unhappy
- Fear that divorce is the worst choice for the children
- Fear that the children will lose their mommy/daddy
- Fear that the children will not have a mommy/daddy anymore
- Fear that the children will not have a mother/father in their lives
- Fear of a bad mother/father in their lives
- Fear that what happened to you in the past will happen to your children
- Fear that the kids will be abused
- Fear that the children will have their futures ruined
- Fear of the loss of children
 - Fear of the loss of <child's name>
- Fear of not having a lawyer
- Fear of not winning the custody battle
- Fear that your child is being traumatized by your family member
- Fear that your family member will do the same things to your child that they did to you
- Fear of how your family member will raise/treat your child
- Fear that your child will not end up where they are supposed to be (location-wise)
- Fear that your family member/ex will keep your child
 - Fear that your child will not come back
- Fear that you will not be able to see your child
 - Fear that you will not be able to see your child again
- Fear that your family member/ex will not let you visit your child
- Fear that your new spouse will not be good to the kids
- Fear that your new spouse will abuse the kids
- Fear that your new spouse will not love the kids
- Fearing for the kids
- Fearing for the kid's safety

MARRIAGE FEARS

- Fear of divorce
- Fear that you will not get married
 - Fear that you will not ever find the right one
- Fear your marriage will come to an end
- Fear that you will not have the marriage that you want
 - Fear that you will not have the marriage that you want, so you will end up always wanting better
- Fear that you will not have a happy marriage
- Fear of abuse
 - Fear that you will be in an abusive marriage
 - Fear of getting into another abusive marriage
 - Fear your new spouse will abuse you
 - Fear your new spouse would abuse the kids
- Fear of being in the wrong marriage
- Fear of having another narcissistic relationship
- Fear of having another narcissistic spouse
- Fear of damaging the kingdom of God because you are in the wrong marriage
- Fear of losing the family
- Fear of destroying the family
 - Fear of destroying your children's family
- Fear of leaving your spouse
- Fear of a new marriage
- Fear of a different marriage
- Fear that you will not ever be truly loved
- Fear that your spouse will not love you
- Fear that you will not be in a loving marriage
- Fear that your marriage will not have love in it
- Fear that your marriage will not have sex in it
- Fear that your spouse will not have sex with you
- Fear that your spouse will sexually abuse you
- Fear that your spouse will rape you
- Fear of sex
- Fear of being emotionally attached
 - Fear of being hurt if you get emotionally attached
- Fear your new spouse/husband will not provide
- Fear your new spouse will treat you the same way your previous spouse did
- Fear your new spouse will neglect you
- Fear your new spouse will neglect the kids

- Fear that your spouse is faking it
- Fear that your spouse is a warlock
- Fear that your spouse is using magic
- Fear that your spouse/fiancée is trying to ensnare you.
- Fear that what you heard about marrying someone was not from God
- Fear that marriage to your spouse is a deception
- Fear that you heard from demons to marry a person
- Fear that the marriage to your spouse was manipulation
- Fear that a person is trying to manipulate you into marriage
- Fear that the signs and wonders, which say you are supposed to marry someone, are false
- Fear that the signs and wonders, which say you are supposed to marry someone, are a delusion
- Fear that the signs and wonders, which say you are supposed to marry someone, are from demons
- Fear that the signs and wonders, which say you are supposed to marry someone, are from witchcraft
- Fear that the signs and wonders, which say you are supposed to marry someone, are from soul force

DECEPTION FEARS

- Fear that a person is trying to deceive you
- Fear of being deceived about your calling/blueprint
- Fear that you will cause damage to the Kingdom of God because you were deceived
- Fear that you are the antichrist
- Fear that the words you hear in the spiritual are deception
- Fear that the words you hear in the spiritual are from demons
- Fear that the words you hear in the physical are deception
- Fear that people are trying to deceive you
- Fear that people will try to deceive you
- Fear of being in a delusion
- Fear that the confirmations from God are a delusion
- Fear that the words you heard from God are false (need to repent for calling God a liar)
 - Fear that you will not hear God correctly
- Fear that the signs and wonders are a delusion

MISCELLANEOUS FEARS

- Fear of soul force
 - Fear that deception is coming from soul forcing
- Fear of manipulations
- Fear of being manipulated
 - Fear that people are trying to manipulate you
 - Fear that people will try to manipulate you
- Fear of making the wrong choices
- Fear of making the wrong choices that you cannot correct
- Fear of the consequences of your actions/choices
- Fear of the consequences of your actions/choices that you cannot correct
- Fear of the future
 - Fear of  that will happen in the future
 - Fear of <an event> that will happen in the future
 meaning: insert any single situation here
<an event> meaning: insert any single event here
- Fear of being wrong
- Fear of being double-minded
- Fear of the unknown
- Fear of punishment for disobedience
- Fear of punishment for disobedience to God (this is the demonic fear, not the Fear of the Lord)
- Fear of being demonically oppressed for disobedience
- Fear of being demonically oppressed
- Fear that your decisions will be life-impacting
- Fear that making a life-impacting decision will destroy you
- Fear that making a life-impacting decision will destroy your family
- Fear that making a life-impacting decision will destroy your children
- Fear of the community
- Fear of the repercussions from the community/church
- Fear of repercussions from <name of person here>
- Fear of what people think of you
- Fear of how / what the community thinks of you
- Fear of how / what <name of person here> thinks of you
- Fear of man
- Fear of men
- Fear of women
- Fear of receiving from people
- Fear of strings being attached to what people do for you
- Fear of losing money

INNER HEALING FEARS

- Fear of losing Dollars
- Fear of spending money
- Fear of Debt
- Fear of not having any money
- Fear of not having enough money
 - Fear of not having enough money to buy food
 - Fear of not having enough money to pay bills
 - Fear of not having enough money to take care of your family
- Fear of home value decreasing
- Fear of Dogecoin decreasing in value
- Fear of Bitcoin decreasing in value
- Fear of your portfolio losing money
 - Fear of stocks decreasing in value
 - Fear of losing your investments
- Fear of how people will treat you
 - Fear of how <insert name here> will treat you
- Fear of what people will do to you
 - Fear of what <insert name here> will do to you
- Fear that God will not love you
- Fear that God does not love you
- Fear that God will punish you
- Fear that God will not talk to you
- Fear of trusting God
- Fear of trusting people
- Fear that God will not provide
- Fear of things being forced upon you
- Fear of being hurt
- Fear of false hope
- Fear of hope deferred
- Fear of a broken heart
- Fear of heartbreak
- Fear of getting another broken heart
- Fear of having your heart broken
- Fear of false love
- Fear of regrets
- Fear of Fear
- Fear of being in Fear
- Fear of gaining weight
- Fear of being ugly
- Fear of eating too much
- Fear of lack
 - Fear of not having enough

INNER HEALING AND HOW THE SPIRITUAL REALM WORKS

- Fear of not having enough food
- Fear of not having enough money
- Fear of not having enough food to feed the kids
- Fear of not having enough money for the kids

One thing to note: The bad things that happen to you become fears because you will fear them happening to you again. So if someone harms you, then you will fear getting harmed in that manner again. If someone neglects you, then you will fear neglect. If someone robs you, then you will fear getting robbed. If you fail at something, then you will fear that failure. And so on.

Inner Healing: Your Spirit

IMPORTANCE IN SPIRITUAL GROWTH

(Side Note: The spirit of the average person in this era (2023) is covered with the ways of the world, which are the ways of satan. An important thing for your spiritual growth and healing is to rewrite the things of this world that are written on your spirit to the Words of Jesus.)

In this era, (in general) the concept of being “saved” means that you acknowledge that Jesus is God and your savior via your knowledge and belief system; and that you believe you will go to heaven when you die. All of this is based on head knowledge and beliefs. In this era, being “saved” is considered a state of being: either you are, or you are not.

In reality, salvation is a process. The word “saved” in Greek is “sozo,” which can mean: to heal or to be made whole. So, to be “saved” is a healing process to be made whole. Why whole? Because people are hurt and broken by satan. However, people in this era tend to be lazy and usually wicked, so they seek the easy way out. They do not want to see salvation as a process. They want to see it as a done deal with very little involvement or effort on their part. And bad theology created this harvest.

So, part of the salvation process is going through the renewing of the mind. And the renewing of the mind is getting deprogrammed of what the apostate church taught you, which is their theology, and deprogrammed of what the world taught you about how you should treat people and how you should live your life. The renewing of the mind is also learning who Jesus really is and what you should be doing. You can consider “renewing” as “reprogramming.” In simple terms, the renewing of your mind is: reprogramming your mind from satan’s way to Jesus’ way.

Renewing (reprogramming) of the mind is important in your salvation and in your Christian walk. It is also important for your inner healing, too. As long as you hold onto bad theology and the ways of satan (worldly ways/mammon), you will be in constant hurt and brokenness.

It is your mind, and belief system, that will write onto your spirit. If you accept something as reality, it is written onto your spirit. The renewing of the mind will change what you accept as reality; thus, it will change what is written upon your spirit.

So what is the point of rewriting the spirit? To help with the renewing of the mind and to help speed up your personality change so that you can become more like Jesus even faster. And rewriting the things on the spirit will close down the legal grounds for demons to be on you. And the rewriting of the spirit helps to separate you from the world, so you can more easily connect to the Seven Spirits of God, which are: Wisdom, Knowledge, Understanding, Counsel, Might, the Fear of the Lord, and the Spirit of the Lord.

In the normal walk of a believer, God does these things as you make your effort to progress into holiness. However, it is possible to speed up your growth exponentially if you know what to do. And I will teach you what you can do so you can spiritually grow faster.

IMPORTANCE OF INNER HEALING

Not only is rewriting the spirit important for spiritual growth, it is important for inner healing too. And this is because your spirit can have legal grounds for your wounds to be there. And you will need to remove these things from your spirit so your wounds can heal. Doing inner healing on your fears, as I taught before, is rewriting or erasing the fears written on your spirit.

So, removing the fears is just one aspect of rewriting your spirit. Then you would need to work on rewriting the curses and worldly (mammon) things that are written on your spirit. As part of the salvation process, you will need to remove the mammon stuff from your spirit. But for inner healing, you will also need to remove the mammon stuff from your spirit to get your healing.

So, in reality: when you are doing your inner healing by rewriting the things on your spirit, you are also accelerating your spiritual growth at the same time.

(A side teaching: This is what I want you to understand about mammon: in the Bible, God says you can either serve mammon or God. In today's theology, mammon is usually referred to as money. However, this is only partially true. Mammon is a kingdom – satan's kingdom. It is also a way of life – The kingdom of mammon's way of life (satan's way of life). So when God says that you can either serve mammon or God, He is telling you to choose which Kingdom to serve: God's Kingdom or mammon's (satan's) kingdom.)

HOW TO REWRITE YOUR SPIRIT

From what I have seen, you can rewrite your spirit in two different ways: by changing your belief systems or if God does it.

By Changing Your Belief Systems

In this era, changing your belief system seems to be the way that most people go about it. However, they do not know that they are rewriting the things on their spirit. The changing of your belief systems can happen in a few different ways:

1. By forcing the change by constant repetition until you change your perception (reality) to something else. Let's look at some examples:

--- Examples ---

Example 1:

A man wants to remove his fear of spiders, so he constantly repeats that he no longer fears spiders. Plus, he recites scriptures over himself, so fear will lose its power over him. In this example, the man is trying to change his reality by force so that he no longer recognizes the fear of spiders. This will work, but it will take time. And as long as he is dedicated enough, he will change his reality to one where he no longer fears spiders.

Then his spirit will be rewritten so that he no longer fears spiders. And once that is written, then the 'fear of spiders' demon will begin to, or completely, lose its legal grounds to be there. And after that, the demon will eventually be removed or leave.

Example 2:

A person picks up a self-help book and begins to follow it. This person is determined and dedicated to changing, so they will follow the rules laid out within the book. Although the teachings may be worldly in nature, due to the want to change, the principles in the book will eventually be written onto the person's spirit as their new reality.

(A word of warning, though: What you tell people can cause them to accept a new reality, which will cause their spirit to be rewritten. If you are teaching someone evil, then you will be held responsible whenever that person does the evil you taught them to do.)

Example 3:

There is a man who always quotes scriptures over himself to change himself. In this situation, the man is trying to change his perception to the Word of God. This will work, assuming that the man has the correct understanding of it. If he only understands the doctrines of men and doctrines of demons, which is what most of this era's theology is, then it will only change him into mammon Christianity (churchian). But, if the man does have a correct understanding of the Word, then it will write the Word upon him.

--- End Examples ---

2. The next way would be to learn what needs to be changed and then ask God to do it. This is the method I use because it can cause years of change to happen within minutes. However, a person needs to be at the right place spiritually to be able to maintain the change. If the change happens prematurely, then the person will revert back to the way they were before.

For example: If a person is stuck in an infinite reality, then they will revert back. If the person is stuck in a false belief system they refuse to give up, then it can cause them to lose their healing. If a person refuses to give up their sin, unforgiveness, bitterness, resentment, or hatred, then it can cause the person to backtrack. If a person fails to stay in the Word and maintain a good connection to the Holy Spirit, then they will backtrack and lose their healing.

In order to keep the changes, a person needs to have an unmatched desire to push higher into God. If a person only desires to reach certain heights in Jesus, then they will glass ceiling (reach an invisible barrier above them) and will advance no further. And once they stop advancing, they begin to decline spiritually, as though they jumped off a mountain with a hang glider. (A hang glider cannot ever go higher. It will always descend until you reach the ground on a lower level. It may seem like you are having a good time flying, but that is just a delusion.)

Also, to keep the changes, they will need correct understandings on the Word, meaning that they will need the right teachers and mentors. Without them, they will go in the wrong direction. In my case, I had the dreams from Sameach, Son of Joy. And those helped me to learn and stay on track.

(Important: Healing is not a process where a person can just get healed and be on their way. They will need to be taught how to maintain it. And they will need good mentors and teachers to teach them the right way. Without the mentoring and teaching of the Word, as well as, learning inner healing themselves, the person will just backtrack and lose their healing.)

3. Another way people's belief systems are changed is by learning from others. If you have a mentor, teacher, or a person you like, love, or admire, then you will likely listen to the things they say. And you are likely to change your reality to their perception of things. It can also happen with people who you believe to be an authoritative voice on the matter.

This can happen when a pastor gives a sermon. Or when a person goes to school and learns things from their teachers. By believing the government officials. Or by believing the media. It can also happen by accepting and believing what your friends tell you. You can change through the music you listen to and the entertainment you engage in. And you certainly change this way as your parents raise you.

Whoever influences you can change the things written on your spirit if you accept what they tell you as true.

God Naturally Rewriting Your Spirit

In a believer's normal life, God will order their steps so that the person will go through the renewing of the mind via the Fires of Refinement of the Holy Spirit. And this is when God puts you through various tests and situations until you decide to change. And once you change how He wants you to, He will put you through the next test within that Fire.

And those “fires” and tests are usually difficult, painful, and sometimes, nightmares. But He does this because He loves you and wants you to seek Him over the world or selfish desires. And to break out of the world or selfishness usually requires something painful. And if we are stubborn, then it will hurt more. And if we fail our tests, then the next tests will be more painful or difficult as we go through a similar, but more painful or difficult, situation.

And as you break away from the world and your selfishness, God will use the Blood of Jesus to cleanse and erase the world and selfishness from your spirit. And as your actions and personality begin to line up with the Word, the Word will be written upon your spirit. But this is a life process. And sometimes, it takes the majority of a person's life to reach the point of selflessness; at least in this era, it does.

(In this era, very few people end up walking in their blueprint. In this era, I found it common that a chosen person tends to waste half of their life (40 years), then try to start working for the Kingdom of God during the second half of their life. This needs to change. Hopefully, future generations will not waste half of their lives living in the world, which accomplishes nothing.)

HOW TO REWRITE YOUR SPIRIT TO DO INNER HEALING

If you are trying to dedicate your life to Jesus, or already do dedicate your life to Jesus, then rewriting your spirit is easy. However, if you are not, then it is impossible. If you follow the commands of Jesus, then it is easy. But if you are in the world, or do not want anything to do with Jesus, then it is impossible. Only the Blood of Jesus can erase the things written upon your spirit.

To those in this era: notice that I did not mention anything about being saved. The meaning of “being saved” is a poor theological concept that does not have much meaning these days. There is no guarantee that the theological concept of “being saved” gives you access to the Blood of Jesus or His authority. Nor does it guarantee that you will go to Heaven when you die. To “believe” in Jesus means: To do what Jesus tells you to do, and it means to follow His commands. A believer is someone who obeys the commands of Jesus.

Now, if you are a believer, then you can easily rewrite your spirit. And there are two ways (methods) to do it which I have found: (there may be more). The ways are on the following pages.

Way 1:

[Way 1 can be used in an inner healing session]

1. Have a desire to change.
2. Be willing to change and to let go of how you currently are.
3. Ask God to reveal what needs to be changed or removed.
4. Recognize any of the things you did wrong.
5. Repent, ask for forgiveness, and forgive. Then release all bitterness, resentment, and/or hatred that exists in that area needing change.
6. Ask God to rewrite what needs to be changed.

OR Ask God to wash you over with the Blood of Jesus and erase what needs to be removed.

7. Done

Way 2:

[Way 2 is good for self inner healing as you live life normally]

1. As you learn about what is wrong with you, take note of how you want to change.
2. Be willing to change, have a desire to change, and let go of how you currently are.
3. Recognize any of the things you did wrong.
4. Repent, ask for forgiveness, and/or release any bitterness, resentment, or hatred you have that is linked to that change, and/or forgive whoever needs to be forgiven.
5. Ask God to wash clean what is written on your spirit with the Blood of Jesus.
6. Then, if you desire, ask God to write something new onto your spirit.
7. Done

Rewriting your spirit is fairly simple. I mostly used “Way 2” during my spiritual growth. God was always pointing out things that I needed to work on. Sometimes it would be through reading; sometimes through revelation; sometimes through other people; and sometimes through situations. And when I realized I needed to change, I would ask God for those changes. I was always asking God to show me how I needed to change.

The following are examples of rewriting the spirit for inner healing and to change into a better person:

--- Examples ---

Example 1:

God showed me that I had a cocky attitude and was mean to people because of it. So, I repented and asked Father God to forgive me for being mean to people and cocky, arrogant, and prideful. Then I asked Him to remove my cocky attitude, which was on my spirit, by saying: "Father, please erase everything from my spirit that is related to the cocky attitude and please replace it with love. In the name of Jesus. Amen." Then I prayed in tongues and noticed that a demon left me. So the cocky attitude was part of my personality, and it had a demon trying to enforce it.

Example 2:

During our lives, we end up picking up mannerisms from people we are around. Sometimes it is a manner of speech we gain or maybe a habit. Sometimes I did not like the mannerism I received from someone and wanted it to go away. So, I would ask God to erase the mannerism from my spirit. Afterwards, it would be gone. Sometimes, a mannerism was a demon, so it had to be cast off.

Example 3:

There was a man who would forget something, then say as an excuse: “Sorry, my brain is not working today.” He constantly said this every day, many times a day. Because he said such things, laws that would cause him to constantly forget and lose the thoughts from his mind, were written upon his spirit and autonomous collective. It also created laws that stated that his brain (thought process and memory) would stop functioning.

This enabled both demons to be on him and for the knowledge and memory part of his soul to freeze or stop working momentarily. It also allowed the demons to block his memories and to steal his thoughts. It also allowed the “brain fog” demon to be on him. The laws he created by saying this repeatedly also became a spiritual force to cripple him physically and spiritually. Although the forgetfulness and unclear thinking may not be bad in the early part of his life, his saying that his brain did not work would eventually cause him to get dementia.

He would eventually fix the issue by doing the following: He repented for all the times he said his brain stopped working. He asked God to forgive him for doing that. Then he asked Father God to rewrite everything on his spirit and autonomous collective, which was due to him decreeing that “his brain did not work” to “his brain did work. And that he is not forgetful. And that he can think clearly.” Afterwards, the man no longer had any problems.

Example 4:

When I was married, I picked up a lot of quarks and mannerisms from my wife. After the divorce, I asked God to erase all the mannerisms from my spirit, which I had picked up from my wife, and it was so.

Example 5:

I had a musician lay hands on me and pass unto me the skills for drums. However, I was unable to keep tempo. Then I asked Father God to write the ability to keep tempo onto my spirit, specifically the tempo of the person I received the skills from. Then I prayed in tongues. And God wrote upon my spirit the tempo of 60 to 66 beats per minute. At which point and time, I was able to play the drums correctly and not get off beat.

Lesson to learn: you can ask God to write skills upon you. But remember, you will need to keep practicing those skills; otherwise, you may have trouble with them or not be able to use them to their full extent or even at all. You will have to be a good steward of that skill if you want to keep it or if you want to improve it.

A quick note: in addition to the gift of tongues, there is also the gift of instruments, where the Holy Spirit will play instruments through you. This example does not refer to the Gift of Instruments.

Example 6:

I attempted to disconnect from the world during one of my inner healing sessions. So, I asked God to remove everything the entertainment industry had written upon my spirit. And He did. I could feel a lot of various stuff being stripped off of my spirit. So I continued on, asking for other various things to be removed from my spirit, like, stuff from music, movies, from the news; the things I learned, which were actually lies; the things people spoke over me that were not of Love; the curses spoken over me, from both me and others; and from any other worldly thing I could think of. Often, I would pray in tongues afterwards.

At the end of it, it felt as though my spirit was naked. It was an odd feeling. Then half a day later, I asked God to write Love on all the empty space where things of the world had been previously written. And He did. Afterwards, a warm feeling came over my spirit. It also felt like my spirit went from being naked to being clothed. After the warm feeling came over me, I suddenly broke down and cried.

After that, I was able to experience joy much easier. I was able to hear God better afterwards, too. And I was able to make better connections to the Seven Spirits of God once all the worldly stuff was removed from my spirit. And my draw to worldly things was greatly lessened. I also asked God to remove anything related to that from my autonomous collective, as well.

Example 7:

I am the type of person who learns and stores an enormous amount of information. I also learn about ten times faster than a normal person, meaning I could gain a lifetime's worth of knowledge within a decade. So, with nearly three lifetimes worth of knowledge, it was difficult for me to access information. It would also take me a while to sort through all the information.

After getting rid of the worldly stuff off of my spirit, I could think clearer. And I was able to access information easier. Part of the reason was because God deleted some of the information I had learned from the world. At that point and time, I realized that my inability to access what I knew quickly was because all of the information I knew was stored in a jumbled-up fashion. As though words were written on top of words, making things incomprehensible, not unless you somehow managed to separate the words from being on top of each other.

After realizing such a thing, I asked God to reorganize the things on my spirit so I could access it easier. And He did. And I was able to think a little clearer, thanks to Father doing that for me. But I had come to learn this: not only do you look to your spirit for knowledge and information, you also have knowledge and information stored in your soul. So I asked God to reorganize the information in my soul so I could access it easier, too. And He did.

One thing to note: you might want to consider how you phrase your requests for change. You may not want to ask a generic request like: "Father, please erase all knowledge relating to the world." In doing so, you might end up erasing information relating to the skill sets you have obtained. Instead, it would be better to ask the request with exclusions, like: "Father, please erase all knowledge from me, which is related to the world, which I will not use, or do not need anymore. In the name of Jesus. Amen."

Example 8:

There was one time when I asked God to erase all of the eating habits from my spirit and soul, which I had gained by my own efforts, and return me back to the way He originally intended me to be when I was first born. In the beginning, I thought this was a great idea. However, I lost my ability to fast, and I lost my ability to control my eating.

I discovered that a baby eats when they feel hungry – In every single instance. So, every time I felt the faintest of hunger, I would go eat something. When a demon tempted me and gave me a craving or caused me to feel hungry, I would eat. I had no control over it. It was around then I began to learn something:

When our spirit and soul is perfect, without spot or blemish, we will naturally act in accordance to every nudging and command of the Holy Spirit. We build up resistances to the spiritual forces here on Earth because of how the demons influence people. In our walk with Jesus, we have to have these resistances in order to resist satan, but it can also backfire because it can resist the Holy Spirit, too. And demons cause us to build up resistances so we will resist the Holy Spirit and fall into rebellion.

After I lost my ability to fast, I attempted to regain my ability to fast by asking Father God to write a holy ability to fast onto my soul and spirit. And He did. That ability also gave me the ability to resist my hunger, too. However, any time I listened to a demon and ate because they influenced me to eat, I ended up losing that holy ability to fast and control my hunger.

Example 9:

I had trouble doing math. It was always being blocked. And it would take a long time for me to calculate. So I ran an experiment: I asked God to write the times table for math onto my spirit. And He did. Afterwards, I found it a lot easier to access math and do multiplication. And I could even obtain the answers for multiplication instantly. However, I would later discover demons trying to block me from seeing the table, obtaining information from my spirit, or blocking me from hearing the Holy Spirit.

Example 10:

Because my second wife was worldly, satan used her to hurt me a lot. And I had received a lot of emotional damage from her. After our divorce, I was still greatly damaged. Even to the point where my memories of her would cause pain, or even cause me to hate her, resent her, gain bitterness or resentment towards her, or even have offense towards her. And demons would recall my memories of her and show me those memories in an attempt to cause me to have bitterness, resentment, hatred, unforgiveness, and offense towards her and/or to cause me more emotional damage.

So, I asked God to remove her completely from my spirit and remove all of my memories of her. And He did, but in an interesting way: For the most part, my memories of her and our times together are deleted. Usually, a memory will be in action, like a movie. However, the memories went from being action based to being still pictures. And only a handful of those pictures exist.

There were some memories where the majority of the information was removed, so it looked like a picture with 70% of the picture erased. In other memories, she was completely blacked out, as though someone had painted the section where she was in black. Except for the pictures I have of her, I cannot remember her face. Nor can I remember the things we talked about.

After that happened, the demons no longer had any information to torment me with. So I was able to walk in peace because God had erased all of my memories, which would bring me pain or into the realm of negativity.

As a side note, I did know about inner healing during this time. And I did do inner healing on myself, which healed me of the emotional damage. However, being healed of the emotional damage did not prevent the emotional damage from coming back. The bad memories would bring back the emotional damage. I tried everything I could think of to bring the pain to an end. Asking God to remove my ex-wife from my spirit and my memories allowed me to be at peace. Afterwards, I just learned to stay away from her to keep from getting hurt again.

Satan will use a worldly woman to destroy the ministry of a man. A worldly woman will have the spirit of Herodias or Jezebel come upon them, which will cause ministry destruction. If a man or woman is moving in their blueprint, it is best to be cautious around worldly people of the opposite sex because satan might use them to bring them down. Also, a man or woman who is walking in their blueprint is best off being married to someone who is walking in their blueprint, too.

If they are married to someone who is still attached to their flesh, then satan will use that fleshy spouse in an attempt to bring them down, and the relationship will be full of tribulations or just a living hell. And if someone is in a situation like that, then it may be best to divorce the fleshy spouse for the sake of the Kingdom. But follow the leading of the Holy Spirit when it concerns divorce – not your friends or your belief system.

Example 11:

Social anxieties, or anxieties in general, are fears. So, it is best to start by doing inner healing for fear. Besides fears, other things can be written upon your spirit in relation to those anxieties. Here are some examples:

If a person has a fear of heights, they may constantly say that they do not like heights or do not want to go to certain places. Such things end up written onto their spirits. So they would need to repent of the fear and ask God to erase everything in relation to things said about heights or about high places.

Same thing with not wanting to be around people because of how it makes you feel. You would have to repent of such a thing, then go through the fear inner healing. Afterwards, you would have to ask God to rewrite everything relating to not wanting to be around people, as well as, all the times you said you did not want to go somewhere or do something due to not wanting to be around people.

The anxieties can turn into hatred towards something. And there would need to be repentance for the fears and hatred, then inner healing for the fears. Followed by asking God to rewrite all the hatred to love. And do not forget to be willing to release the anxieties and hatred. And you will also need the desire for change.

Example 12: (Belittling yourself)

If you belittle yourself, then it will have a negative effect on you because it constantly puts word curses upon yourself. And this will harm you spiritually and physically because it opens up legal grounds for you to become however you belittled yourself.

In order to get rid of the belittling and to remove the curses, you will need to do the following: repent for the things you said about yourself. Openly declare that you are not such a person or that way. Ask God to rewrite everything on your spirit about what you said to the opposite. Pray in tongues if you need to.

So, if you constantly say that you are stupid, then repent for saying such a thing because God did not create people to be stupid. He created them to be intelligent. Then openly declare that you are NOT stupid. Then ask God to rewrite everything written on your spirit that says you are stupid to “you are NOT stupid.”

Belittling yourself is usually a trait you obtained from someone else. However, that trait is a legal contract for one or more demons to be on you. And those demons can cause you to belittle yourself by suggesting it to you in your thoughts or by taking over your body and saying it. I have seen both happen. Since this is the case, you will also need deliverance to remove the demons related to the belittling and use spiritual warfare to keep them from coming back.

Example 13 (religious laws):

Religious laws will end up written upon your spirit. And oftentimes, you will believe them to be the Word of God when in fact, they are just the traditions or laws of man. When you learn that you accepted a religious law as being the “truth,” just repent for believing the lie. Then ask God to remove everything written about it from your spirit. Pray in tongues if you need to. And soon after, you should feel as though you are no longer bound to such a law.

But, be advised: believing a false religious law is a contract, which will contract in a demon to make sure you follow and believe that law. So you will need to cast out the demon(s) associated with the religious law. There may be more than one demon contracted in with a religious law.

Example 14:

One of the things we often struggle with is our regrets and shame. And this is what can be done: if you did something wrong, then ask for forgiveness from both God and whoever you offended (if you did offend someone). Sometimes, you may need to forgive yourself for what you did. And you may need to reconcile with someone, too. Then ask God to erase such a thing from your spirit and memories. Pray in tongues if need be. You will need to be willing to let such an event go, to leave behind the past, and be willing to move into the future. Deliverance may be necessary because regrets often contract demons to be on you to remind you of your regrets.

Example 15:

People speaking things over you can be written onto your spirit and autonomous collective. If someone is speaking a negative thing over you, then you will need to disagree with such a thing immediately. And you will need to say it out loud to the person who said such a thing to you. There are many examples of this, but I will share a few:

One of the myths in this era is this: “You will get sick if you play out in the rain.” I loved playing out in the rain, but I never got sick from it. Lots of other people have the same experiences of playing in the rain and not getting sick. Therefore, that myth is untrue. However, if the parent is speaking such a thing over their child, then such a thing can get written upon the child’s autonomous collective and spirit. And that creates an open door for a demon to make the child sick if they play out in the rain.

And if the myth is written upon the child’s spirit and autonomous collective, and the child gets sick from playing in the rain, then it can become a law upon the child’s life, causing the myth to always happen. Then, as the child grows into an adult, if that adult has their own children, then the law about getting sick can become a generational curse, which will be passed down to their children.

In this era, people love to tell you what is good and bad for you. And there is tons of information, often contradicting one another, to make you believe one opinion over another. And people choose what they agree with the most. Now, there are things that are proven facts: if you drink poison, then you will get poisoned; if you stab yourself, then you will get injured; if you jump off a cliff, then you will most likely die; and so on.

If someone tells you that something will harm you or is not good for you and it is not a proven fact, then disagree with it immediately. Failure to do so may cause such a thing to be written upon your autonomous collective and/or spirit. And that would open doors for demons to be on you to cause you harm.

One thing to know about spiritual law is this: if you are not against something, then it means that you allow it. Even if you say nothing in response, it means that you allow it. If you want to disagree with something and cast it down, then you need to be vocal about it and vocally disagree with it.

What if someone speaks something over you and you do not know it? For me, I regularly ask God to erase the curses and evil spoken over me.

Do not be foolish and tempt God. If it is a known fact that some chemical will harm or kill you, then do not drink it while “believing in faith” that it will not harm or kill you. You will reap what you sew. Faith cannot override the Law. It can only work within the Law. Drinking a harmful thing is only an example. Apply this example to all things which can harm or kill you. Only do such a thing IF, and only IF, Father God has told you to do something like that.

For example: if you are running from those who are trying to persecute you and you find yourself on a cliff, you might hear God tell you to walk on air to the other side of the valley. And if He really did, then you may see a miracle where you walk on air. However, if you are trying to get God to allow you to walk on air so you can walk to the other side, then such a thing may not happen, and you may fall to your death if you tried.

--- End Examples ---

INNER HEALING AND LIFESTYLE CHANGE

Inner healing is not just about getting things healed. It is also about changing your lifestyle. If you maintain your normal lifestyle, you will lose your healing. To obtain and keep the healing, you will need to change your lifestyle and transform your mind. In the Bible, it is referred to as “the renewing of your mind.”

The renewing of your mind is a process when you forget what you were taught in life and learn how to operate like a citizen of Heaven. In this process, you learn the Laws that Jesus created. In learning the Law, you learn how to properly love, honor, respect, and treat people. You learn what Jesus expects of you. And you learn how to advance His Kingdom. The world (mammon) does not teach you such things.

No, it teaches you the opposite and how to destroy God’s Kingdom. And since you grew up in the world, you learned the ways of the world, which are the ways to destroy God’s Kingdom. Due to this, curses are naturally heaped upon you because those are the rewards of abiding by the law of mammon. From this comes your hurts and the need for healing. So a changing of lifestyle is needed to obtain the healing. Without changing your lifestyle to the ways of Jesus, you will continue activating and strengthening the curses over your life and continue to be wounded.

One of the changes a person would need to make is to become grateful. Gratitude will be a key factor in turning unhappiness and negativity into joy. Living in unhappiness and negativity will create wounds upon your soul and taint your spirit and autonomous collective. And from a negative hurting heart will cause curses of negativity to flow from your mouth, further destroying your life.

When you are outside of gratitude, you are outside of God. If you want a true heavenly nature, then be grateful for what was done for you. This is because gratitude will cause you to give more, love more, do more, and honor more. Learn to be grateful for the things in your life. Learn to be grateful for the possibilities and potential outcomes. Be grateful for the loving motives of people. Even if people do not follow through with blessing you, just be grateful for what could have been and for that person’s motives.

Another part of the transformed lifestyle is daily worship. Doing worship in spirit and truth will combat the negativity, demons, and hurts in your life. Worshipping in spirit and truth will bring healing, too. If you want to see some of the power of God manifest in your life, then worship at least seventeen hours per week, which is spending at least 10% of each day in worship. Get your family and friends to participate with you, too.

Do not forget to immerse yourself in the word. This is part of the changed lifestyle. You will have to learn what Jesus expects of you. You will find this in the Bible. To seek first the Kingdom of God is to read the Word and learn what Jesus expects of you. And after you learn it, apply it to your life. In applying those things to your life, you will reap the benefits and blessings promised in the Bible. Without applying those things, you will get nothing and likely lose and prevent any healing.

INNER HEALING: RELEASING THE GOOD AND BREAKING THE POWERS

Getting your healing is only part of the process. Changing your lifestyle is another required part of inner healing. Part of that changed lifestyle is the binding and loosing of things. When I went through inner healing, I received a lot of healing, and I changed a lot from this. However, things were still difficult in some areas, like getting my work done or succumbing to laziness, distraction, overeating, etc.

I was good at spiritual warfare and did it daily to combat these things, but they were always a daily burden. Then I began to learn more about breaking the powers and loosing things. And once I put this into practice, then things began to flow in a more godly manner, with little resistance from the enemy. I will teach you what I have learned.

The things written upon an autonomous collective will give power to spiritual entities. It will give power to either Heaven or hell to rule within it. The larger the words upon the autonomous collective, the more power it gives. To break the power of “something” is to remove the legal grounds and spiritual power of that “something” that resides over an area, entity, or person. Breaking the power of something is also the same as removing the words from an autonomous collective.

For example, if you break the power of laziness over a home, then it will remove the legal grounds for laziness to be in that home. But the demons of laziness would still need to be cast out (removed) from the home because sometimes they will stick around, even when they do not have the legal grounds to be there.

Breaking the power of things does not guarantee the opposite will be implemented. If the power of laziness is broken over the home, then it does not mean that people will stop being lazy and suddenly want to work. No, it just means that there is less drive and desire to be lazy. If you want to achieve the opposite of the power you just broke, then you would need to release the opposite into the home. Continuing with the example of laziness, after the power of laziness is broken, then you would need to release the following over the home: productivity, diligence, and drive.

Now I will teach you a method I use to break and loose things upon people, entities, or things. Although the decrees below may refer to “you,” “me,” “my,” or “myself,” just remember that this method can be used on people, places, organizations, objects, ideas, and other things. So just replace the “you,” “me,” “my,” or “myself” with whoever or whatever. This method is separated into two parts: The first part is the howto. The other contains the lists of things to loose and break. So when “<item breaking list>” or “<item loosing list>” is referred to, just go to the next page for the appropriate list.

This is the method:

- 1) Start with breaking the powers of hell and the world that are upon you. You can do this by decreeing the following, “In the name of Jesus, I break the powers of <item breaking list> that is over me.” If you want to include your home, then decree the following, “In the name of Jesus, I break the powers of <item breaking list> that is over me, my home, and my family.”
- 2) Command all the demons involved with such things to be sent to the feet of Jesus (where He will deal with them) by commanding, “In the name of Jesus, I command all the demons involved with such things to be sent to the feet of Jesus.”
- 3) Now loose / release the good things upon you by decreeing the following: “In the name of Jesus, I loose the following over me: <item loosing list> .” Feel free to add people, buildings, locations, cities, countries, places, and businesses to your decree.
- 4) Submit yourself to the authority of Heaven by decreeing, “In the name of Jesus, I submit myself to the authority of Heaven and put myself under the authority of Heaven.”
- 5) Don’t forget the anoint the place and ask God for protection.

These are the breaking and loosing lists. Feel free to add to them. There are many powers of evil you can break. And there are many good, holy things you can loose. These lists are not all-inclusive, but they do give you a start. Some space was left so you can write here if you would like.

<item loosing list> (the things you loose over yourself. Everything may not apply to you.)

Diligence, excellence, vibrancy, energy, love, peace, joy, initiative, drive, restraint, self-control, eating restraint, precision, order, servanthood, perseverance, hustle,, precision, productivity, unabated focus, organization, strong character, loyalty to Jesus, generosity, wisdom, prudence, soundness of mind, good behavior, tamed tongue, holy/righteous tongue, concentration, consideration, honor, respect, efficiency, the Seven Spirits of God (Wisdom, Might, Knowledge, Counsel, Understanding, Fear of the Lord, and Spirit of the Lord), unity, worship, boldness, the ability to godly confront, humility

<item breaking list> (the powers you break over yourself. Everything may not apply to you.)

Laziness, hell, foolishness, forgetfulness, untamed tongue, poverty, delay, slob, hoarding, sloppiness, disunity, disorganization, mind blockers, weak of character, division, conflict, excuses, dishonor, disrespect, wastefulness, fearfulness, fear, fear of man, selfishness, mammon, stinginess, forgetfulness, “spacing out,” worship blockers, gossip, worship suppression, hate, pride, arrogance,

Another thing to consider loosing over you would be the destruction of bad relationships in your life and loosing good relationships into your life. However, be warned because it could turn your life upside down. So if you want to do this, then decree the following: “In the name of Jesus, I release over me and my life destruction of every relationship that does not bring me closer to God or would be healthy for my spiritual growth. And I release over me and my life relationships that would bring me closer to God or would be healthy for my spiritual growth.”

INNER HEALING: ACCUSATIONS AND UNFORGIVENESS

Unforgiveness

Unforgiveness is a key that will absolutely block you from receiving healing or blessings. Remember the Bible talking about the keys to Heaven? Unforgiveness is a key to destruction. Unforgiveness will bring hell upon your life. It will bring you grief, anger, irritation, hatred, bitterness, resentment, conflict, infighting, regrets, strife, stress, gossip, disunity, emotional turmoil, and wild emotional ups and downs.

It also brings upon you many curses. These curses can include: separation from God, blocking of Godly blessings, the opening of the portals of Hell into your life, it opens doors to demons in your life, and can cause you to go to Hell. For if you cannot forgive, then the Father cannot forgive you. And when you start to have the disunity, resentment, bitterness, hatred, etc., (due to the unforgiveness), then the curses from those things will be added upon you.

Unforgiveness is one of the things that causes emotional damage to your soul. It is imperative that you make some time to be alone and honestly release the unforgiveness you have and honestly say that you forgive.

Unforgiveness is one of those things that you may not recognize or feel. And although a person may say they forgive, the unforgiveness may still be deeply buried within. But the things within the heart are always exposed by a person's speech and actions. So far, these are some of the things I have seen that exposes a place where someone has unforgiveness:

- Every complaint a person has, is an area where unforgiveness exists.
- People who act in disunity and try to separate themselves from someone else has unforgiveness.
- People who remove you from your life (usually) have unforgiveness towards you.
- When you remove people from your life because of something (or many things) they did to you, you have unforgiveness towards them.
- Every offense you have is a place where unforgiveness exists.
- Almost every hurt you have will have unforgiveness with it.
- Accusations usually have unforgiveness behind it, too.
- Regrets exist because you did not forgive yourself for that regret. You can have unforgiveness towards yourself.

Unforgiveness can be against any person, place, organization, thing, or idea. You can have unforgiveness towards a political statement. You can hate math and have unforgiveness towards it because you get frustrated with it due to its difficulty. You can have unforgiveness towards organizations that offend you or make you displeased.

You can spread unforgiveness by talking to people about your negative opinions about things (this is considered idle words). You can spread unforgiveness through gossip (this is considered idle words). You can spread unforgiveness through your actions. The way you treat people can cause unforgiveness in them.

Unforgiveness exists in many places in a person's life. In Matthew 18:22, Jesus told us that we should forgive 70 times 7. Some of the context that is left out is that it is 70×7 times per day. Or 490 times per day. This averages to every 2 minutes and 56 seconds per 24-hour period. Or if you sleep for 8 hours, then it would equate to forgiving someone once every 1 minute and 58 seconds.

Two minutes is enough time to get offended about something, take a few seconds to release your anger and offense and then forgive. And the 70×7 remark from Jesus means that we should be at the point where we forgive endlessly throughout the day – every day. Unforgiveness is not limited to people. It can also be against ideas, objects, pets, businesses, countries, war, groups, denominations, churches, religions, entertainment, games, you losing, regrets, etc. When we become offended and obtain unforgiveness, we should instantly forgive.

If you do not forgive, then it will lead to accusations and gossip. And this leads us to the next lesson: Accusations (on next page).

Accusation

An accusation is something where you charge (or blame) a person, place, thing, idea, or organization with some form of offense, crime, or wrongdoing. Accusations can be straight to the point or found in complaints, hurts, offenses, gossip, or things you are against. However, each accusation that exists has unforgiveness behind it.

Although accusations are a normal thing on Earth, they are far more dangerous than you think. If Heaven sends you someone (human or angel) to bless you, but you accuse them of something, then that accusation blocks the blessing. Meaning you will not receive anything from them.

A blessing may come in the form of information. And that information may lead you to what you need. But if you accuse that person of something, then you will either reject the information because your heart is turned against them, or you will not receive what you were supposed to, even if you followed the instructions.

Aside from stopping blessings, it can cause delay in ministries, and the chain reactions can cause the loss of millions of souls. If a pastor, apostle, or prophet has accusations put against them, then those accusations can prevent people from listening to them. And if God has that pastor, apostle, or prophet give someone a word, and the person refuses that word due to the accusation, then it could cause damage to the Kingdom.

It could prevent someone from receiving the information they need. And when the information is not received, then it could abort ministries or life blueprints. Suppose a person was destined to change a nation from being ungodly to godly, but he needed instructions from God to do it. If those plans were sent through a prophet and the person refused the plans because he heard the accusations against the prophet, then the nation would be left behind for a generation, and no change would happen to that nation. And on judgment day, the fate of that generation would be meted out upon the false accuser.

When you start blaming God for the problems in your life, then that will open up cases of accusations against God, Himself. This is bad, considering that you may block yourself from receiving from God. Those false accusations may become unpardonable sins if you are not careful.

Accusations also carry curses with them. So when you accuse someone, you will get a curse put over you. If you falsely accuse someone, then you will receive double the curses. If you falsely accuse a child, then you will get quadruple the curses. This is for each accusation you make.

One of the curses of accusation is that you will have to go through the accusation yourself. Another curse is that making accusations actually cause those accusations to befall you. I will tell you about a few stories I have observed:

— Stories —

One time, there was a man and a woman who were engaged. The woman grew bored with the man, so she called things off. Then she falsely accused him of witchcraft and other things. Then the woman found herself in a relationship with an abusive, controlling man who was the type of person that she accused her previous fiancée of.

—

There was a married couple. God had put them together. After a few years, the man fell away from God and failed his tests, so God divorced them. A short while later, God married the woman to another man who was working to put the Kingdom of God first. Later on, the woman would follow her selfish desires and start falsely accusing her husband of things.

She falsely accused him of being a warlock. She falsely accused him of destroying her old family. And she played a role in causing him to lose almost all of his important pictures. Eventually, the woman cheated on her husband and left him for her ex-husband, which caused her current husband to lose his family.

The things she caused upon her second husband ended up being returned back to her. The woman lost her password to her precious pictures that were stored online. So she lost almost all of her photos. Her first husband manipulated her back into remarrying him, which is witchcraft. He abused her afterwards, and he would die a short time later. Afterwards, she would lose one of her children.

She falsely accused her second husband of witchcraft, so she was put under someone who actively used manipulation (witchcraft). She accused her second husband of causing her to lose her family, only to find herself becoming a young widow a few months after getting remarried to her first husband. Plus, she lost one of her children after he died. Plus, she ended up losing important pictures, just like how she played a role in causing her second husband to lose his important pictures.

She caused her second husband to lose his hopes and dreams for a family. Her first husband manipulated her back into a false-hope happy marriage, promising her everything she wanted. She fell for that, and those hopes, dreams, and happiness were shattered when she ended up in an abusive relationship, further worsened when her first / third husband died suddenly, then having her child removed from her custody the same day.

The second husband was not perfect. After his wife divorced him and went back to her first husband, he held that against her. So he was tested. His first wife came back to him asking to get remarried. He would eventually refuse, but he was still tested because he had an accusation against his second wife for leaving him and remarrying her first husband.

—

There was a pastor “named” [A] who complained to others about how he was unjustly treated and judged by the pastor he used to be under. Eventually, [A] would be put through the same situations as his old pastor. Pastor [A] may have passed some of those tests, but others he seemed to have failed because he acted similar to how his pastor treated him.

—

There was a lady who gossiped about, complained about, and falsely accused many people. And due to that, those things that she gossiped about, complained about, and accused people of, constantly befell her. And she would even make those mistakes herself, which would make her a hypocrite. Due to this, all of her joy was sucked away. She lived a bitter and resentful life filled with stress, hate, and misery. And she constantly had all the things she complained about constantly befall her.

— End Stories —

Accusations also bring the curses of torment with them. When you make an accusation, records are made of it in Heaven. Hell either has access to those records, or they have their own records. And those records become contracts for demons to bring torment into your life. That torment can be in the form of emotional pain, physical afflictions (like sickness), and/or in the form of having those events constantly repeat.

Here is a story to learn from:

There was a man who was married to a woman. The woman constantly rejected him after they got married. She would commit adultery on him and would use him to satisfy her own emotional needs while rejecting his. And there were other problems in the marriage, too. This emotionally wounded the man to the highest degree. The man came to hate his wife and had a lot of unforgiveness towards her.

Eventually, they would get divorced, but they still lived close to each other. Since the man had unforgiveness, demons would torment the man constantly. They would constantly remind him of his past marriage. They would torment him with high levels of emotional stress every time he would cross paths with his ex-wife. The torment was severe enough that crossing paths with his ex-wife would emotionally cripple the man for about three to four days.

The man's ex-wife was a worldly woman who was easily controlled by demons. So the demons would tell her exactly what to say and to do to cause the maximum amount of emotional damage to the man. And the demons did that every time they talked.

After a while, the man eventually learned that the legal grounds were from the accusations he had against his ex-wife. Some of them were true, like adultery, but he held that against her. So it was a legal ground for the demons to torment him about it. So he began to forgive his ex-wife for the things she had done to him. Then he dropped the accusations he had against her.

Afterwards, the torment left the man because there were no more legal grounds for the demons to torment him. He was released from the torment he had from his ex-wife. Joy returned to him, and he lived in peace.

— End Story —

This is the lesson to be learned: each accusation has unforgiveness behind it. If you want to remove your accusations, you will need to forgive the offense. Afterwards, you will need to remove the accusation.

For me, I understand that accusations are written down in Heaven. After I have forgiven the offense inside of the accusation, I will imagine the written accusation being burned and turned to ash. I know it really happens in Heaven because I have the faith for it to happen that way.

If you want to get rid of the accusations you have, then here is a simple little list of how to do it:

- If you know what the accusation is, then forgive the offense. If you do not know, then ask God to show you an accusation you have. And after He brings one to your memory, then forgive the offense.
- Coat the offense in the Blood of Jesus. Either imagine it or decree it by saying, “In the name of Jesus, I coat this <name of offense> in the Blood of Jesus.”
- Ask God to forgive you for anything you did wrong.
- Recant of the accusation. Then imagine it burning up into nothing or ask God to remove it from the heavens.

Final Thoughts on Unforgiveness

When you are going through deliverance or inner healing, you will need to forgive everyone, thing, idea, place, etc. you have offense against. Just verbally saying that you forgive does not necessarily mean you released the unforgiveness from your heart. If you are still complaining or thinking about the past hurt on a regular basis after you received your healing, then you may have unforgiveness there, and you may not be truly healed in that area.

If you are having difficulty forgiving someone, then just ask God to make it easy for you to forgive, and He will. Here is a secret to know: Unforgiveness blocks joy. Once you no longer have any unforgiveness, then the joy of the Lord can flow to you. (Disclaimer: the joy of the Lord can be blocked by other things, too, like disunity, worldliness, being involved in the world, going your own way in life, etc...)

REASONS WHY YOU WILL NOT GET HEALED

One of the things I want to address is: why you will not get healed. In this era, some people have this belief system that everyone should be healed and that they should have both their physical and spiritual healing. And sometimes, they complain when they do not get it. And sometimes, such people will turn against those who fail to heal them.

And sometimes, people will lose faith in healing because they do not get healed. What people need to understand is that healing is a complicated thing. It is not always guaranteed. And those who do not get healed should be made aware of some of the reasons why they will not get healed.

In this section, I list a few of the reasons why people will not get healed. This list is not complete. It only lists a few things that I have come to learn.

Reason: Need to Pass a Test First

Sometimes, in order to receive inner healing, you must pass the tests God puts you through. My second marriage was such a test. The marriage was a living hell, which caused me the most emotional damage out of any other event or situation I had faced before. (However, I did learn a lot more about inner healing because of it.) I really wanted out of the marriage, but God kept telling me to stay with it.

Eventually, God gave me a choice on what to do: leave the marriage or obey Him and stay in the marriage. During the time of choice, which was a few days of time where I had to make the choice to leave the marriage or stay in the marriage, all voices went quiet. The demons were not allowed to tempt me or talk to me. And God went silent. It was my chance to finally leave the marriage I hated. But I decided to stay in the marriage because God told me many times to stay with it.

With that, I passed one of my tests which was: the test of obedience. I was willing to be obedient to God, even if I had to endure a living hell – all for the sake of the Kingdom. Passing my test would give my wife a test of obedience: whether she would be obedient to God and stick with the marriage or follow her fleshly desires. She chose to follow her fleshly desires, so she failed her test.

A few days after she failed her test, God divorced us, which surprised me because I thought I would have to endure the marriage for even longer. Although I had lost another family, I had obeyed God. And in passing that test of obedience, God began the process of setting me free of the world and fleshly desires.

Worldly desires are rooted in fear. Although I had gone through the process of removing hundreds of fears during my second marriage, I still was not free of the fears that fueled my worldly desires. And that was because I did not have the legal grounds to get rid of them. I had to pass my tests of obedience to be allowed to remove those fears.

And after I passed that test and my marriage ended, my spiritual growth greatly accelerated, while my ex-wife spiritually declined.

Reason: The Hurt is the Test

Sometimes, the emotional damage cannot be healed because it is part of your test. Sometimes, people need to be tested to see if they can act in love despite being severely emotionally damaged. And that is what I went through in my second marriage. The marriage was hell on earth. I was very badly emotionally damaged by my wife. However, it was my test to see if I was willing to act in love towards her or to respond in my flesh and hurt her back.

There were times when I did fail. But in the end, I did manage to pass my tests. However, I did come out of that marriage broken and emotionally damaged. And I even hated her, even though I did not know it. It would take a long time before there would be full healing from the damage because the things that happened within the marriage left me with infinite reality hurts.

And those hurts would later be used to keep me away from her, so I could focus on advancing the Kingdom of God. If I had continued on to be with her, then she would have most likely become my Jezebel and brought my ministry to an end. And having those hurts prevented my spiritual downfall through her.

Reasons: It is a Waste of Time

- God loves to heal people. However, some people are stubborn and/or foolish. Sometimes when God heals someone, the person will go back and get hurt again due to their stubbornness and/or their foolishness. And if people are not good stewards of their healing and keep getting hurt again, then eventually, God will stop healing them until they can be good stewards of their healing.
- Sometimes a person will get healed, but they go back to the sin that caused the harm, so they get hurt again and lose their healing. If God already knows that a person will do this, He may not heal them.
- An infinite reality is a waste of time to heal because the wound will reappear.

Reasons: To Advance the Kingdom

Sometimes God will not heal someone of a hurt because the hurt causes the advancement of the Kingdom. And there are many situations to consider:

- Someone may have an emotional hurt, which gives them a driving passion to pray. If they did not have such a hurt, then they would not pray. And since the prayers from the person helps to advance the Kingdom, God does not heal them, so the Kingdom will benefit from the prayers.
- Sometimes, the hurt someone has towards someone else keeps the two people separated. If the two people were together, then it would negatively affect the Kingdom, and/or it would cause one of those people to go off track and fall into disobedience. And for the sake of the Kingdom, God does not heal the hurt(s) to keep the people separate.

- Sometimes a hurt causes someone to seek God. And if the person did not have the hurt, then they would not seek God. So God does not heal the hurt because it would cause the person to fall away and stop seeking God. And that hurt may not be healed until after the person is stable in their walk and will not fall away due to being healed. Sometimes situations will have the same effect to cause them to seek God. So God will lead people into such situations for their spiritual growth and salvation. And those situations may be either good or bad.
- Sometimes God will not heal the hurts, so you will learn something which will cause spiritual growth. And sometimes, the things learned from the hurt will help others and aid them in spiritual growth.
- Sometimes God will not heal a hurt because the hurt helps others, which causes the Kingdom to advance.
- Sometimes, the hurt gives a person compassion for others who suffer from similar hurts. And due to that, the hurting person helps others out of their compassion, which causes the Kingdom to advance. If God healed the hurt, then the person would lose their compassion and not help others.

Reasons: You do not Have the Legal Grounds

God needs legal grounds in order to heal someone. If the legal grounds do not exist, then He cannot heal them. And there are many ways for God to not have legal grounds to heal someone:

- If a person has curses upon them, either generational or from magic, then such things can prevent a person from being healed.
- Sin can also prevent a person from being healed.
- You cannot heal a heart that is poisoned with dishonor.
- Disobedience to what God told you to do can prevent you from being healed.

- In this era, lots of people claim to be Christian, but only about 5% are actually believers who do as Jesus commands (or are “saved” – if using this era’s terminology). If you are not actively dedicating your life or at least trying to dedicate your life to Jesus, then there are no legal grounds to heal you, except if it would cause you to dedicate your life to Jesus.

So those who live their life the way they want to live it (meaning that they have not dedicated their lives to doing as Jesus commands, thus, fulfilling their blueprint) cannot expect to receive any healing because they likely will not get it. Jesus takes care of those who are obedient to Him. And the blessings and promises in the Bible are reserved for only those who are obedient to Jesus – not those who claim to be saved.

- Living in the flesh/mammon guarantees pain, difficulties, emotional distraught, and even illness.
- Those who have satan as their father are at the mercy of their father, the devil. Meaning that it is up to satan whether to heal such people or not. And satan hates you.
- If a person is harboring unforgiveness, resentment, bitterness, and/or hatred, then God loses the legal grounds to heal that person. If a hurt has unforgiveness, resentment, bitterness, and/or hatred attached/associated with it, then it cannot be healed until the unforgiveness, resentment, bitterness, and/or hatred is removed.
- If you talk negatively about your hurts, then it will put curses over you to keep your hurts, thus stripping away the legal grounds for God to heal you.
- There exists a law within the Law that says: you will reap what you sew. In accordance to this law, if you sew evil, then you must reap it. So if you did something that caused your own hurt, then you must keep your hurt until you change or do something different.
 - A lot of hurts come from our own ignorance or foolishness. In such cases, the hurts cannot be healed until the person changes and stops doing whatever is causing their hurt. And once they stop, then they can be healed.

Reasons: People's Desires and Beliefs Prevent Them from Being Healed

- If a parent has a child and that child has hurts or physical problems, then the parent can prevent that child from being healed because the parent wants the child to be that way. This is a story I heard, which I will use as an example to this: there was a parent who had a disabled child. The parent received money from the government because of the child's disability. The child could not be miraculously healed of their disability because the parent wanted the child to have the disability. And since the parent had authority over the child, the parent blocked the child from receiving any kind of miracles or healing.
- Such a thing can be applied to anyone who is under the authority of another. If the one who has authority refuses the healing of the person they have authority over, then that (subordinate/dependent) person will not be healed. But if the person who has authority wants the other person to be healed, then it may happen. It is best to have authority over yourself if you want to receive your healing. If your authority over yourself is given to another, then it will be up to them whether you are healed or not.
- Your faith can also prevent you from being healed. If you are full of fear and doubt about receiving healing, then such a thing will block God from healing you. In order to prevent such things, healing ministers should share the victories and miracles they have had with people to help build a person's faith.
- It is possible for the faith of an elder to override the other person's faith and heal them. And if the minister is the spiritual authority over the person, then there may be legal grounds to take authority over the person to enable the healing.
- Your belief system can prevent you from being healed. If your belief system says that God no longer heals people or does not heal people, then you are calling God powerless and a liar. Therefore, He will not heal you.

Reason: Demons

A lot of the time, the hurts and illnesses are caused by demons. And the demons often work together with the hurts and illnesses. Even if the hurt or illness is healed, if the corresponding demon is not removed, the hurt or illness will return. Demons must be removed before or after the healing.

Having a demon (spirit of infirmity) on a person may block the healing of that infirmity (emotional or physical). There does exist demons whose specific purpose is to block the healing/miracles of God. If such a demon is on a person, then that demon will need to be removed before any healing can be done.

Reasons: Poor Diet, Health, Physical Condition, Stress

- The way your body is will affect your spirit and soul. If your body is worn out, then it will put an emotional strain on you. Chemical imbalances in the body can also cause hurts/emotional problems. Being sick will cause hurts/emotional problems. And even your physical condition can cause hurts and illness. It is important to make sure you eat healthy, stay in shape, and stay well.

For example: If a person is overweight and has been influenced by worldly factors of vanity and beauty, then just the fact of being overweight will cause emotional damage to the person and can cause things to be written onto their spirit like: "I am ugly," "I am worthless," "I am no good," "no one loves me, because I am fat," etc. And being overweight can become an infinite reality to cause permanent negativity to someone's self-esteem or view of themselves, which could keep them from becoming what God wants them to become. This can also be applied to any other physical condition or disability.

- Stress from life or situations can keep a person in an infinite reality, preventing them from being healed.

Reason: It Will Not Advance the Kingdom

There are some people who are selfish, wicked, and lazy servants. They think they are Christian because they fulfill the traditions of man, but in reality, they are wicked and lazy servants who do not do anything for the Kingdom. Other people may just be pagan or worldly people who do what they want in life. Such people do not get their healing because healing them will not advance the Kingdom. In fact, healing such a person may make the person even more selfish, conceited, entitled, wicked, and/or lazy.

Reason: You Can Get it Healed Yourself

This usually applies to physical healing, but I added it here so that you can learn. If a person is capable of healing something themselves, then God usually will not heal that person. If you can afford to go to the doctor that has the technology to heal you, but you refuse, then God will not heal you. However, if you are poor, and cannot afford to go to the doctor, then God may heal you.

(Now, exceptions exist where a person is planted in faith for God to heal them instead of man. And God will heal them.)

This reason can also apply to miracles. There was once a man who came from a poor nation. When the man lived in this poor nation, God would always turn water into wine. But then the man traveled to a rich nation and tried to perform the miracle. But God did not turn the water into wine. When the man asked God why, God simply replied: “Because you can go to the store and buy wine.” In the poor nation, wine was not available, but in the rich nation, wine was available. Learn from this.

Reason: You Brought it Upon Yourself

There are times when our own lack of knowledge, foolishness, or stubbornness causes us the hurt. For example, in stubbornness, a person may refuse to get over someone who left their life. This would cause pain. But since the person refuses to let go, then they cannot be healed.

The lack of knowledge comes about when you don't know the Laws of God, and you keep breaking the law, which causes you emotional damage and frustration. For example, you fail to honor wisdom with sacrifice (this is where you lay down your selfishness and arrogance and listen to someone's advice or learn from others and apply it). Failing to honor wisdom to sacrifice will cause you to fall into poverty, which will cause you hurts, frustrations, and difficulties.

Inner Healing: Autonomous Collectives

When it comes to inner healing, you will need to remove all legal grounds that allow the wounds to return. Since our autonomous collective contains the laws, boundaries, and curses we have, it will also need to be dealt with. Dealing with the autonomous collective is just like dealing with our spirit. So read the Inner Healing: Your Spirit section and realize that everything in there can be applied to rewriting your autonomous collective.

If you have already read about erasing and rewriting the things on your spirit, then there is no need to repeat all that again. Just ask God to rewrite and erase the things on your autonomous collective instead. Use what you have learned about autonomous collectives to help you know what to ask God for.

You will notice in the Inner Healing: Your Spirit section that there are examples. In those examples, you will find references where the prayer asks God to rewrite both the spirit and autonomous collective. I ask for both to be rewritten or erased at the same time because they can be interconnected and have similar things written upon them. And asking God to rewrite both at the same time prevents you from having to go through all the prayers twice – once for autonomous collectives and once for the spirit.

Beyond rewriting your own personal autonomous collective, you can rewrite the other autonomous collectives you have authority over. And you may need to do this to bring your environment or the area you have authority over under the control of God. And some of these things may even help with city and country autonomous collectives.

So, if you are trying to maintain the holiness of a city or country, then it will be imperative to maintain the autonomous collective of those places so that satan is always blocked from entering in. And so that the Holy Spirit, Jesus, and Father God are always welcome.

REWRITING YOUR HOME AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVE

If you want to rewrite or erase things over your home, you will need the legal authority to do it. And it will also need the approval of the people living in your home. However, if you have all the legal authority over the autonomous collective of your home, then you are free to write, erase, and change things at your own discretion.

But when you change things, you will also need the other people living who are living in your home to become obedient to the changes. When the things written on the autonomous collective are removed or changed, then you will have to change your habits and ways, too, otherwise the things which were previously written upon the autonomous collective will return.

Here are some examples:

--- Examples ---

Example 1:

If you want the entertainment stuff erased from your home's autonomous collective, then you will need to remove and change the entertainment physical objects, and technology, too. If you are aiming to have a Godly home, then you would remove all the bad (evil) entertainment stuff from the autonomous collective of the home, then follow through and remove the computers, televisions, radios, game systems, or any other form of technology which is used to entertain us in an ungodly way. You will have to remove them from the children, spouse, and other people living in your home. If you do not, then the bad entertainment stuff will be rewritten upon the autonomous collective of the home.

However, if the entertainment is Godly in nature, then you do not need to remove it. But if it is Godly and partially ungodly, then you may be able to remove the ungodly pieces of entertainment or at least block those devices from accessing ungodly entertainment. However, if the people who use such entertainment refuse to give up the ungodly things in it, then you may need to remove that piece of technology from the home so that ungodly entertainment is not accessed anymore.

But when doing this, you will need to consider the costs. The costs being: how much strife and division will it bring into the home? You and your spouse will need to be in agreement with the changes. If your children are young enough, then they will eventually adapt to the changes. But if they are in their teenage years or older, then problems could occur. If other adults are living with you, then they need to be in agreement with the changes, too. Everything needs to be done in love and in a peaceful manner.

If you try to change the autonomous collective and the environment of the home without the consent of others, then you can bring in something worse than the entertainment. And that is: strife, hatred, bitterness, conflict, disunity, resentment, and unforgiveness. And if it becomes a home of disunity and conflict, you will put upon you curses, which are worse than the curses you put upon yourself while engaging in ungodly entertainment. And if your home becomes a place of disunity and conflict, then you can expect to get the curses of entertainment back, too.

This not only applies to entertainment. This can apply to other things as well. I used entertainment as an example, so feel free to apply it to other things, situations, and ways of life within the home, too.

Example 2:

If you live with your spouse, then you will need to be in agreement with your spouse for things to work well.

If you are the husband, then you do have the legal authority to change things. But if your wife does not go along with the changes, then you will not have unity, and the laws written on the autonomous collective will not have as much power or will end up clashing, which opens up legal grounds for satan to get in. And such things will cause open doors. And you will not be able to establish the things you desire to establish. And you should not be harsh unto your wife and force her into it, for it will cause her to hate you. Then you will have conflict and division enter into your home.

If you are the wife, then consider that you and your husband are one flesh. Both of you need to be in agreement on a matter for it to be established legally. Legally, the husband is the head, for this is how God established things. If you decide to go against this, then doors can open to the spirit of Eve, the spirit of Jezebel, or the spirit of Herodias. And that can bring in all sorts of problems and issues and cause the spiritual downfall of the family.

If you are the husband and you have a rebellious wife, a worldly (fleshy) wife, or a wife who is not a believer, then know this: you probably already have an open door to the spirit of Jezebel. You will already have a spiritual battle on your hands. Changing the autonomous collective of the home will be difficult. You can make changes, but they will not be permanent. Most likely, those changes will start to deteriorate within the same day because of how your wife changes things with what she says, how she acts, and when she does things. If she can come into agreement with you on the changes, then there is a possibility of change.

If you are the wife and you have a rebellious husband, a worldly (fleshy) husband, or a husband who is not a believer, then know this: a rebellious husband will affect you spiritually because he is supposed to be your spiritual head. But a bad spiritual head will bring bad spiritual things upon you. (This applies to spiritual leaders, too.) It is best for you to submit to Jesus and do as Jesus tells you.

Concerning the autonomous collective of the home: you might be able to make some changes if the husband comes into agreement with you. You might be able to force some changes to the autonomous collective, but you might be venturing into witchcraft. Instead, live a holy life submitted to Jesus, and attempt small Godly changes, here and there, in an attempt to bring the heart of your husband into submission to Jesus. But be sure to raise your children in Godly ways regardless of what happens. And always pray for the salvation of your husband.

Example 3:

If you live alone or you are a single parent with children, then you have the legal authority to change the autonomous collective at your own discretion. However, beware of changing things that will cause disunity, conflict, resentment, hatred, or bitterness within others.

Example 4:

If you are a child living under an ungodly parent, then things are tricky. On one hand, you have to honor your parent and obey them. On the other hand, our one and true parent is Father God, who deserves to be honored above anyone else. And His instruction should always be followed first. Part of God's commands is to honor your parents.

So, respecting and obeying them is part of obeying God. But if your parent is telling you to do evil, then you should be obedient to God and do good instead. If you have a room to yourself within the home you live in, then you have some legal grounds to change the autonomous collective in that room and only that room.

In such a case, you can anoint the room (in each corner) and ask God to separate out the room to holiness and unto your own personal legal authority. And also, ask God to set up your own personal autonomous collective within the room. And then ask God to shield up the room from the demonic. And ask God to guard the room with angels.

Example 5:

If you are living with others and are the sole owner of the home, then you have the legal rights to set the rules and regulations in the home. Beware of causing disunity, conflict, unforgiveness, strife, bitterness, and resentment with the others who dwell in your home, especially if you try to remove or add physical things to the home or attempt to set new rules in the home.

If the others are not in agreement with how you want to change the autonomous collective, then the autonomous collective over the home will revert back once the other residents begin to say and do the things which were previously erased from the autonomous collective. Keep this in mind: you are not exempt from changing the autonomous collective. If you say and do the same things which were erased from the autonomous collective, then such things will be re-established.

--- End Examples ---

With any of those examples, changing the rules will probably be necessary to maintain the autonomous collective. The rules you set in your home will end up becoming laws, which will be written upon your autonomous collective. And those rules will be written onto the spirits of everyone living in the home who accepts them and decides to live by them. Be careful of which rules you make. All rules need to be Godly in nature and be in confirmation of the Word.

In any situation, be knowledgeable of both Example 1 and Example 5 (in this section) and attempt to maintain peace so that disunity, conflict, unforgiveness, strife, bitterness, and resentment does not enter into the home.

REWRITING OTHER AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVES

The concepts for the home can be applied to business, too. But in their case, it will be the owners and managers who have the majority of the legal grounds for autonomous collective modification. Cities and countries are more complicated because you need the majority rule of the citizens in order for there to be change. Meaning: you need the majority of people to be in unity and agreement on how the city or country should be (regarding anything and/or everything).

The rulers (government) of the city or country will have to be in unity with the people, too. Otherwise, there will be conflict. If the government is not in unity with the will of the people, then conflict, strife, and rebellion can arise. The government has a lot of power over the city's or country's autonomous collective. The words they speak will write onto the autonomous collective. If the government speaks curses over the people or the city/country, then it can cause the downfall of that city/country.

TEMPORARY AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVES

There are times when you may need to create your own temporary autonomous collective. And this is when you are constantly on the move, like traveling. Or it could be when you go camping. Or during times of war, during a tribulation period, or when Christianity is illegal and you must constantly flee. Or maybe, you live with someone, and you need your own sanctified area (which might (no guarantees) help to prevent their demons from affecting you or the other person's curses from falling upon you while you are in such an area).

( Note: I said "A" tribulation period, for there are many. It applies to "The" end times tribulation period and other times of tribulation.)

During these times, you may find yourself constantly living in different places. In such a case, the autonomous collective you are under will constantly change. Suppose you have a temporary living situation where you are living in a place for a short time. In that case, you can create your own temporary autonomous collective around you within your living area.

In order to create your own personal autonomous collective around you, you can do the following:

1. Anoint each corner of the area and dedicate it to Jesus.

If you are in a room, then anoint each corner of the room. If you are outdoors, then anoint at least four corners of the grounds to draw out a shape. If in a building, then anoint every corner on the outside of the building. If you share a room, then anoint your area or your bed.

If you do not have anointing oil, then you can use your spit. The anointed area does not have to be square in shape. It can be any shape you want. Just anoint the corners of that shape.

2. Cover the entire anointed area in the Blood of Christ. If in a building or room, then fill the entire area with the Blood of Christ instead. This will sanctify the area. You can ask God to do this for you. Or you can decree it to be so.

3. Remove any curses from the area. Either use a generic prayer, or if you have discernment, then find out what the curse is and directly remove it.
4. Take authority of that anointed area by decreeing: "In the name of Jesus, I take authority of the anointed area."
5. Ask God to set up your own personal autonomous collective to cover that anointed area.
6. Set up any rules or regulations within that autonomous collective.
7. Ask the Father for any kind of protection you will need for that area, such as shields, cloaks, and/or angels.

 As a side note: There may be a time when you will need to blot out the stuff on the existing autonomous collective because of the bad stuff on it. There are many ways to do this. You can decree it to be so. You can wash it off with the Blood of Christ. You can temporarily blot it out if it cannot be permanently removed. Or you can ask God to do it.

There are also times when you can shrink down an autonomous collective. Because people's autonomous collectives can overlap, the autonomous collective of an unbeliever can carry curses and open doors into your personal space, causing those things to affect you. It is possible to shrink down their autonomous collective to one millimeter within the body, so their autonomous collective will only affect them. (However, this may venture into witchcraft.)

WARNINGS ABOUT MAKING YOUR OWN AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVE

Sometimes, you are allowed to make your own autonomous collective. However, sometimes you are not because you do not have the authority to do so. If you attempt to steal authority to force an autonomous collective into existence, then this is witchcraft. This is what witches and warlocks do to gain illegal permission to do stuff. It is possible to steal authority. And it does work, but it comes with the consequences of doing witchcraft.

If you are in a time of war, then taking residence in an abandoned building would be common. And if the building is abandoned, then no one may have any legal authority over it anymore. And you might (no guarantees) have legal grounds to take authority and set up an autonomous collective within that building. Same with being in a forest, a cave, or outdoors somewhere.

If you are in a situation where you do need to set up your own autonomous collective, then take some time and seek God on whether you have legal grounds to do so.

Is it possible to set up an autonomous collective without taking authority? I am not so sure because you usually need authority to do such things. But here is something you can do: If you are unsure, then just ask God to set up the autonomous collective if it is legal to do so.

SHRINKING AND MOVING THE AUTONOMOUS COLLECTIVE

Christians should be mindful of the state of the autonomous collectives that surround them because the state of the autonomous collective will be a determining factor of their spiritual health. If a Christian maintains a holy autonomous collective of the home, then the home will be holy. If the collective Christian body of the city were in unity to maintain the city's autonomous collective, then the city would have all sorts of blessings and portals of Heaven above it.

Autonomous collectives are spiritual boundaries, but it does not mean that those spiritual boundaries are always fixed to a certain location or size. It is possible to expand, shrink, duplicate, and move an autonomous collective if you have the authority to do it. It is possible to expand, shrink, and move the autonomous collective of a physical location, too. You can do these things in a few different ways:

- 1) You can command it to happen by using the authority of Jesus. For example, you can decree, "The autonomous collective of this building shall be the size of this room and only be over this room, in the name of Jesus." And the autonomous collective of the building will shrink to the size of the room. (If you have the authority to do this)

- 2) If you have authority over the autonomous collective, like your own personal autonomous collective, then you can use your imagination to expand or contract it. It is easy to imagine the autonomous collective dome over you enlarging to a specific point, like to a wall, door, street, tree, piece of furniture, etc. And when you do that, your autonomous collective will expand or contract. You can imagine your autonomous collective as a cube, triangle, or any other shape you want. And this can be done with any autonomous collective you have authority over. Just have faith, and it will happen.

- 3) You can pray with your imagination. If you imagine pictures or something in action, then it is possible to pray that to God by just relaying the imagery in your imagination to God by using your intent and will. In this era, there is a saying that says, "A picture is worth a thousand words." So if a picture is a thousand words, then consider praying a picture is akin to praying a thousand words in less than a second.

With this concept, you can imagine what the autonomous collective does and pray that image and motion to God. If you cannot manage to pray with your imagination, then in your prayer, just describe what you would want to happen to the autonomous collective in detail.

Now I will tell you a personal story about one of my experiences:

I was working at a certain company. The spiritual environment was bad and worldly. I did not like working in it because all the curses of the place would fall upon me regardless of the spiritual warfare I did. So I started changing the autonomous collective of the place. I did many different things, but I will tell you about resizing and moving the autonomous collective.

When I was at work, I would often blot out everything on the autonomous collective to temporarily break the powers over the company. I would decree that everything was blotted out until I left for the day, and then the autonomous collective would return to normal after I left. This helped a lot because it broke the power of the various curses, which included: curses of accidents, incorrect orders, broken things, conflict, gossip, etc.

Such curses would make the day miserable because I would be fighting with demons all day long. Once it was blotted out, the demons did not have the normal legal grounds to do anything. However, when specific people worked with me during the day, like the ones who put the curses over the place, the curses would reactivate and affect me.

So I learned that their autonomous collective was overlapping with mine, which reestablished the curses around me. So I started shrinking down their autonomous collectives to one millimeter within their body while I was working at the company. But once they left for the day or I left for the day, then their autonomous collective would return to its normal size. And these things managed to reduce the problems I faced by about 90% because the demons would still find legal grounds to sneak in to disrupt things.

Then I started shrinking the autonomous collective over the company and relocating it to a single closet within the building, which basically threw all the curses into the closet. And with the authority of Jesus, I commanded the autonomous collective to stay in the closet until I finished my shift. Then I would imagine my autonomous collective covering the whole building, and it would expand to cover the building. Then I would shrink down every autonomous collective around each of my coworkers to one millimeter of their bodies. And with the authority of Jesus, I would command those autonomous collectives to stay that way for my entire shift.

When I started doing this, the entire environment changed. I could notice that the spiritual environment in the company felt like mine. And I noticed that I had a lot more command (authority) in the place. This was because my autonomous collective covered the place, which basically made me the principality over the place. People were also more cheerful, not as negative, and the demonic attacks stopped until someone changed the size of their autonomous collective.

One thing to understand is that a person's autonomous collective can change size based on what they think, do, will, desire, or say. When you change an autonomous collective that you do not have total legal rights to, then it can change at any moment. Since worldly people and almost all Christians (in this era) are oblivious to their autonomous collective, it is easy to change the size of someone's autonomous collective. You won't be able to change what is written upon it without their permission, but you can change the size of it.

And due to the same reasons, it is easy to change the autonomous collective of building you have a fraction of authority over. However, when you are under an autonomous collective that you do not have any legal authority to, you will not be able to change it or affect it in any way. And you will waste your time trying.

 As a side note: a principality is someone who governs an area. It can also be defined as: the one who has spiritual authority over an area. It can be anyone: demon, human, angel, etc. Usually, people in this era assume a principality as a ruling demon, but this is only partial truth. In reality, a human can be a principality over an area because they have authority over it. An angel can be a principality. An elder or an apostle can be a principality over a city because they have the legal spiritual authority over it.

INNER HEALING AND TAKING THINGS TO THE COURTS OF HEAVEN

I have come to learn that not every hurt is due to an issue you have in your life. And I have learned that some demonic attacks are not because of something you did. It is possible for other people to do things against you, which cause curses to fall upon those people and yourself. I will tell you about a personal experience so you can learn from it.

This experience involved a person who I had a good relationship with at one time. But due to the other person's selfishness, they cut contact with me and decided to have nothing to do with me. This caused disunity between brethren, and that caused the curses of disunity to fall upon both of us. However, I was still willing to be in unity with this person.

Because there was disunity between us, I ended up in a situation where I had constant demonic attacks that reminded me of the situation and the person. And it caused me a lot of pain and grief. For a while, I assumed it was me who needed the healing, so I tried inner healing, but it did not work. Then I would make up ideas that I just needed to get over the person, or that I needed to let go, or to forget them. But none of these things worked.

Then I asked God to show me the reason why I was getting attacked. Then one day, as I was out walking, God reminded me of what the person had told me a year prior: "That they can no longer have anything to do with me because of their preconceived "truth" that was based off a lie. And that is when I began to understand the underlying problem, which was: "They were purposely in disunity with me, and they are not willing to be in unity." And from this, the curses of disunity fell upon both of us.

The solution was to take things to the Courts of Heaven to argue my case. And so I did. In my imagination, I imagined standing in a Court of Heaven where I was in front of judges. I presented evidence of the letters between me and the person, the things said, how I felt about the situation, the fact that I was willing to be in unity, but they were not, and what was currently going on with the demonic attacks.

After trying to present my innocence in the situation, I asked the court to rule to block the curse from affecting me because it distracted me from working for the Kingdom. It was allowed, and the legalities of the curse were removed from me. (However, I assume that it was not removed from the other person.

A similar situation happened with a brother who came to dislike me. The brother was stubborn, arrogant, and lacked humility. He always wanted to be right, so the only way to reconcile with him was to call God a liar and submit to this brother's false accusations. I would not call God a liar, nor was I going to submit to false accusations.

But disunity curses still lingered because the brother refused to be in unity with me until I admitted that I was wrong and he was right. I was willing to be in unity with him. I had forgiven him for the offenses against me, too. So I took this case before the courts of Heaven, and they ruled to block the curse from affecting me.

I tell you my stories just in case you find yourself in a similar situation. And if you do, you can have a general idea of what you can do to solve the problem. But do not assume that the other person is the problem. Before assuming the other person is in the wrong, you will need to check to ensure you are not in disunity with the other person.

Disunity will cause curses to fall upon you and the person you are in disunity with. Disunity can cut off your tongues and keep you from hearing God. It causes separation from God, too. To heal disunity, you must repent, ask for forgiveness, change your stance upon the person, and be willing to be in unity with them, without exceptions. If you cannot do any of that, then you will remain in disunity with them, and the curses of disunity will be upon you. And one of those curses is the curse of poverty.

Back to taking issues to the Courts of Heaven: My personal experiences are just examples of disunity. The same concept can be applied to any situation, sin, or curse that falls upon you because someone else is at fault. Even if you are in an organization, denominational church, or the real city church and curses from the leadership or other people are falling upon you, then you can take those issues to the Courts of Heaven to have the negative things, like curses, blocked from affecting you. But you must be innocent in the issue. If not, then do not expect the courts to rule in your favor.

TO FUTURE GENERATIONS

These are some things I want the future generations to know:

Usually, writings (like prophetic writings) are not accepted by the generation(s) in which it is written. Or even when the prophet, pioneer, or courier (who wrote down the writings) is still alive. Usually, the writings are only recognized after the one who wrote them has died. It is pretty much the same for the prophets in the Bible. The Israelites hated Jeremiah and only accepted him as a prophet after his prophecies came true.

Apostle Paul's letters were not gathered until one or two generations after he died (67 AD). And the person who gathered them was Marcion of Sinope (85 AD to 160AD). And Marcion was considered as the founder of the Gnosticism religion, but he denied it. But history seems to hint at the idea that Marcion was a Paulinian (or he was just really obsessed with Paul). Marcion was the one who separated the Old Testament from the New Testament (or said they were different). And history shows us that God can use non-christian people to gather scriptures.

Likewise, I do not expect this generation to accept what I have to say except for a select few. So, I knowingly write this book for the future generations to come. So, if this book helps my generation, then great. If not, then it is no surprise to me.

To the future generations, I want you to know this: the Bible of this era (2023) is not complete. God is unchanging. He is the same in the past, as He is now, and as He is in the future. God did not simply stop talking to us or even stop authoring the Word on this planet. In this era, most of the authoring of the Word has been suppressed by the current church, which is pretty much controlled by satan.

Considering how far off track the church of this era is, it would not surprise me if God arranged things so that the Bible would not have additions until after satan's control of the church is removed. So, one day, after the Catholic church and its children (the denominations) are gone, the future generations should be able to choose which prophetic writings after 70 AD should be added to the Bible, thus, expanding it to multiple volumes. However, make sure you have only the elite of the elite approve of those writings. They will need to have a very good connection to the Holy Spirit and be Kingdom Minded to be able to tell the difference between what is trash and what is the Word.

To those who want to keep the tradition of having the Text Receptus (the original compilation of the modern Bible from the 1500s and what the KJV is based on), let me ask you this question:

If God is the same in the past, present, and future, then what is the difference between the words that He spoke in the past, present, and future that are written down?

The correct answer: None. They are all the same. What God speaks is what God speaks, regardless of when He spoke it. And when what He has spoken is written down, then it is written Word.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

I started turning towards God around the age of nineteen when a relationship failed. I fell into severe depression and started looking towards the Bible for answers. Soon after, a fire for God was lit within me, and I began to listen to sermons. Within three and a half years, I had listened to thousands of sermons.

During that time, I got involved in a local denominational church, and I became very learned in theology, even to the point of being knowledgeable enough to compare to a Ph.D. theologian. And with that, I had become a modern-day Pharisee. And I could no longer spiritually grow anymore. Such a venture lasted three and a half years.

Afterwards, God would move me along to listen to a modern-day Old Testament prophet of judgment. And I became his disciple for about seven years. I even lived with him for a few years. During that time, I learned a lot about the prophetic. I learned about miracles and wonders. I even gained the prophet rewards of calming the storms and calling in judgments. And this was my entree point into the prophetic.

During that time, I learned that the theology I had learned in the denominational church was full of lies, so I had to forget it all and partially start over. But I restarted with a prophetic background. After seven years of being under the prophet, God placed me under a couple of apostles. While under them, I learned more about the apostolic and the other side of the prophetic. I also grew in knowing about spiritual warfare, physical healing, and other miracles.

About four years into deliverance and dealing with demons, I started having problems with relationships again. And this caused me a lot of pain, so I started seeking God on how to heal the pain. More specifically, I wanted to know how the healing worked. And that started me down the path of inner healing. And come to find out, inner healing was really complex. I also learned that people are very broken spiritually in thousands and thousands of ways.

After two very painful relationships (my first fiancée and my second wife), I learned enough about inner healing to write this book. During those times, I not only sought out my inner healing, but I was also doing the inner healing on other people. And I learned many things through those interactions.

During my time of spiritual growth, I have gone from believing that demons and angels exist to seeing them. These days, I interact with the spiritual realm daily. I hear the Holy Spirit talk every day. I have seen the Holy Spirit. I have seen Jesus. I have seen angels. I have seen demons, lots of demons. Even to the point where seeing a talking baby dragon does not even phase me anymore.

I have battled my way through the heavens. I have taken on city principalities, country-level principalities, and world-level principalities. And I have fought against their armies, too. I have dealt with witches and warlocks and their magics. I have looked into hell. I have been burned by the flames of hell. I even stuck my hand in the lake of fire.

I have seen a lot concerning the spiritual realm. I have dealt with a lot concerning the spiritual realm. There are quite a few stories about my experiences with the spiritual realm that people will not believe. I have been constantly trying to live in both the spiritual and physical realms simultaneously because that is reality. I do not like being bound to only the physical realm. And due to that, I have kept seeking greater and greater discernment for seeing and hearing the spiritual realm.

And thanks to my search to learn how the spiritual realm works, I have learned a lot about inner healing and how it happens. And this book contains things I have learned during my dealings with the spiritual realm. And it includes those things I learned by observing how the spiritual realm interacts with the physical realm.